

Say $6 Million Ann Arbor Drug Ring Cracked

DETROIT (AP) — A third-year University of Michigan law student has been added to the list of persons still being sought in connection with what police say is a $6-million cocaine smuggling ring operating in Ann Arbor. A federal grand jury Monday indicted 24 persons, several of them former University of Michigan students, for allegedly helping to smuggle cocaine into the U.S., concealed in liquor bottles. Police say they are still looking for several of the 24, including Ronald G. Rossi of Uica, a third-year University of Michigan law student.

Officers of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) worked with Detroit police and other agencies to bust up the Ann Arbor-based ring whose operations, they said, extended to South America. Two of the alleged smuggling bosses are a husband and wife, University of Michigan graduates who lived across the street from the Michigan Stadium. They are Neil Ronald Ison, 27, and his wife, Mary Schneider Ison, 23. The federal government charged that the Isons and Karen Jean Haas, 25, arranged for illegal purchases of cocaine and other drugs in South America and recruited college-student couriers to bring the drugs back to this country illegally.

Authorities said the Ison group smuggled at least 75 kilograms of cocaine, each worth about $40,000, by converting the drug into a liquid and concealing it in liquor bottles. DEA officials estimated the Ann Arbor ring put more than $6 million worth of cocaine onto the streets in the Ann Arbor area.

A government spokesman said Ison and Haas allegedly paid their couriers between $10,000 and $15,000 a trip and seldom used the same couriers more than once. A federal source said Neil Ison apparently came in contact with cocaine dealers in Ann Arbor in the early 1970s. Ison reportedly befriended a student chemist who came up with a formula for liquifying the drug so it could be smuggled into the country more easily.

The U.S. attorney's office in Detroit charged Ison arranged a network of couriers to ship the drugs which were imported from Bolivia. Philip Van Dam, U.S. Attorney in Detroit, said police agencies already had arrested at least a dozen of the 24 named in the 24-page indictment.

Neil Ison's hometown is St. Clair Shores. His wife, Mary Schneider Ison, is from Longwood, Fla. Others named in the indictment and their hometowns:

James E. Gould of Drayton Plains; Karen Jean Haas of Detroit; Jeffrey K. Jack of Menominee; Robert R. Myrland of Muskegon; Joanne S. Pillinger of Park City, Utah; Joseph J. Steele of Pueblo, Colo.; Susan Steele of Uica; Michelle A. Tyler and Gregory P. Tyler of Evergreen, Colo.; David E. Brenner of Bancroft, Mich.; Katherine A. Swanson of Garden City; Michael L. Duvendek of Ann Arbor; Gregory B. French and Donald W. Gilbert of Flint; Oussama S. Hakim of Ann Arbor; David S. Bowles and Mark C. Bowles of Atlas, Mich.; and George J. Drew of Ann Arbor. Also listed were three Bolivians: Sanchez-Flores, alias "Gaspar," and two men known only as "Senior Berro" and "Roberto."

Riegle, Staffer Had 'Brief Relationship'

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Rep. Donald Riegle Jr. admitted Monday he had a "brief relationship" with one of his unpaid Washington female office workers in 1969, but complained about disclosure of the incident.

His Republican opponent in the race for the seat now held by retiring Democrat Philip Hart, Congressman Marvin Esch, said he thought the affair could affect his opponents' chances for election, but added he didn't feel the episode disqualified Riegle for the job.

The Detroit News, in a copyrighted story Sunday, said Riegle had an affair seven years ago with a woman who worked as a volunteer in his Washington office.

The 38-year-old Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate bitterly criticized Esch, and The News for publicizing the incident over the weekend.

Riegle, with his wife, daughter and parents at his side, told a news conference the relationship with his former office worker was "a foolish mistake and has been a source of great regret to me."

Identity of the woman was not disclosed and Riegle avoided questions about her, referring instead to a prepared release issued at the beginning of the news conference.

In his prepared statement, Riegle said: "I hold Marvin Esch personally responsible for the gutter level tone of this campaign by his statements and behavior. He has conducted a campaign of personal attack, malicious distortions, innuendo and outright slander."

"The Detroit News has been his willing accomplice in the personal attack and mud slinging."

"I would hope that an isolated incident that happened seven years ago would not be used to judge my entire life," Riegle added.

Martin S. Hayden, editor of the News, said "To my knowledge, Mr. Esch had no idea that the story would appear in the Detroit News, until he saw it."

Esch, traveling with Vice President Rockefeller in Michigan, told reporters in response to questions of whether he knew of the article beforehand, replied: "No, not at all."

Both Esch and Rockefeller said they thought the disclosure could have an adverse effect on Riegle's election chances.

Neither said, however, they thought it should be cause for disqualification as a candidate.

"I don't think you can separate personal integrity and public life," Esch said. "What I've tried to do all along is discuss the issues of this campaign. I'm going to continue talking about the issues."

Bahamas Executes American

NASSAU, The Bahamas (AP) — American Michael Shobek, his head covered by a black hood, was hanged today in the small gallows room at Her Majesty's Prison at Fox Head.

The execution came 29 months after Shobek, a 22-year-old Milwaukee handyman and would-be songwriter, confessed to the murders of three fellow Americans he described as "angels of Lucifer."

The death was confirmed by criminal investigation department chief Addington Darville.

Shobek's body was taken from the prison to Old Trail Cemetery, about two miles away. A small section of the cemetery is reserved for paupers and murderers and Shobek was to be buried there without ceremony.

It had been raining when Shobek was hanged shortly after dawn. The skies cleared and it was hot and humid as the hearse carrying his body arrived at the cemetery.

The five-acre section of the cemetery where he was buried was covered by rough stone. It had been bulldozed two weeks ago and human bones were strewn over the surface. Two graves were dug in the area after it was bulldozed and Shobek was buried in one of them.

There were 10 reporters and about 50 other spectators standing quietly at the cemetery.

Shobek, 22, a Milwaukee handyman and would-be songwriter, came to the Bahamas on vacation and had been imprisoned for the last 2½ years of his life.

Bahamian police kept all cars carrying foreigners away from the prison this morning. Blue uniformed officers stopped them two miles from the prison, told them they were not allowed to go further and warned of

The News said the incident occurred before Riegle was divorced from his first wife, Nancy, and before he married his second wife, Meredith Ann White.

Riegle called the newspaper story "the most vicious hatchet job I have ever seen in politics."

"The reason for the mudslinging is that Esch does not want to talk to the issues," he said.

Riegle, completing his fifth term in Congress, was elected first as a Republican and switched to the Democratic Party prior to the 1972 election.

A group opposed to capital punishment, the Bain Town Freedom and Justice Committee, had appealed Monday to the island's churchmen to protest the hanging.

But Shobek had exhausted all avenues of legal appeal and he was led Monday night into a small, whitewashed stone cell to spend the final hours.

Shobek, who came to these tropical islands as a tourist, was sentenced to death in the January 1974 knifing murder of Irwin Bornstein, 44, a New York accountant.

He also confessed to the murders of two other fellow tourists. He was not tried for those slayings.

He said he was told by "My father, God," to kill them because "they were angels of Lucifer."

Shobek's mother, Juanita Spencer, said her son was deranged by a childhood viral infection. She stayed in Milwaukee rather than be here for her son's execution.

Although tried only for Bornstein's death, Shobek also told of killing Katie Smith, 17, of Detroit, and Paul Howell, 50, a Massillon, Ohio, lawyer. All died within two months of Shobek's arrival here in November 1973. His defense during his trial was that he was compelled to kill.

The hanging of a Bahamian last February for killing a customs inspector drew protests from the Bain Town group and led to the arrest of 14 of its members.

"If we didn't hang people occasionally, the society would fall apart," a government spokesman said recently.

Accused Murderer Slaps At Two Berrien Officials

Gerald Libertowski, extradited to Berrien county to face a murder charge involving a Niles woman, made a pair of legal sallies against two Berrien county officials Monday.

Through his attorney, he announced he was filing a $5 million lawsuit against Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka today in Superior court in South Bend. And in Berrien Fifth District court he moved to have District Judge Ronald J. Taylor disqualified from hearing a preliminary examination into the murder charge.

Libertowski, 34, of South Bend, was acquitted in August in South Bend of a charge of murdering Janeice Langes, 21, of South Bend, and early this month was extradited to Berrien county to face a charge of murdering Mrs. Janis Sanders, 24, of Niles in 1975. Police investigators said he admitted living with each woman. Both women disappeared but their bodies have not been found.

The suit to be filed in South Bend Superior court alleges Smietanka was negligent in signing an affidavit that led to the extradition warrant, according to Atty. Glenn Miller, one of Libertowski's lawyers in the South Bend trial.

"There was no basis for extradition and there is still no evidence of death," Miller asserted.

The complainant in both murder cases is Myron L. Hunsberger of South Bend, who testified that Libertowski told him he killed the women. Attorney Miller said Hunsberger's affidavit filed with Michigan State police says he doesn't know where the Niles woman was killed. But, said Miller, Smietanka had Libertowski extradited to Michigan anyway.

Miller also said Smietanka has made public statements that he has a stronger case than Indiana authorities and the statements "have got to prejudice the case in the eyes of the public."

In Berrien District court yesterday, Judge Hugh Black denied Libertowski's motion to disqualify Judge Taylor from hearing the preliminary examination on the Michigan murder charge.

Libertowski's attorneys contended that Judge Taylor may be prejudiced in any decision he may make in the case because he is running for public office in the Nov. 2 election. Taylor is seeking a circuit court judgeship.

Following a two-hour hearing in which both Libertowski and Taylor testified, Judge Black said that he felt that in no way has Judge Taylor been politically motivated in the decisions he has made in court either before or after deciding to run for office.

"If we thought that (Judge Taylor was prejudiced because of his seeking higher office), we would have to disqualify him from every other case," Black said.

Since his extradition from Indiana, Libertowski was arraigned before Judge Taylor on Oct. 7, and has been held in Berrien county jail since without bail. Preliminary examination was scheduled today.

In giving testimony, Libertowski claimed that Taylor was prejudiced against him because the judge withheld bail from him during arraignment.

Libertowski also said that because Taylor was Prosecutor John Smietanka's former boss, the two may be in collusion and "fair play would not come in on my behalf."

Under questioning by both Deputy Prosecutor Jeffrey Long and court appointed defense attorneys, David Petersen and Stanley White, Taylor denied he had any prejudice against Libertowski or that he has spoken with Smietanka concerning the case.

Judge Black said that any judge must deny bond if he finds "proof evident or presumption great" that any defendant may have committed such a serious crime.

Wayne Welfare Scandal Widens

DETROIT (AP) — Two officials are being reassigned and another has been reprimanded while investigators probe a widening welfare scandal in Wayne County.

Robert A. Shelton, the Wayne County welfare department's top official, was reprimanded for failing to act more swiftly to stop the mismanagement and fraud that may have robbed his department of $1 million or more, a top state welfare official disclosed Tuesday.

While Shelton has escaped so far with only a verbal reprimand, two of his subordinates are being "reassigned" and could face other disciplinary action.

That announcement came from state welfare official John T. Dempsey, who said a long-awaited internal audit of the Wayne County program shows "hundreds of thousands" of dollars are unaccounted for. That figure could reach $1 million or more, investigators have said.

Dempsey, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services, said the audit has not uncovered any criminal activity, but reflects "the omissions and/or failures of a very few... Unfortunately, those very few were in positions of significant responsibility, which they did not discharge adequately."

Dempsey said Kenneth Jackson, chief of the Wayne County Fiscal Bureau, failed to operate a "competent and controlled fiscal system." Jackson and his assistant, Laurence Hempton, are being reassigned to Shelton's office.

Dempsey refused to release the audit until Shelton, Jackson and Hempton have had 10 days to prepare responses.

Dempsey said Jackson didn't tell his employees how to disburse welfare money. He said 18 of 19 offices under Jackson's supervision weren't given written procedures.

On prescription drug programs, Dempsey said, Jackson's fiscal office used 1976 price catalogs to process bills from 1974 and 1975. The result of this procedure was that state taxpayers were overpaying on prescription drug vouchers turned in by drugstores.

An unprecedented investigation by at least a half-dozen state and local agencies has already uncovered widespread overpayments to vendors for services provided to welfare recipients.

Agents also have uncovered at least three separate and organized "check rings" which are diverting and cashing checks illegally.

Lawful Gambling Spurs Unlawful Gambling

It was interesting testimony that James Ritchie, executive director of the Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling, gave the House Special Committee on Professional Sports recently. The essence of it was the state-run lotteries and other legal gambling activities have enticed many Americans into illegal gambling activities as well.

"Wherever legal gambling exists, illegal gambling increases," Ritchie testified. The reason, he said, is that legal gambling educates the citizen who previously did not gamble and soon he is looking around for the best odds.

Better odds on a winning wager, Ritchie added, can be had from illegal bookmakers. Another commission staffer testified that it isn't only the odds which favor the illegal operation. The bettor also can place his wager by telephone, credit frequently is extended and federal excise and income taxes are avoided.

What is interesting about this testimony is that it contradicts sharply one of the premises used in sponsoring state-run gambling activities — namely, that giving the individual a place to gamble legitimately would dry up the illegal operators.

Ritchie's testimony was confirmed, incidentally, by a recent University of Michigan study on gambling. Legal gambling facilities seem to stimulate illegal gambling, a team of U-M researchers found.

But their total report is not limited to this one conclusion. In fact, the exhaustive study by U-M's Institute for Social Research was so searching that a summary of the conclusions is warranted here to let readers know who gambles and why, as well as who benefits and who doesn't.

The study shows that in 1974 almost two of three Americans made some kind of bet. Nearly half the population bet more than $22.4 billion on commercial games, $17 billion legally and $5 billion illegally.

The study was done for the Commission on the Review of National Policy Toward Gambling, a joint Congressional commission established by the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970.

In the summer of 1975 researchers headed by Maureen Kallick, Daniel Suits, Ted Dielman and Judith Hybels interviewed a national probability sample of 1736 people and a sample of 296 people in Nevada.

Here are some of their findings:

(1) More males reported betting than females, more suburbanites than city dwellers, and more whites than blacks with two exceptions — a higher percentage of blacks bet on horses and at casinos.

(2) Catholics and Jews are more likely to bet than Protestants, but there are wide variations among Protestant denominations.

(3) Taxes on gambling fall most heavily on poor people, since the wealthy gamble proportionally less of their income away than do the low-income gamblers. As a source of revenue, state lotteries are almost twice as regressive as sales taxes. Legalized number games in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Rhode Island are even more regressive.

(4) Better-educated people and the higher salaried bet more, as do single and young people, 18 to 24.

(5) "To have a good time," "to pass the time," "to be challenged," and "to make money" are reasons offered most frequently for gambling.

(6) One male gambler in four gambles illegally compared to one female gambler in 11. While gambling in general mostly takes place in suburbs, the highest proportion of illegal gambling is in central cities.

(7) Forty-eight per cent of the respondents favor legalizing bingo, followed by horse tracks and state lotteries.

(8) Where gambling is already legal, most people favor their continuation.

(9) Fewer than 40 per cent of the people in the South favor legal gambling.

(10) Legal gambling facilities seem to stimulate illegal gambling.

(11) Of the estimated $8.3 billion in state revenue which the researchers claim could result from the legalization of gambling, only $1.2 billion is currently being realized.

(12) About 80 per cent of those surveyed favor some form of legal gambling.

Academy of Sciences also is something of a turnaround.

Honoring economics with a Nobel Prize is a relatively new event for the academy, but of the eight who have been so honored Milton Friedman stands alone as a champion of laissez-faire economics who believes monetary policies rather than fiscal policies govern economic cycles.

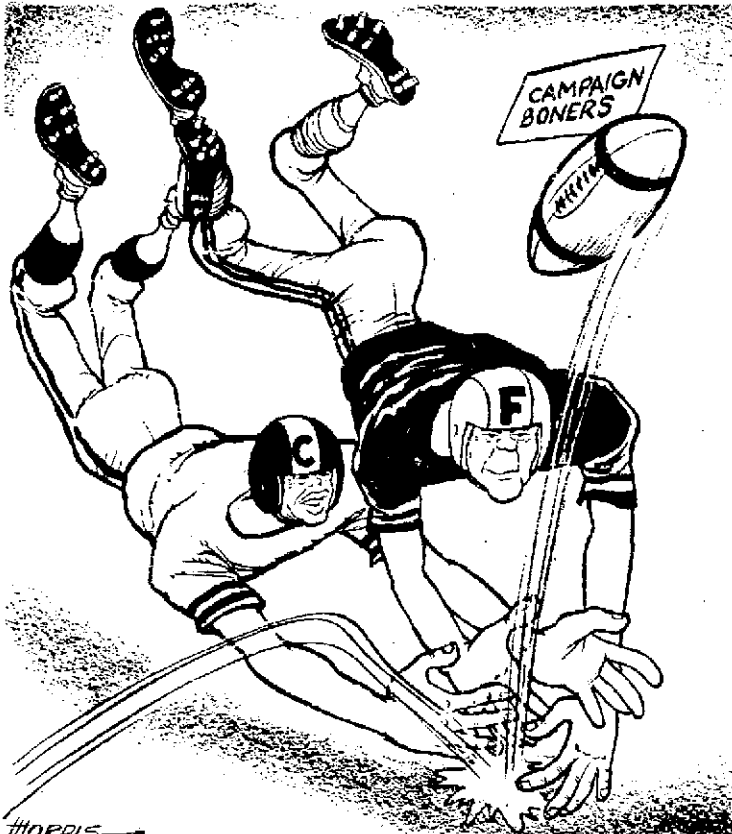

Finding an economic purist in the thicket of economists is difficult, and Friedman has been known to deviate from his basic tenets. He is a supporter, for instance, of the negative income tax, which would provide a subsidy to families receiving less than a livable wage.

But it is for his strong advocacy of a hands-off policy by government in most economic matters that Friedman has received renown among economic conservatives. It may be only coincidental that Friedman received his Nobel Prize at a time when governments in Western Europe and elsewhere are turning away from the paternalistic policies of socialism in favor of a freer market economy. Symbolic or not, the honor is well deserved.

ADVISORY BOARD MEETS AT LIBRARY

It probably will astonish Rep. Ray Mitten to know that there are people in Benton Harbor who do attend meetings at night at the Benton Harbor Public Library as well as other locations.

Some of the people who have met regularly for the past 23 months are the members of the Benton Harbor Citizens Advisory Board. Our most recent meeting was held at the Center on the corner of Forest and Territorial on Thursday, October 14, from 7 to 10:30 P.M.

The members of the Benton Harbor Citizens Advisory board are the kind of people who are concerned about the quality of life throughout the community. Evidently other people in the area were also concerned enough to attend the meeting last Thursday night.

Everyone is welcome at Citizens Advisory board meetings. We're determined that Berrien county, including Benton Harbor, will be a good community. We need the help of business and political leaders with positive attitudes.

SPENDING LIMIT 'LONG OVERDUE'

Editor,

On Nov. 2, Michigan voters will have what is probably their last opportunity to limit ever-increasing state spending and taxing.

This will be in the form of a "Yes" vote to Proposal "C" which is the proposed tax limitation amendment to the Michigan Constitution. This amendment will limit state government taxing and spending ability to no more than 8.3 percent of the total personal income in Michigan. This amendment will, for the first time, give voters direct control over how much of their incomes they are willing to commit to financing state government.

State services and current programs could continue to grow, within reason. The amendment, however, puts a firm, but flexible, limit on further growth of state spending by tying it more closely to the ability and the desire of taxpayers to support it. The legislature and the Governor retain the authority to determine how state government spends its money within the overall limitation.

Proposal C was placed on the November ballot by a coalition of concerned citizens and taxpayers who gathered over 350,000 petition signatures. Almost half of all the legislators in the Michigan House of Representatives and Senate, both Democrats and Republicans, endorsed the petition drive.

In the face of rising costs on every side, taxpayers are finding an increasing share of their income is taken by government each year, leaving less and less for improving the quality of their lives. The tax limitation amendment offers hope for every citizen that the State of Michigan can grow on an orderly basis while continuing to meet its commitments to serve all the people through essential programs and services.

A "Yes" vote on Proposal C is earnestly solicited — a limit on government spending is long overdue.

A special committee appointed by the Berrien county board of supervisors reported today on the division of the county into two new legislative districts. It is required by law that the county shall be redistricted every five years in order to keep pace with the population of the different sections of the county. There have been four important changes made. Watervliet township has been changed from the first to the second district. Sodas has also been changed from the first to the second. A like change has been made in Bainbridge township. Lake township is changed from second to first. The population of the northern part of the county is growing much faster than that of the southern part. It is prophesied that within a very few years, the first district will be narrowed to Benton Harbor and St. Joseph cities alone, with the balance of the county comprising the second district.

Soviet Science Can Help U.S.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — John W. Kiser, III, writing in Foreign Policy, argues that détente with the Soviet Union need not be a one-way street, with all benefits going to the Russians. If détente turns out that way, he seems to suggest, then it may be our fault for being blind to opportunities staring us in the face.

He's referring to the scientific-technical drain — whereby the Soviet Union apparently is on the way to milking this country of hard-won breakthroughs, bolstering the wobbly Russian economy by modernizing their outdated manufacturing processes and improving the quality of their military hardware. Yet giving the United States little or nothing in return.

Kiser suggests that Soviet scientists have made a respectable number of scientific breakthroughs of their own which could be of immense value to this country.

He argues, and in this he is in agreement with findings of the National Science Foundation, that the slow pace of Russia's industrial advance lies not in the inability of Soviet scientists to make great discoveries, but rather in the inability of the Soviet system to incorporate those discoveries into usable hardware, advanced manufacturing techniques and into practical use in mining without excessively long delays.

To take one example which I have studied in depth, Soviet scientists have done exceedingly fine work in computer technology. They are, however, well behind us in the development of advanced computers and in the software needed to make the most effective use of computers and computer systems.

Kiser suggests that if we put our efforts to the task, American science and industry might be able to latch on to a goodly number of these Soviet scientific discoveries, using them to improve our own industrial methods. We might, he hints, even be able to put Soviet discoveries to practical use here before the unwieldy Soviet system was able to absorb and utilize them at home.

He lists 17 examples of "Soviet technology in use or in development for commercial applications by U.S. companies" — a particle accelerator by Energy Sciences, an evaporation cooling process for blast furnaces by Andco, magnetic impulse welding for nuclear fuel elements by Maxwell Laboratories, titanium hip prosthesis by U.S. Surgical, underground coal gasification technology by Texas Utility Services, a method for leaching aluminum from alunite ore by Southwire, and others.

This, says Kiser, could be the tip of an iceberg. He says the Russians are "world leaders" in the development of hydrofoil craft, that they are "far ahead of the United States" in the development of hydraulic mining techniques, that parts of the Soviet iron and steel industry "are superior to ours, particularly in the design and operation of coke ovens and blast furnaces." That Soviet technology is excellent in superconductors and magneto-hydrodynamics, of great importance in increasing the efficiency of our power industry.

From my own reading of translations of Soviet scientific and technical magazines over the years, it would seem the opportunities for American advantage are exceedingly great. Great, that is, if we can open the doors wide to an import of these Soviet breakthroughs.

The Soviets, it would seem, are willing. They applied for roughly 500 patents in this country in 1974.

Dole Inspiration To Handicapped

With the Dole Campaign (NEA) — it was only a brief moment in Robert Dole's exhausting bid for the vice presidency. But it was nice. The candidate was in Newark, N.J., riding in a parade, when some men in the street hoisted a large poster drawing of a twisted hand which contained this crude but tender inscription:

"A four-letter word for Bob Dole is Guts!"

It may have been the most nonpartisan tribute of this election season. Each of the principal candidates has admirable qualities, for example each of them is a small-town American with quite humble beginnings, but the junior senator from Kansas is also something of a spiritual inspiration. He is a handicapped citizen, crippled if you will, and one does not have to be Republican to appreciate his courage.

The story of his disability is by now familiar to those who have followed the news of the hustings. When he was 21, and a World War II infantryman in Italy, Dole led a charge against an angry German machine-gun emplacement. So doing, he received shell fragments in the shoulder and several cracked vertebrae. He spent 39 months in repair, much of it wrapped in a cast from neck to trunk.

His right arm is now only slightly withered, but virtually useless. He can use the elbow as a paperweight, and the curled hand to hold light objects. Otherwise, he has one arm, and therefore must spend 30 minutes to an hour getting dressed, must ask for assistance in some of his dining habits, and must endlessly guard against the exuberant voter who tries to grab him for a well-meaning but painful handshake.

Three decades after receiving his wounds, Dole still suffers from pain. Not terribly, he says, but occasionally. He thinks it's a matter of improper circulation. For instance he feels cold weather more than he'd like. Aides say he must sometimes take mild painkillers. Beyond these brief comments, neither Dole nor his staff talk at length about the disability. Apparently they do not want to appear to be milking sympathy. Dole occasionally makes light of the injury, telling once that he hoped to be vice president because it is an inside job with no heavy lifting, otherwise, as he should, he minimizes the problem, perhaps thankful, considering war, that it is no worse.

And yet throughout his eight years in Congress, and also during this campaign, he has hoped others in similar circumstances might benefit from his example. During the Republican-convention he conspicuously used a sign-language translator during his podium remarks. Last month he showed up at a Miss Wheelchair American pageant. And he has told leading physical rehabilitation officials, politics notwithstanding, to "use me this election, use me any way you can."

Such use could be considerable, particularly if Dole wins in November. Milton Kahn, director of the Federation of Handicapped (New York), reminds that when Franklin Roosevelt served as president from a wheelchair, his influence on rehabilitation services was immeasurable. He inspired the March of Dimes campaign against polio, for one thing, leading to medical research and immunization.

So this is why Bob Dole is inspirational. He reminds us that with help and fortitude the handicapped are not so sad as neglect would have it. Once, as he has said, "My primary interest was how well I could do on a basketball floor (and) whether I could catch a football." Then he was injured and his friends helped him to overcome his loss. "I learned to understand that I was very fortunate. It's ability that counts, not disability. It's how we act and perform."

Right now are Bob Dole. The poster in Newark said it all.

Lawful Gambling Spurs Unlawful Gambling

It was interesting testimony that James Ritchie, executive director of the Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling, gave the House Special Committee on Professional Sports recently. The essence of it was the state-run lotteries and other legal gambling activities have enticed many Americans into illegal gambling activities as well.

"Wherever legal gambling exists, illegal gambling increases," Ritchie testified. The reason, he said, is that legal gambling educates the citizen who previously did not gamble and soon he is looking around for the best odds.

Better odds on a winning wager, Ritchie added, can be had from illegal bookmakers. Another commission staffer testified that it isn't only the odds which favor the illegal operation. The bettor also can place his wager by telephone, credit frequently is extended and federal excise and income taxes are avoided.

What is interesting about this testimony is that it contradicts sharply one of the premises used in sponsoring state-run gambling activities — namely, that giving the individual a place to gamble legitimately would dry up the illegal operators.

Ritchie's testimony was confirmed, incidentally, by a recent University of Michigan study on gambling. Legal gambling facilities seem to stimulate illegal gambling, a team of U-M researchers found.

But their total report is not limited to this one conclusion. In fact, the exhaustive study by U-M's Institute for Social Research was so searching that a summary of the conclusions is warranted here to let readers know who gambles and why, as well as who benefits and who doesn't.

The study shows that in 1974 almost two of three Americans made some kind of bet. Nearly half the population bet more than $22.4 billion on commercial games, $17 billion legally and $5 billion illegally.

Award To Friedman Is Timely, Deserved

It may have nothing to do with the fact Sweden's voters this year turned away from socialism for the first time in 44 years, but the Nobel Prize in economics to Milton Friedman awarded by the Swedish Royal mission on the Review of National Policy Toward Gambling, a joint Congressional commission established by the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970.

First Baum Killer Draws Life Term

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A man convicted of second degree murder in the 1973 shooting death of Benton Harbor grocer Sam Baum was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to life imprisonment. Judge Julian E. Hughes imposed the sentence on Nathaniel Johnson, 21, of 695 McGuigan street, Benton Harbor. Johnson was one of three men indicted by the Berrien citizens' grand jury in connection with Baum's murder.

"It is mandatory that a prison sentence be imposed," Hughes told Johnson. "and after considering all the facts and the nature of the crime the court feels it must impose a maximum sentence."

NATHANIEL JOHNSON

Johnson made few comments during the sentencing, but did tell the judge he felt one of the prosecution witnesses during the trial was guilty of "perjury." Hughes replied that matter was out of his hands, and suggested Johnson make a complaint to the prosecutor's office about the witness' testimony.

Johnson was accused in the shotgun death of Baum on April 23, 1973, at Baum's grocery store on Elford street in Benton Harbor. Although no money was apparently taken from the store, the prosecution during the trial claimed the shooting came during an attempted armed robbery.

Amos Ray, Jr., 26, of Benton township, who was convicted at the same time as Johnson, is still awaiting sentencing, and Johnson's brother, Anthony, 22, is still awaiting trial.

Johnson, his brother, and Ray, were arrested on murder charges the day after Baum's death but were released when key witnesses failed to testify. The trio was indicted by the grand jury after the same witnesses testified in secret grand jury proceedings and later in court.

Three other proposals all carried: Should all children riding bicycles be required to pass a bike driving test? 110 to 89. Should drivers of cars be required to drive at lower speed to save gasoline? 149 to 50. Should throwaway bottles be banned? 144 to 53. Chicago TV Station Will Do BH Story Fascination with events in Benton Harbor by the Chicago news media continues to grow as Bill Kurtis of WBBM-TV in Chicago said yesterday his station will air a program on Benton Harbor Sunday. Kurtis, co-anchor man for Channel 2, spoke at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Twin City Rotary club held at the St. Joseph Elks lodge.

The story on Benton Harbor will be on the "Two on Two" program that features Kurtis and Walter Jacobson, the other WBBM co-anchor man. "Two on Two" will begin at 11:30 p.m. Michigan time.

Kurtis was unable to comment on what the content will be because his segment of the program was not taped as of yesterday. He will do the narration. The program will include footage of Benton Harbor.

However, Ira Miskin, one of the producers of "Two on Two", contacted by The Herald-Palladium, said the story will basically be dealing with a town that has faced hard times and "is trying to regenerate."

The Chicago Tribune recently did a story on Benton Harbor and an official of WMAQ-TV (Channel 5) in Chicago was quoted in The Chicago Tribune as saying Channel 5 is interested in doing a story on Benton Harbor.

Asked why the sudden splurge in the interest in stories on Benton Harbor, Kurtis responded, "It's a city going through a lot of changes."

Other topics covered by Kurtis yesterday included the presidential race. He said, "The winner of the election will be the man who commits the fewest mistakes." He added that, "Carter is wearing down and wearing the press down."

Kurtis said he was puzzled by the fact that Democrat Jimmy Carter has kept coming to Chicago, a city he (Carter) "has locked up." Kurtis said he later deduced Carter visited Chicago so much because he "feels safe there."

The Rotary audience was presented a detailed account of a story Kurtis recently covered involving a plane headed from New York to Chicago that was hijacked.

Kurtis' chase after the story led him from Chicago to Detroit to New York to London and finally to Paris where the hijackers surrendered and their hostages were set free unharmed.

Kurtis said both Gerald Ford and Carter are among the many people he has interviewed, but the most interesting subject was Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, a psychiatrist who has done research into life after death.

Kurtis said the interview with Dr. Kubler-Ross, who believes in life after death and reincarnation, will be shown on WBBM in November.

SJ Township Drain Payment Wins Approval By 4-3 Ballot

The St. Joseph township board last night voted 4 to 3 to pay the first year's assessments totaling about $12,300 levied against owners of the 25 parcels of land in the Nelson storm drain assessment district.

Last night's action follows complaints of high assessments made at last month's board meeting by about 20 people who live in the Nelson road-Washington avenue neighborhood.

Township Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio and Trustee Robert H. DeVries Sr. warned that by assuming the property owner's burden the township was setting a bad precedent. Trustee Sally Muth joined them and voted against the measure.

Voting in favor were Clerk Bill Payne Smith, who introduced the resolution, Supervisor Orval Benson and Trustees Carroll Gerbel and Carl Reschke.

Benson noted high assessments levied against some individuals. One was reported at over $10,000 for the five years on 10 acres of land and a home owned by Miss Margaret Garlanger, 80.

Benson said that the measure will give property owners relief for a year, during which time they can apply for state relief under a new bill or petition the township board to extend the payment length from five to 30

DiMaggio, questioning the legality of the township paying personal assessments from the general fund, said that a written legal opinion should be in the hands of trustees before making such a move.

As originally divided, the cost for the nearly-completed project would be $37,567 by individual property owners; $24,085 by Peoples Savings Association for three parcels it owns; $23,846 by the township and $9,500 by the county.

Also last night the board, over the objections of several people in attendance, granted a building permit for construction of a 92-unit apartment at 3385 Lake Shore drive to American Homestead Corp., Kalamazoo.

Bill Sorrells and Robert Pozniwko, both of St. Joseph township, told the board that there are already too many apartments in the Shoreham-South St. Joseph area.

John Helsley, Shoreham village president, told trustees that the Shoreham council is "conservatively opposed" to the plan and recently voted the portion of the development that included a swimming pool and recreation center that was to be built in Shoreham.

As originally planned, Kalamazoo Atty. John Oosterbaan told the board, his client's development would straddle the St. Joseph township-Shoreham village limit. Benson pointed out that under the resolution passed last night those items, with approval of the township building inspector, can be built in the township.

In February of 1973 the board approved rezoning of the property for the $1.3 to $1.4 million apartments. Oosterbaan said last night that rentals will run from $220 minimum on a one-bedroom apartment to $275 to $285 for a two-bedroom unit.

Before construction begins American Homestead must secure a performance bond, which guarantees that once begun the project will be completed in accordance with the original plans, and have the township building inspector approve final plans.

Also at the meeting a number of citizens who live in the Pinebrook I and Pinebrook II drainage districts expressed fears that The Herald-Palladium's new plant will further aggravate basement flooding problems they have been experiencing. The plant site is on Hollywood road in the southwest quadrant of the Niles road-I-94 interchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hicks, who said they live on Arbor street, just west and downhill of the site of the proposed plant, said the drain they and their neighbors use can't stand an extra gallon of water.

Benson told the Hicks and others that a resolution by the board will be needed to allow the Palladium to use the drain. He said the board probably won't take any further action on the drainage problem until its next regular meeting, Nov. 1 at 7:30 p.m. Citizens will be advised of the meeting.

In other business, the board: Appointed Richard McCullough, 22, of 1877 Colfax, St. Joseph township, as a member of the township's reserve police force.

Granted a permit allowing Ray Mitchell to build a 52-unit mini-storage facility on Hawthorne avenue between Lake Shore drive and Cleveland avenue. Mitchell is associated with Investment Guarantee Co., a division of Berrien Real Estate.

Benton Drive For Dystrophy Funds Planned

Benton township firemen from station No. 1, 1056 Territorial road, will hold their March for Muscular Dystrophy Oct. 25 and 26, according to John Haak, the station's march chairman. Haak said hours will be 6 to 9 p.m. The march also may be held Oct. 27 if all areas are not covered the first two evenings.

Two Get Executive Positions

Joseph R. Gransee and A.J. Parrino have joined Siebert-Netedu Marketing Services as executive vice president and account supervisor, respectively, according to C. Stuart Siebert, president of the firm in Benton Harbor.

Gransee's major responsibilities with Siebert-Netedu include supervising agency services to Whirlpool Corporation, and agency administrative operations, according to Siebert. He has worked the past 25 years for Admiral Corporation where he served as national advertising manager since 1974.

Gransee is assigned to Siebert-Netedu headquarters at 683 West Main street, and Parrino is assigned to the company's Chicago office.

Parrino's prime assignments at Siebert-Netedu will include supervision of the agency's bank accounts, according to Siebert. Before joining Siebert-Netedu, Parrino was account executive of Kuttner & Kuttner Advertising, Chicago, for Lake Shore National bank and for General Electric midwest regional accounts.

Lincoln Has Ally In Fight

The St. Joseph township board last night voted to join with Lincoln township board members in a legal fight to recover eventual repair costs for defects discovered in the Hickory creek sewer interceptor.

Board members unanimously authorized Supervisor Orval Benson "to take whatever legal action is necessary to protect the interests of St. Joseph township regarding the defective interceptor sewer line, provided the legal expense is shared equally by Lincoln township," according to the resolution.

Lincoln township last week voted to spend up to $2,500 for the preliminaries to a suit, provided that St. Joseph township joins on an equal basis.

Also at last night's meeting, Benson pointed out "an inaccuracy" in what he called an otherwise "good editorial" that appeared in Saturday's Herald-Palladium. The editorial traced what it called the "comedy of errors" that have accompanied the Hickory creek project since its inception 10 years ago. The editorial stated that the St. Joseph township board was "the moving party" in the project.

Actually, according to Benson, the moving parties in the project were Rep. Harry Gast Jr., then Lincoln township supervisor; James Small, then Stevensville mayor; and Ray Smit, engineer with the Ann Arbor consulting firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May. Benson said that by the time St. Joseph township decided to tie into the interceptor, the moving parties "had already chosen the route and gotten cost estimates."

Benson said that he and the board "won't point fingers" of fault at any party.

Trustee Robert H. DeVries Sr. said a lawsuit might seek from $100,000 to $10 million from the contractor and/or manufacturer or maker of the pipe.

A television camera pulled through the St. Joseph township section of the pipe in search of defects showed that 265 feet of NAMED: James Small (left), former Stevensville village president, and Rep. Harry Gast Jr., former Lincoln township supervisor, led the way in controversial and expensive Hickory creek sewer interceptor, St. Joseph township Supervisor Orval Benson said last night. corrugated metal pipe in four locations are more than 20 per cent out of round — squashed. Repairs on the interceptor, which was completed in 1974 at a cost of $3.2 million, could cost several million dollars and involve moving or rebuilding lengths of the line, DeVries added.

The line connects sewer systems in Lincoln and St. Joseph township to the Twin Cities treatment plant in St. Joseph. The townships shared in the costs of construction.

VW BUS FLIPS, DRIVER UNHURT: Driver of this Volkswagen bus, John Thomas Autry, 22, of 1029 Lavette street, Benton Harbor, escaped injury Monday when it flipped at service station about 3:20 p.m. Benton township police said no pumps were struck at Zephyr Service station, 1808 M-139. Police said Autry was arrested on charge of driving while license revoked and later was released on $100 bond. He also was ticketed for careless driving, police said. Police reported Autry said he swerved to avoid a car that stopped ahead of him and went over the curb. (Jed Roberts photo)

Trick-Treat Hours Are 6 To 7:30

Official trick-or-treat hours for Halloween will be 6 to 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, for St. Joseph township children, the township board decided last night.

Mrs. Mildred Hart, chairman of the township's public safety committee, said the early end to trick-or-treating will help insure the children's safety.

First Baum Killer Draws Life Term

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A man convicted of second degree murder in the 1973 shooting death of Benton Harbor grocer Sam Baum was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to life imprisonment. Judge Julian E. Hughes imposed the sentence on Nathaniel Johnson, 21, of 695 McGuigan street, Benton Harbor. Johnson was one of three men indicted by the Berrien citizens' grand jury in connection with Baum's murder.

"It is mandatory that a prison sentence be imposed," Hughes told Johnson, "and after considering all the facts and the nature of the crime the court feels it must impose a maximum sentence."

Johnson made few comments during the sentencing, but did tell the judge he felt one of the prosecution witnesses during the trial was guilty of "perjury." Hughes replied that matter was out of his hands, and suggested Johnson make a complaint to the prosecutor's office about the witness' testimony.

Symbols 'Talk' For Disabled

By ROSEMARY SINGLETON
WATERLOO, Canada (AP) — Cameron Callas of Waterloo in Ontario province is a friendly, outgoing 22-year-old.

He likes people and enjoys communicating with them. But he has a problem.

Callas suffers from severe cerebral palsy. He has difficulty communicating verbally because he lacks the muscular coordination necessary for controlled movement and speech.

It has been frustrating — and isolating.

But last year this changed. A neighbor, Suzanne Stark, a teacher of the disabled, cracked the communication barrier. She introduced Callas to a substitute for the spoken word — a symbol board that enables him to express his wants and needs.

Blissymbolics is a finger-pointing system designed to teach by symbols those unable to read. Under each symbol is written the corresponding word.

There is also a symbol for action that turns a noun into a verb. When the action symbol tops the word "mouth," it becomes the verb "to speak." Similarly with the sign for legs: when topped with the action symbol it becomes the verb "to walk."

Callas and three other non-verbal people were the first physically-disabled adults in the Kitchener-Waterloo area to participate in the $26,358 Local Initiative Program (LIP) grant project spearheaded by Mrs. Stark.

She was assisted in the eight-month program by Audrey Gellatly, Dorinda Keith, Jacqueline Maynes, Terri Romero and Barry Clark.

Prior to applying for the LIP grant, Mrs. Stark had been teaching six disabled adults spelling, reading, history and geography for the Kitchener-Waterloo Services for Physically Disabled Adults.

Because of a lack of facilities when they were children, these adults could read very little or not at all. Callas, a member of the class, "was so enthusiastic he rarely missed a lesson in four years." Being non-verbal, however, limited his answers to a simple "yes" or "no."

Mrs. Stark felt a better communication method could be developed for these adults, so she visited the Ontario Center for Crippled Children in Toronto to study the Blissymbolics method of finger-pointing communication.

She found a champion in Shirley McNaughton, program director of the Blissymbolics Foundation in Toronto. Mrs. McNaughton pioneered the communication method at the crippled children's center in 1972.

The symbols were devised in 1942 by Austrian-born chemical engineer Charles Bliss to promote international understanding. He had no idea it would be nearly 30 years before the method would be used or that its first use would be by physically disabled youngsters.

Mrs. Stark and her team of five found that the disabled adults responded well to the symbols method. Being able to "speak" eased their frustration.

Mrs. Stark noted that word boards were irregular in design and content. She did research on the subject and found a lack of standardization.

Mrs. Stark and Mrs. Gellatly and Clark, developed a series of word boards to adequately meet the emotional dynamics and social concerns of nonverbal adults who can read.

Using the name Basic

Experimental Communications System (Basecom) they devised two types of boards which are currently under applied use at Kitchener-Waterloo hospital.

The first board serves to relay primary physical and emotional messages and the second encompasses a wide range of physical, emotional and social areas of experience.

Blank spaces on the color-coded boards allow for addition of words meaningful to the particular person using them.

The research team found a need for a vocabulary to express grief, despair and hope so they added a "Good Grief" section. "This emotional vocabulary is vital. It enables a non-verbal person to work through rough times with someone else, just as a verbal person does," said Mrs. Stark.

Now that the LIP funds have run out the team is seeking further funding. "We're still working with our students. Just because we haven't funds, we can't desert them at this plateau of learning," the group's leader said.

Hogs Yield More Meat

Improvements in feeding and breeding have brought about changes in pork production in the last 15 years.

The average hog today yields 14½ pounds more meat — about the weight of an extra ham — than the average hog 15 years ago. But the total weight difference between today's hog and yesterday's is less than two pounds.

Symbols 'Talk' For Disabled

By ROSEMARY SINGLETON
WATERLOO, Canada (AP) — Cameron Callfas of Waterloo in Ontario province is a friendly, outgoing 22-year-old.
He likes people and enjoys communicating with them. But he has a problem.
Callfas suffers from severe cerebral palsy. He has difficulty communicating verbally because he lacks the muscular coordination necessary for controlled movement and speech.
It has been frustrating — and isolating.
But last year this changed. A neighbor, Suzanne Stark, a teacher of the disabled, cracked the communication barrier. She introduced Callfas to a substitute for the spoken word — a symbol board that enables him to express his wants and needs.

Blissymbolics is a finger-pointing system designed to teach by symbols those unable to read. Under each symbol is written the corresponding word.
There is also a symbol for action that turns a noun into a verb. When the action symbol tops the word "mouth" it becomes the verb "to speak." Similarly with the sign for legs: when topped with the action symbol it becomes the verb "to walk."
Callfas and three other non-verbal people were the first physically-disabled adults in the Kitchener-Waterloo area to participate in the $26,358 Local Initiative Program (LIP) grant project spearheaded by Mrs. Stark.

She was assisted in the eight-month program by Audrey Gellatly, Dorinda Keith, Jacqueline Maynes, Terri Romenco and Barry Clark.
Prior to applying for the LIP grant, Mrs. Stark had been teaching six disabled adults spelling, reading, history and geography for the Kitchener-Waterloo Services for Physically Disabled Adults.
Because of a lack of facilities when they were children, these adults could read very little or not at all. Callfas, a member of the class, "was so enthusiastic he rarely missed a lesson in four years." Being non-verbal, however, limited his answers to a simple "yes" or "no."
Mrs. Stark felt a better communication method could be developed for these adults, so she visited the Ontario Center for Crippled Children in Toronto to study the Blissymbolics method of finger-pointing communication.
She found a champion in Shirley McNaughton, program director of the Blissymbolics Foundation in Toronto. Mrs. McNaughton pioneered the communication method at the crippled children's center in 1972.
The symbols were devised in 1942 by Austrian-born chemical engineer Charles Bliss to promote international understanding. He had no idea it would be nearly 30 years before the method would be used or that its first use would be by physically disabled youngsters.
Mrs. Stark and her team of five found that the disabled adults responded well to the symbols method. Being able to "speak" eased their frustration.
Mrs. Stark noted that word boards were irregular in design and content. She did research on the subject and found a lack of standardization.
Mrs. Stark and Mrs. Gellatly and Clark, developed a series of word boards to adequately meet the emotional dynamics and social concerns of nonverbal adults who can read.
Using the name Basic

Experimental Communications System (Basecom) they devised two types of boards which are currently under applied use at Kitchener-Waterloo hospital. The boards will eventually be available in French, German, Polish and Spanish.
The first board serves to relay primary physical and emotional messages and the second encompasses a wide range of physical, emotional and social areas of experience.
Blank spaces on the color-coded boards allow for addition of words meaningful to the particular person using them.
The research team found a need for a vocabulary to express grief, despair and hope so they added a "Good Grief" section.
"This emotional vocabulary is vital. It enables a non-verbal person to work through rough times with someone else, just as a verbal person does," said Mrs. Stark.
Now that the LIP funds have run out the team is seeking further funding. "We're still working with our students. Just because we haven't funds, we can't desert them at this plateau of learning," the group's leader said.

Hogs Yield More Meat

Improvements in feeding and breeding have brought about changes in pork production in the last 15 years.
The average hog today yields 14½ pounds more meat — about the weight of an extra ham — than the average hog 15 years ago. But the total weight difference between today's hog and yesterday's is less than two pounds.

Catholic 'Call To Action' Meeting To Determine Future Programs

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The most representative national assembly of American Roman Catholics in history takes place in Detroit this week to chart the church's directions on social issues for the next five years.

The gathering, offering a broadly democratic process for church policy making, is to include an expected 1,500 official delegates from 167 dioceses and various national Catholic organizations.

They'll deliberate, debate and determine by ballot the church's future program aimed at achieving "liberty and justice for all."

That is the theme of an 18-month church bicentennial project, which has included a series of open hearings across the country on current social problems, to culminate with the plenary national conference Oct. 21-23.

It meets under the slogan, "Call To Action."

Sponsored by the church's bishops to draw from rank-and-file members what they think the church should be doing, the preliminary procedures have amassed more than 700,000 responses from individuals and groups.

Their suggestions, proposals and pleas have been accumulated from local parishes, diocesan bodies, various Catholic organizations and from testimony at six regional hearings held in 1975.

On the basis of computer analysis, the vast array of viewpoints indicate that Catholics are most concerned about problems surrounding two institutions — the family and the church.

On family matters, concerns focused on social pressures such as "consumerism" and the influence of television, on means to maintain family unity and on attention to divorced Catholics.

In regard to the church, one of the most widely voiced concerns involved the role of women, with suggestions ranging from admitting women to the priesthood to emphasis on their finding fulfillment as homemakers.

Another major demand was for greater inclusion of the laity in church decision making.

A conference research staff, headed by Sister Alice Gallin of Washington, has compiled the outpourings of ideas into eight broad categories, with teams of scholars turning out working papers on each topic.

The papers, including recommendations, will form the initial basis for discussion by the delegates, who will decide by vote what plans and programs to endorse to the bishops.

Additional proposals may be brought up on the floor.

Besides church and family, the six other general topics on which papers and recommendations have been compiled are:

Nationhood — the church's role in political-governmental life as an advocate for the poor and powerless on domestic social problems such as inflation, education, civic corruption and governmental accountability.

Humankind — distribution and control of world resources; political oppression and use of torture in some countries.

Ethnicity and race — discrimination both in church and society and equal opportunities for minorities in education and religious life.

Work — purpose and value of work; corporate responsibility to workers.

Neighborhood — Housing, quality of neighborhood life; church role in community organizations.

Person — development of individuals in terms of dignity and self-image; protection of right to life at all stages; equal opportunity for women; positive sex education.

Heimlich Method Can Help People Choking On Food

It is estimated that nationwide, approximately 4,000 persons die each year from choking on food.

Death from choking usually on food, ranks as the sixth most common cause of accidental death in the United States, according to the Michigan

Department of Health.

If the victim has swallowed food and cannot speak, it is safe to assume he is choking.

A simple lifesaving technique developed by Dr. Henry Heimlich, Director of Surgery, Cincinnati Jewish Hospital, could significantly reduce the number of deaths due to choking.

The procedure is termed the "Heimlich Maneuver" and is described as follows:

Standing behind the victim, place your arms around the victim's waist, slightly above the belt line and below the rib cage. Allow his head, arms and upper torso to hang forward.

Grasping one wrist with the other hand, press into the victim's abdomen rapidly and forcefully, repeating several times. This "reverse bearing" pushes the diaphragm upward, compressing air in the lungs, and results in the object being expelled from the breathing passage.

If the victim is lying on the floor, face and kneel astride him. Place one of your hands on top of the other and with the heel of your bottom hand, press in on the victim's abdomen with strong upward thrusts.

If you're alone and start to choke on food, wrap your arms tightly around your abdomen, bend over at the waist, and push in on your abdomen with the same upward movements described.

Catholic 'Call To Action' Meeting To Determine Future Programs

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The most representative national assembly of American Roman Catholics in history takes place in Detroit this week to chart the church's directions on social issues for the next five years.

The gathering, offering a broadly democratic process for church policy making, is to include an expected 1,500 official delegates from 167 dioceses and various national Catholic organizations.

They'll deliberate, debate and determine by ballot the Church's future program aimed at achieving "liberty and justice for all."

That is the theme of an 18-

month church bicentennial project, which has included a series of open hearings across the country on current social problems, to culminate with the plenary national conference Oct. 21-23.

It meets under the slogan, "Call To Action."

Sponsored by the church's bishops to draw from rank-and-file members what they think the church should be doing, the preliminary procedures have amassed more than 700,000 responses from individuals and groups.

Their suggestions, proposals and pleas have been accumulated from local parishes, diocesan bodies, various Catholic organizations and from testimony at six regional hearings held in 1975.

On the basis of computer analysis, the vast array of viewpoints indicate that Catholics are most concerned about problems surrounding two institutions — the family and the church.

On family matters, concerns focused on social pressures such as "consumerism" and the influence of television, on means to maintain family unity and on attention to divorced Catholics.

In regard to the church, one of the most widely voiced concerns involved the role of women, with suggestions ranging from admitting women to the priesthood to emphasis on their finding fulfillment as homemakers.

Another major demand was for greater inclusion of the laity in church decision making.

A conference research staff, headed by Sister Alice Gallin of Washington, has compiled the outpourings of ideas into eight broad categories, with teams of scholars turning out working papers on each topic.

The papers, including recommendations, will form the initial basis for discussion by the delegates, who will decide by vote what plans and programs to endorse to the bishops.

Additional proposals may be brought up on the floor. Besides church and family, the six other general topics on which papers and recommendations have been compiled are:

Nationhood — the church's role in political-governmental life as an advocate for the poor and powerless on domestic social problems such as inflation, education, civic corruption and governmental accountability.

Humankind — distribution and control of world resources; political oppression and use of torture in some countries.

Ethnicity and race — discrimination both in church and society and equal opportunities for minorities in education and religious life.

Work — purpose and value of work; corporate responsibility to workers.

Neighborhood — Housing, quality of neighborhood life; church role in community organizations.

Person — development of individuals in terms of dignity and self-image; protection of right to life at all stages; equal opportunity for women; positive sex education.

Heimlich Method Can Help People Choking On Food

It is estimated that nationwide, approximately 4,000 persons die each year from choking on food.

Death from choking usually on food, ranks as the sixth most common cause of accidental death in the United States, according to the Michigan

Department of Health.

If the victim has swallowed food and cannot speak, it is safe to assume he is choking.

A simple lifesaving technique developed by Dr. Henry Heimlich, Director of Surgery, Cincinnati Jewish Hospital, could significantly reduce the number of deaths due to choking.

The procedure is termed the "Heimlich Maneuver" and is described as follows:

Standing behind the victim, place your arms around the victim's waist, slightly above the belt line and below the rib cage. Allow his head, arms and upper torso to hang forward.

Grasping one wrist with the other hand, press into the victim's abdomen rapidly and forcefully, repeating several times. This "reverse bearing" pushes the diaphragm upward, compressing air in the lungs, and results in the object being expelled from the breathing passage.

If the victim is lying on the floor, face and kneel astride him. Place one of your hands on top of the other and with the heel of your bottom hand, press in on the victim's abdomen with strong upward thrusts.

If you're alone and start to choke on food, wrap your arms tightly around your abdomen, bend over at the waist, and push in on your abdomen with the same upward movements described.

Art Loan

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Princeton university has been loaned a group of paintings, watercolors, drawings, and sculptures by Cezanne, Van Gogh, Degas, Toulouse-Lautrec, Gauguin and other modern masters, the university's art museum has announced.

The works in this two-year loan were taken from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearlman and the Pearlman Foundation. The Pearlman collection includes what is said to be one of the finest groups of works by Cezanne in any collection, public or private.

Club Circuit

MOUNT PLEASANT BAY VIEW CLUB will meet at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 20, at the home of Mrs. Alex Gale of Lakeside. A white elephant sale will be held. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Frederick Gnodtke.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Warring Parents Terrify Kids

Dear Ann Landers: Not long ago you ran a letter from a mother whose kids hassled her because she threw their dad out (he was a bum) and were mad at her because there was no man in the house. I would like to tell those kids to shut their traps. They are LUCKY.

We live with two parents who fight over everything from money to why a pin is in the carpet. When they aren't on each other's backs they are on ours. We live in fear that any minute one of them will go berserk and shoot us all.

In case you think we are trash, I'd like to tell you our father is a physician and Mom was a professional person also.

We wish our parents had split long ago instead of staying together, threatening one another constantly and making nervous wrecks out of us kids.

Don't suggest counseling. Each one feels the other is at fault. They refuse to discuss anything with a third party.

No advice needed. I just wanted to get in my 2 cents' worth — Think I'll stay single.

Dear Think: I'm printing your letter in the hope that some warring parents will read it, see how they look to their children and shape up.

State Of Mind

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about that tall girl who asked about the operation to make her shorter. Why didn't you tell her to move to Texas?

It is very common to see very tall girls in the Lone Star State — especially in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio. I'm sure she would find happiness in any one of these fine cities. — Wanting To Help builder, Noah's wife excelled in animal husbandry and Hagar was a maid-servant.

Dear Wanting: Sorry, but the girl's problem isn't the state she's living in, it's the state of her mind. I suggested that she visit a rehabilitation institute or a spinal cord injury center and see what life is like in a wheelchair. She would then be grateful to have two legs to walk on — no matter how long.

All these professions were mentioned before the Harlot. There's nothing like knowing your facts, Ann. — Just A Reader

Dear Friend: You are more than "Just A Reader." You're a student of the Bible and an alert one, at that.

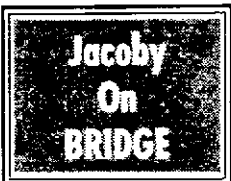

And now a word to all prostitutes. No fair calling yourselves members of the oldest profession. You've been pre-dated, girls. From now on, stick to "Ladies of the Evening."

CONFIDENTIAL to Credit-Card Crazy: Your wife and millions of others are getting no bargains. They are merely postponing the agony of paying the bill. And it's costing her (and all the others) plenty — like 18 per cent yearly interest.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Boris Schapiro points out that the winning bridge player must be able to guess right when the losing player guesses wrong.

Of course, the winning player isn't really guessing. He is making an intelligent decision, while the loser is making an unintelligent one.

South like his hand but had a slight problem about what to do over East's four-spade opening. Five hearts might well be an inadequate bid, but he made it anyway.

West jumped to six spades and when it came back to South he had a real problem. Was West bidding six spades as a gamble or did he really expect to make it? Finally, South came to the conclusion that West surely held a strong club suit for his bid and that his (South's) king of clubs was a sitting duck. South went to seven diamonds. North corrected to seven hearts and South was down three for a loss of 800 points.

At the other table East and West were allowed to play in six spades after a very different bidding sequence. South opened the king of hearts and shifted to a diamond, won by East's king. The ace of spades disclosed the trump break. West ruffed a heart, picked up trumps, led a club and had his slam when the king showed up in the right spot.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pittsburgh reader wants to know if it is a misdeal when a card is exposed during the deal, or if that card must be an honor to cause the misdeal. The answer is that if any card is exposed during the deal that it is a misdeal, but that some social players don't enforce this rule if the card is not an honor.

column you responded to a prostitute by saying "Since you are a member of the oldest profession, you ought to know."

I'd like to point out that prostitution is NOT the oldest profession. The Bible clearly speaks of professions that are much older. For example: Jacob was a tailor, Ishmael's sons were builders, Laban was a shepherd, Leah was a housewife, Cain was a farmer. Abel was a shepherd, Jubal was a harp maker, Noah was a ship-

Dr. Lester Coleman

Will you comment on a doctor being asked to give up his records or to make complete copies when a patient transfers to another doctor?

I made such a request and was told very definitely that there was nothing that would be of help to my present doctor. This, in spite of the fact that the first doctor had delivered my last child and made "Pap" examinations. Don't I have a legal right to these records? — Mrs. W.F.R., Va.

Dear Mrs. R.: I don't know the exact implications of your problem from a legal point of view. Virginia may have specific laws about this. Such laws vary from state to state.

I do, however, have special feelings about problems of this nature from a moral point of view. I don't feel that a patient is the fixed private property of any one doctor. Consequently, a patient has the right to make a change for whatever reason she may have.

Unfortunately, the disruption of the relationship between a patient and a doctor is often associated with some mutual displeasure. When this occurs, sometimes a doctor may be reluctant to give up his records.

My personal feeling is that such a patient has the right to have all her records transferred, after signing a release. Then, the former doctor should send those records directly to the new doctor.

About 10 years ago, I had an operation called a "stapedectomy," for deafness. The result was satisfactory and I had hoped to have the other ear operated on. However, the doctor died a short time later. My problem: Can I take a plane trip to Florida without suffering any ill effects from flying? — Mrs. F.F., Conn.

Dear Mrs. F.: The stapedectomy operation for deafness caused by otosclerosis is most gratifying for the return of hearing. I assume that your operated ear and the other ear have been examined since the time of surgery 12 years ago.

There are many excellent surgeons who perform this surgery in all parts of your state. It would be wise to consult them. In the meantime, let me assure you that a plane trip would not affect you to any greater degree than it would affect other people who do not have a history of otosclerosis or a history of ear surgery.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Warring Parents Terrify Kids

Dear Ann Landers: Not long ago you ran a letter from a mother whose kids hassled her because she threw their dad out (he was a bum) and were mad at her because there was no man in the house. I would like to tell those kids to shut their traps. They are LUCKY.

We live with two parents who fight over everything from money to why a pin is in the carpet. When they aren't on each other's backs they are on ours. We live in fear that any minute one of them will go berserk and shoot us all.

In case you think we are trash, I'd like to tell you our father is a physician and Mom was a professional person also.

We wish our parents had split long ago instead of staying together, threatening one another constantly and making nervous wrecks out of us kids.

Don't suggest counseling. Each one feels the other is at fault. They refuse to discuss anything with a third party.

No advice needed. I just wanted to get in my 2 cents' worth. — Think I'll Stay Single

Dear Think: I'm printing your letter in the hope that some warring parents will read it, see how they look to their children and shape up.

State Of Mind

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about that tall girl who asked about the operation to make her shorter. Why didn't you tell her to move to Texas?

It is very common to see very tall girls in the Lone Star State — especially in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio. I'm sure she would find happiness in any one of these fine cities. — Wanting To Help builder, Noah's wife excelled in animal husbandry and Hagar was a maid-servant.

Dear Wanting: Sorry, but the girl's problem isn't the state she's living in, it's the state of her mind. I suggested that she visit a rehabilitation institute or a spinal cord injury center and see what life is like in a wheelchair. She would then be grateful to have two legs to walk on — no matter how long.

All these professions were mentioned before the Harlot. There's nothing like knowing your facts, Ann. — Just A Reader

Dear Friend: You are more than "Just A Reader." You're a student of the Bible and an alert one, at that.

And now a word to all prostitutes. No fair calling yourselves members of the oldest profession. You've been pre-dated, girls. From now on, stick to "Ladies of the Evening."

CONFIDENTIAL to Credit-Card Crazy: Your wife and millions of others are getting no bargains. They are merely postponing the agony of paying the bill. And it's costing her (and all the others) plenty — like 18 per cent yearly interest.

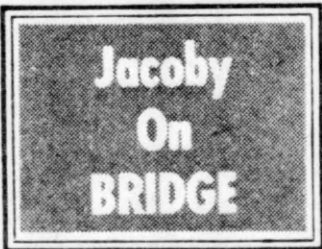

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Not The Oldest

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you responded to a prostitute by saying "Since you are a member of the oldest profession, you ought to know."

I'd like to point out that prostitution is NOT the oldest profession. The Bible clearly speaks of professions that are much older. For example: Jacob was a tailor, Ishmael's sons were builders, Laban was a shepherd, Leah was a housewife, Cain was a farmer, Abel was a shepherd, Jubal was a harp maker, Noah was a ship-

Boris Schapiro points out that the winning bridge player must be able to guess right when the losing player guesses wrong.

Of course, the winning player isn't really guessing. He is making an intelligent decision, while the loser is making an unintelligent one.

South like his hand but had a slight problem about what to do over East's four-spade opening. Five hearts might well be an inadequate bid, but he made it anyway.

West jumped to six spades and when it came back to South he had a real problem. Was West bidding six spades as a gamble or did he really expect to make it? Finally, South came to the conclusion that West surely held a strong club suit for his bid and that his (South's) king of clubs was a sitting duck. South went to seven diamonds. North corrected to seven hearts and South was down three for a loss of 800 points.

At the other table East and West were allowed to play in six spades after a very different bidding sequence. South opened the king of hearts and shifted to a diamond, won by East's king. The ace of spades disclosed the trump break. West ruffed a heart, picked up trumps, led a club and had his slam when the king showed up in the right spot.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pittsburgh reader wants to know if it is a misdeal when a card is exposed during the deal, or if that card must be an honor to cause the misdeal. The answer is that if any card is exposed during the deal that it is a misdeal, but that some social players don't enforce this rule if the card is not an honor.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Will you comment on a doctor being asked to give up his records or to make complete copies when a patient transfers to another doctor?

I made such a request and was told very definitely that there was nothing that would be of help to my present doctor. This, in spite of the fact that the first doctor had delivered my last child and made "Pap" examinations. Don't I have a legal right to these records? — Mrs. W.F.R., Va.

Dear Mrs. R.: I don't know the exact implications of your problem from a legal point of view. Virginia may have specific laws about this. Such laws vary from state to state.

I do, however, have special feelings about problems of this nature from a moral point of view. I don't feel that a patient is the fixed private property of any one doctor. Consequently, a patient has the right to make a change for whatever reason she may have.

Unfortunately, the disruption of the relationship between a patient and a doctor is often associated with some mutual displeasure. When this occurs, sometimes a doctor may be reluctant to give up his records.

My personal feeling is that such a patient has the right to have all her records transferred, after signing a release. Then, the former doctor should send those records directly to the new doctor.

About 10 years ago, I had an operation called a "stapedectomy," for deafness. The result was satisfactory and I had hoped to have the other ear operated on. However, the doctor died a short time later. My problem: Can I take a plane trip to Florida without suffering any ill effects from flying? — Mrs. F.F., Conn.

Dear Mrs. F.: The stapedectomy operation for deafness caused by otosclerosis is most gratifying for the return of hearing. I assume that your operated ear and the other ear have been examined since the time of surgery 12 years ago.

There are many excellent surgeons who perform this surgery in all parts of your state. It would be wise to consult them. In the meantime, let me assure you that a plane trip would not affect you to any greater degree than it would affect other people who do not have a history of otosclerosis or a history of ear surgery.

Bombing Trial Security's Tight

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Amid reports of security problems, the man charged with killing investigative reporter Don Bolles appeared at the opening of his trial wearing a bulletproof vest.

During a hectic opening day in the trial of John Harvey Adamson, Superior Court Judge Frederick Heineman ordered press and public barred from the seventh floor of the courthouse here until 12 jurors and eight alternates are selected and sequestered.

The selection process was to continue today in the trial, which is expected to raise issues involving organized crime and corruption.

Bolles, a reporter for the Arizona Republic, was mortally injured June 2 when a bomb ripped through his car.

Witnesses have said that before Bolles died 11 days later, he said, "Find John Adamson."

On Monday, without saying why, Heineman dismissed the first set of 100 prospective jurors and moved the trial to a smaller courtroom.

"Ladies and gentlemen, we've had a misunderstanding," he told them. Later, outside court, he would not say what had prompted his unusual move.

However, Maricopa County Atty. Donald Harris said he understood that "the judge had been informed that security was not good at the courtroom and the sheriff's department was concerned."

There was speculation that Adamson, 32, had been threatened. He wore the bulletproof vest and was surrounded by armed deputies as he was brought from the jail to the courthouse.

A second group of potential jurors was summoned, and at the end of a closed session, the judge told The Associated Press that he had excused five persons from among 87 prospects for hardship or other causes.

Some authorities have said that Bolles' death may have been the result of a conspiracy, with Adamson hired for the killing. Those suggestions prompted fears that others might want to do away with the lone defendant.

Adamson's court-appointed lawyers had sought a change of venue in the case, predicting that it would be difficult to find a jury unaffected by the extensive publicity surrounding the case.

Bolles, 47, specialized in exposing white-collar crime. His death inspired the formation of a team of investigative reporters from around the country to finish the story Bolles was working on when he died.

The story concerned land fraud and politicians, and on the day of the explosion Bolles had been summoned to a hotel to meet an informant promising a big story.

While Bolles waited, a phone call came to the lobby desk canceling the meeting. When he started his car to drive away, the explosion shattered his legs and threw him to the pavement.

Finally, Ford, Carter Agree

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

President Ford and Jimmy Carter have found one thing to agree on: The election is just too close to call now.

It was a tight campaign day for both major candidates Monday, but both managed in separate ways to point to the tightness of their race for the White House.

Carter declared at a news conference that the election is "up for grabs" and made an emotional appeal in a campaign speech in Florida against voter apathy.

Ford stayed in Washington and sent word through his backers that he views the race as "a dead heat" now. Major polls also show the race is tight.

But there was disagreement between the two candidates about remarks made by the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. George S. Brown. Brown was quoted in an interview as saying Israel is a military burden and that the United States does not have the stomach to stand up to the Soviets.

Carter said Brown's remarks are an example of what he said was Ford's failure to take strong action against errant administration officials, and he compared Ford's failure to rebuke Brown with what Carter said was Ford's inaction in the wake of the Earl Butz affair two weeks ago.

Brown held a news conference Monday with Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld at his side. The Air Force general said he did not intend in the interview to imply that he disagreed with U.S. policy on Israel. He also denied saying the United States does not have the stomach to stand up to the Soviet Union.

Rumsfeld said Ford has no plans to either reprimand or fire Brown for his remarks, and White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Ford reviewed Brown's remarks and "made it clear to Secretary Rumsfeld that he does not agree with the general's poor choice of words in portions of the interview."

"The absence of a reprimand should not mean an endorsement of Gen. Brown's obviously inelegant phraseology," Rumsfeld said.

Nessen said "the President considers the matter closed."

Carter, comparing Ford's attitude toward Brown's remarks with the Butz case, said, "I think President Ford should show some leadership. Mr. Butz stayed there until Mr.

GEN. GEORGE BROWN
Wrangle over remarks

Ford assessed the political consequences of what he said, and finally Mr. Butz resigned."

Carter said that, based on news reports, Brown's remarks "are very disturbing to our country and the rest of the world. They insinuate that our nation doesn't have the will to stand up for our own principles in a challenge by the Soviet Union. They insinuate Israel is an unwarranted burden to our country when Israel is really the strength of democracy in the Middle East."

Anti-A's Shun Showdown

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Industry opponents of Proposal A, a ballot proposal to ban nonreturnable beverage containers refused to attend a campaign contribution showdown called Monday by supporters of the proposal.

In a telegram, the opponents branded the news conference an obvious publicity ploy, said they already had disclosed their expenses and planned to raise $1 million before the fight was over.

The telegram from Lester Freidinger, a Stroh Brewery executive and president of the Committee Against Forced Deposits, said the committee had on numerous occasions cited its expenditures and feels no "obligation to elaborate further on our campaign funding."

Michigan law requires reporting of contributions to the ballot campaign within 30 days after the election.

Thomas Washington, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs — one of the chief supporters of the bill — repeated allegations that opponents of the bottle and can ban were trying to buy the election.

He said their refusal to reveal their contributors prevents voters from knowing who stands to win and who stands to lose if Proposal A passes.

Supporters of November ballot Proposal A said Monday they spent $73,882 and listed persons and groups who contributed over $15, including the MUCC which so far has pitched in $46,215.56 to the campaign.

Individual contributions totaled $27,667.45, with the largest contribution $750 from Environmental Action, a Washington, D.C., group. Most of the contributions listed were in the $15-$35 range.

Spokesmen for the opponents — largely made up of bottling industry groups — have said they so far have spent $750,000 against Proposal A, which would ban nonreturnable bottles and cans from Michigan store shelves.

But Washington said his group could overcome the ten-fold difference in spending so far. He predicted if the election were held Monday 60-65 per cent of Michigan voters would vote in favor of Proposal A.

"I think the common sense of the people of Michigan is going to win out in the end," he said.

Washington said opponents, basing their campaigns heavily on frequent radio and television commercials, have "insulted the intelligence of Michigan voters with this campaign and they will be able to read through it."

Washington said the Help Abolish Throwaways Committee has so far spent $11,000 on salaries, and a "very modest" $20,000 on radio advertising beginning Monday.

He said the committee is trying to persuade radio and television stations to meet the requirements of the Federal Communication Commission's "fairness doctrine" in presenting both sides of the Proposal A issue.

Rocky Stumps State

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller told a fundraiser audience Monday the Republican party's strength must be rebuilt if the two-party system of government is to be maintained.

"I am concerned about preserving the leadership of President Ford," Rockefeller said here at a 50-a-plate Republican dinner. "I am concerned about preserving the two-party system — the strength and vitality of America."

The vice president stumped Michigan on behalf of GOP candidates, including Marvin Esch, who is battling Democrat Donald Reagle for the U.S.

Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich.

Rockefeller praised what he called Esch's congressional promotion of tax incentives to stimulate investment in private industry and his sponsorship of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act. The vice president said that law brought 175,000 jobs to Michigan.

"The absence of a reprimand should not mean an endorsement of Gen. Brown's obviously inelegant phraseology," Rumsfeld said.

Nessen said "the President considers the matter closed."

Carter, comparing Ford's attitude toward Brown's remarks with the Butz case, said, "I think President Ford should show some leadership. Mr. Butz stayed there until Mr.

GEN. GEORGE BROWN
Wrangle over remarks

Ford assessed the political consequences of what he said, and finally Mr. Butz resigned."

Carter said that, based on news reports, Brown's remarks "are very disturbing to our country and the rest of the world. They insinuate that our nation doesn't have the will to stand up for our own principles in a challenge by the Soviet Union. They insinuate Israel is an unwarranted burden to our country when Israel is really the strength of democracy in the Middle East."

Anti-A's Shun Showdown

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Industry opponents of Proposal A, a ballot proposal to ban nonreturnable beverage containers refused to attend a campaign contribution showdown called Monday by supporters of the proposal.

In a telegram, the opponents branded the news conference an obvious publicity ploy, said they already had disclosed their expenses and planned to raise $1 million before the fight was over.

The telegram from Lester Freidinger, a Stroh Brewery executive and president of the Committee Against Forced Deposits, said the committee had on numerous occasions cited its expenditures and feels no "obligation to elaborate further on our campaign funding."

Michigan law requires reporting of contributions to the ballot campaign within 20 days after the election.

Thomas Washington, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs — one of the chief supporters of the bill — repeated allegations that opponents of the bottle and can ban were trying to buy the election.

He said their refusal to reveal their contributors prevents voters from knowing who stands to win and who stands to lose if Proposal A passes.

Supporters of November ballot Proposal A said Monday they spent $73,882 and listed persons and groups who contributed over $15, including the MUCC which so far has pitched in $46,215.56 to the campaign. Individual contributions tallied $27,667.45, with the largest contribution $750 from Environmental Action, a Washington, D.C., group. Most of the contributions listed were in the $15-$55 range.

Spokesmen for the opponents — largely made up of bottling industry groups — have said they so far have spent $750,000 against Proposal A, which would ban nonreturnable bottles and cans from Michigan store shelves.

But Washington said his group could overcome the tenfold difference in spending so far. He predicted if the election were held Monday 60-65 per cent of Michigan voters would vote in favor of Proposal A.

"I think the common sense of the people of Michigan is going to win out in the end," he said.

Washington said opponents, basing their campaigns heavily on frequent radio and television commercials, have "insulted the intelligence of Michigan voters with this campaign and they will be able to read through it."

Washington said the Help Abolish Throwaways Committee has so far spent $11,000 on salaries, and a "very modest" $20,000 on radio advertising beginning Monday.

He said the committee is try-

PLO, Syria Agree On Plan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat and Syrian President Hafez Assad have agreed on a new peace plan to end Lebanon's civil war and a cease-fire by midnight Wednesday. There was no reaction yet from Lebanon's Christian and Moslem warlords.

The peace plan and the cease-fire call were announced Monday in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, where Arafat and Assad met in a summit conference with Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Elias Sarkis of Lebanon. King Khaled of Saudi Arabia and Sheikh Sabah al-Salem al-Sabah of Kuwait.

Missing from the meeting were the four Lebanese leaders whose private militias have not been checked by some 50 previous cease-fires: Christians Pierre Gemayel, Camille Chamoun and Suleiman Franje, and Moslem Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt.

The success of the new peace agreement appeared to depend on the Syrian army's controlling the Christians and Arafat's Palestinians restraining the Moslems.

A joint communique broadcast by the Saudi state radio said it had been agreed to expand the 2,300-man Arab League peace force in Beirut to a strength of 30,000. It appeared likely that most of the reinforcements would come from the 21,000 Syrian troops Assad has sent into Lebanon since June to prevent a leftist victory and preserve a balance of power between the Christians and Moslems.

The expanded peacekeeping force is to disengage the warring parties, put into effect the 1969 Cairo pact restricting the activities of Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon, supervise the withdrawal of militias, gunmen and heavy weapons from Lebanon's war fronts, and maintain law and order, the communique said.

The agreement also includes a guarantee of Lebanon's territorial integrity and national unity, and calls on all factions involved in the fighting to cease propaganda warfare and direct their information media to uphold the cease-fire.

Sadat announced in a radio report to Cairo from Riyadh that the leaders had agreed on the "basic issues" to settle the crisis and that details were being worked out by their foreign ministers.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy said there would be a summit conference of Arab chiefs of state and government leaders Monday in Cairo, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

A Syrian government spokesman in Damascus said the Riyadh meeting also produced a peace agreement between Assad and Sadat, who have been feuding intermittently since Sadat signed the second Sinai agreement with Israel 13 months ago.

MEA Eyes School Funding

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Officials of the state's largest teachers' union say they may file suit charging that Michigan's school funding method is unconstitutional.

Michigan Education Association director Herman Coleman said Monday his group has asked three Michigan law firms to research the chances of successfully overturning the system, on grounds it fails to provide equal access to educational opportunity to all Michigan schoolchildren.

Coleman charged although "equal access to education" is guaranteed under Michigan's 1963 Constitution, the quality of education is not equal throughout the state.

Coleman acknowledged the threat of such a suit is "an old song." But, he said, two events lead him to think a suit against the state could now succeed.

First, he said, the State Board of Education "has gone on record supporting the proposition that a school district's education ought to be unequal to that of its neighbors." He claimed that happened when the board let the financially strapped Farwell district in Clare County cut class hours for its students.

Coleman said Farwell is the only district among the state's 530 that has reduced class time, though others, including Detroit, have unsuccessfully sought permission to do so.

Second, he said, the New Jersey Supreme Court this year ordered schools closed until that state's legislature devised a better school funding system. He said that move could set a precedent for Michigan.

The MEA has criticized the state repeatedly for failing to appropriate enough state funds to local school districts, forcing them instead to try to raise property taxes.

But in many districts attempts to raise or even renew millages have failed repeatedly.

Seven Vie For Super Prize

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Seven contestants will vie for the top prize of $100,000 as the Michigan Lottery's weekly "Super Play" program returns to the airwaves Thursday.

The televised weekly game will feature a new contest as the lottery begins awarding the big prizes under the new "Michigan" 50-cent weekly contest.

To become one of the contestants on the show, holders must match both winning weekly numbers — two-digit and three-digit. Doing so guarantees them at least $2,000.

An elimination will be held prior to each show to reduce an estimated 20 qualifiers to six available contestant positions. Those who do not survive each get $2,000, and the six who make it to the finals each will win at least $4,500 in the Super Play game.

The six contestants will compete against the "Super Player" — the winner of the week before who comes back until he or she is beaten. The game itself will be played in two rounds, using electronic equipment.

The contestants will try to "match" each other's selections in the electronic game, with each round ending with a challenge on the "Super Player" position.

In the first round, each win is worth $2,500, and each loss is worth $2,000. In the second round, a win is worth $3,000 and a loss $2,500. And more than $1,000 in prizes will be awarded to members of the studio audience.

Since there is no returning "Super Player" for the first week, seven contestants were selected Monday. One of the seven will be selected at random to be the first "Super Player" — and automatically will win $100,000 in addition to any further winnings as a result of the program.

The first seven contestants in the new game are: Sheley Bryant, 39, of Flint, a factory worker at Fisher Body; Dorothy Sheckell, 54, of Detroit, a housewife.

L.J. Kzajka, 55, of Gladwin, manager of a manufacturing plant.

Ada Monticello, 50, of Southgate, an office worker with the J.L. Hudson Co. in Detroit.

Roderick Byrne, 60, of Southfield, an insurance fire inspector.

Hubert Whitney, 54, of Kalamazoo, who works at a paper plant.

Fourteen Go Free

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — A group of 14 youths charged with inciting a riot aboard a city bus have been freed because the bus driver was unable to identify them by name.

The youths, who also were charged with disorderly conduct, were delivered en masse to authorities last month by bus driver Claude Ballard, who simply closed the bus doors and drove them to a Highland Park police station.

Ballard made the detour when the band of youths — between 17 and 20 years old — allegedly refused to stop playing loud radio music, drinking beer and smoking marijuana on his bus. Highland Park Municipal Court Judge Travilla Daines freed the youths Monday because Ballard could not identify them specifically or say which were drinking and which were smoking marijuana.

"I knew their faces," Ballard said. "I remembered the main, rowdy ones, but I didn't know their names."

Shirley Latimer, court administrator, explained the youths were freed because positive identification is needed before a defendant can be tried.

BEST BUYS are sought in every area of merchandise. A popular consumer magazine classifies as a "Best Buy" the product which offers dependable service and the widest amount of quality and utility at the lowest price. The best buy is not always the cheapest, because the product must do the job for which it was designed well or it is no buy at all.

In home furnishings there is an element beyond utility and service that must be present—and that is beauty. Beauty is not an "extra" in interior decor. It is an essential element.

So what is a best buy? In furniture it is a piece which gives you more, in beauty and function, than you would normally expect to get for the money. It adds to the beauty and usefulness of the other furnishings around it. And it must be a piece of enduring value, one which will be just as beautiful and useful many years from now.

All this explains why it is impossible to label a particular piece of furniture as a "Best Buy," because the needs of the individual are not always the same. What is best for someone else is not best for you and your home.

We have a store full of "Best Buys" for someone...many of them ideal for you, each one carefully selected for beauty and function that will last for years. But only you can know what is just right for you. Why not come in and look over our better buys this week? You'll be glad you did!

2,500 Return After Explosion

CLIFFORD, Mich. (AP) — Some 2,500 persons are back in their homes after being evacuated early Monday when a railroad tanker carrying a toxic chemical derailed and exploded.

Lapeer County authorities said. The residents of the rural area were allowed to return home after officials determined sweet-smelling fumes from the burning chemical were not dangerous except in close contact.

Spokesmen for the Lapeer County Sheriff's Department, the Dow Chemical Co. of Midland, Mich., and the Monsanto Co. of St. Louis, Mo., said the explosion involved in vinyl cyanide, an ingredient used in plastics, synthetic rubber and insecticides.

Gas from the chemical, manufactured by Monsanto, billowed around the blazing tank car near the tiny village of Clifford as authorities decided to allow the fire to burn itself out. Lack of winds helped keep the gas cloud from spreading.

One deputy who inhaled the fumes was released from a local hospital after a checkup. A crewman aboard the C & O train remained hospitalized Monday. His condition was not known. No other injuries were reported.

Area residents said the accident occurred at 5:15 a.m., about one-quarter mile west of the village, when the southbound train jumped the track and collided with box cars on a siding. Officials were trying to determine the cause of the derailment.

State Department of Natural Resources officials were in the area checking for possible water contamination and damage to wildlife. At first, they said tests showed the fumes 100 per cent poisonous to fish, but later revised that estimate and said the vapors only caused problems on close contact.

Officers at the scene described the smell of the fumes as similar to perfume. Chemical experts said if inhaled, the fumes could cause headaches and drowsiness.

Sheriff's deputies from three counties assisted in evacuating residents from areas as far as 15 miles from the accident. Later, all except those within a half-mile circle around the crash scene were allowed to return home.

Flames from the fire could be seen before dawn Monday at the St. Clair County Airport some 50 miles away, officials reported.

Bargaining Continues

DETROIT (AP) — Bargaining on new national contracts covering 508,000 workers at General Motors and Chrysler resumes today as many Ford Motor Co. plants remain strikebound by local disputes for a 35th day.

The United Auto Workers union, which has not selected its next contract target, scheduled a day of subcommittee sessions at GM and Chrysler, with no immediate plans for further main-table negotiating.

Bargainers at GM held a brief main-table session Monday, their first formal meeting since Aug. 24, when the UAW picked Ford to set the industry pattern on new three-year pacts covering 700,000 workers.

Negotiators at Chrysler, where talks started up again last week, met in subcommittee all Monday and were to continue those sessions today.

The UAW will use the Ford pact as the basis of new agreements covering 118,000 workers at Chrysler and 390,000 at industry giant GM. Officials at both firms have said they would accept the main provisions won at Ford.

Court Will Mull Sex Segregation

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was 22 years ago that the Supreme Court rocked American society when it ruled that separate public schools for white and black children were unconstitutional because such schools were inherently unequal. Now the court's nine justices, none of whom took part in the 1954 decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, have agreed to hear a case involving the issue of whether Philadelphia can maintain sexually segregated schools whose equality is being challenged.

Susan Lynn Vorchheimer, the outstanding student in her junior high school and an award winner in science, was 13 years old when she filed suit in 1974 claiming that the city's practice of maintaining two schools for academically gifted children was discriminatory. She wanted to attend Central High School, an all-boys school since its founding in 1836. A federal judge agreed with her claim that Central High offered superior science facilities and a better reputation than Girls High, the city's other school for academically gifted students.

And he ruled that Miss Vorchheimer's exclusion was unconstitutional discrimination. His decision was overturned by the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said Philadelphia had a right to maintain two one-sex schools if they were substantially equal. Miss Vorchheimer appealed to the Supreme Court and argued that Girls High is inferior to Central. Miss Vorchheimer did not attend either school, but went instead to a neighborhood school. She is now a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, but her suit, filed on behalf of all girls who would like to attend Central, remains alive.

The high court said Monday it will consider the case, which her attorneys say is a direct link to the historic Brown case. Arguments are set for early next year. The justices declined Monday to take up another sex discrimination case. New Jersey school teacher Paula Grossman, who once was Paul Grossman, lost her bid to have the justices overrule a lower court decision that federal prohibitions against sex discrimination don't apply to transsexuals.

The Grossman woman was fired from her job in 1971 after 14 years of teaching as a man in Bernards Township, N.J.

In other cases Monday, the court:

- Refused to lift an order issued earlier this year by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. banning enforcement of a Massachusetts law requiring women under 18 to obtain a court order or parental consent before having an abortion.
- Agreed to consider whether a state may must a political party official if he refuses to testify in a criminal investigation.
- Agreed to hear the case of a Florida man convicted of manslaughter who claims he should have had the right to challenge the testimony of a witness called by his own attorney.

Court Will Mull Sex Segregation

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was 22 years ago that the Supreme Court rocked American society when it ruled that separate public schools for white and black children were unconstitutional because such schools were inherently unequal. Now the court's nine justices, none of whom took part in the 1954 decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, have agreed to hear a case involving the issue of whether Philadelphia can maintain sexually segregated schools whose equality is being challenged.

Susan Lynn Vorchheimer, the outstanding student in her junior high school and an award winner in science, was 15 years old when she filed suit in 1974 claiming that the city's practice of maintaining two schools for academically gifted children was discriminatory. She wanted to attend Central High School, an all-boys school since its founding in 1836. A federal judge agreed with her claim that Central High offered superior science facilities and a better reputation than Girls High, the city's other school for academically gifted students.

And he ruled that Miss Vorchheimer's exclusion was unconstitutional discrimination. His decision was overturned by the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said Philadelphia had a right to maintain two one-sex schools if they were substantially equal. Miss Vorchheimer appealed to the Supreme Court and argued that Girls High is inferior to Central. Miss Vorchheimer did not attend either school, but went instead to a neighborhood school. She is now a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, but her suit, filed on behalf of all girls who would like to attend Central, remains alive.

The high court said Monday it will consider the case, which her attorneys say is a direct link to the historic Brown case. Arguments are set for early next year. The justices declined Monday to take up another sex discrimination case. New Jersey school teacher Paula Grossman, who once was Paul Grossman, lost her bid to have the justices overrule a lower court decision that federal prohibitions against sex discrimination don't apply to transsexuals.

The Grossman woman was fired from her job in 1971 after 14 years of teaching as a man in Bernards Township, N.J.

In other cases Monday, the court:

—Refused to lift an order issued earlier this year by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. banning enforcement of a Massachusetts law requiring women under 18 to obtain a court order or parental consent before having an abortion.

—Agreed to consider whether a state may oust a political party official if he refuses to testify in a criminal investigation.

—Agreed to hear the case of a Florida man convicted of manslaughter who claims he should have had the right to challenge the testimony of a witness called by his own attorney.

BH School Board Adopts $14.9 Million Budget

The Benton Harbor board of education last night adopted a $14.9 million general fund budget for the regular school year and voted to apply for $4 million in federal public works funds to repair classroom buildings.

The board also approved an $870,816 food services budget.

The $14,900,368 regular school program budget for fiscal 1976-77 is 7 per cent higher than the $13,858,000 budget adopted last October for fiscal 1975-76, reported Larry Rankens, group director of business and finance. He added that last year's budget was revised downward to about $13,600,000 and revisions later could be made on the new budget.

Schools Supt. Richard Helser said a $4 million federal grant, if received, would be spent for the same renovation program, planned during 1974-75, but halted by voter rejection of building and site fund tax propositions.

Classroom repairs were planned for senior high school, Benton Harbor, Fairplain and Hull seventh-eighth grade centers and 23 elementary schools.

Helser said if the grant is not approved, he would urge another building and site fund vote sometime next year. Helser said an operating tax vote definitely will be held next year, because all 21.351 extra-voted mills expire this year.

Estimated expenditures of the $14.9 million budget include $1,361,343 for basic programs including salaries of teachers at the elementary and secondary level; $1,071,293 for special and vocational education; $3,315,945 for plant maintenance, business administration and transportation; $878,397 for school administration (including principals); and $378,333 for central administration (including executive officers and clerical employees).

Major income sources include the local property tax levy, $3,487,394 and state sources, $8,228,965.

Helser said the budget is balanced, but the future "looks bleak." He said the district's state equalized valuation declined from $210,135,553 in fiscal 1975-76 to an estimated $184,599,152 for fiscal 1976-77. Helser said the new state single business tax is largely responsible for this by removing inventories from the personal property tax rolls.

Helser also said the two-year master contract for teachers expires next August and contract talks probably would begin about February. Also reported expiring next year are contracts for middle-level administrators, including principals, and secretaries.

Buchanan School Board OKs $3,067,700 Budget

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan school board last night approved a 1976-77 operating budget calling for expenditures of $3,067,700 and revenue of $3,268,168.

Approval of the budget followed a public hearing attended by 12 people.

Paul Montgomery, school business manager, said the budget reflects an increase of 6.2 per cent in expenditures over the 1975-76 figure of $2,889,050.

Revenue is estimated to rise 13 per cent from $2,891,954 last year.

The difference between the estimated revenues and expenditures, $200,468, is listed in budget as a reserve for estimated cuts in state aid and delinquent taxes, Montgomery said.

Under a new state-mandated accounting system, the budget must list revenue anticipated 100 per cent collection of local property taxes and not list any anticipated cuts in state aid.

Last year, the district's state aid was cut by $38,000, he added.

Of the estimated revenue, Montgomery said local taxes are expected to raise $1,837,704, with the rest coming from state and federal sources. He pointed out that even with voter approval of a 3.4-mill property tax increase earlier this year, local revenue will decline from last year's figure of $2,063,955, because of a $14,769,707 decrease in the district's state equalized valuation.

Montgomery blamed the drop in SEV on elimination of business inventory taxes with the new single business tax.

The increase in the budget is due to several factors including restoration programs cut last year and rebuilding supplies not purchased last year under a tight budget. The budget also calls for repairs to two school roofs and demolition of a smoke stack at the high school, Montgomery said.

As approved by the board, the budget does not include any pay raises that may come from contract talks with teachers and custodians, only already approved step increases. A pay hike could mean revision to the budget at a later date, he said.

In other areas, the board approved a $2 million fleet insurance policy contract with the Jack Alexander Farm Bureau agency, Niles, calling for a year's premium of $6,004.

Tuition rates for non-resident students of $164 per year for elementary and $202 for secondary students were approved by the board.

A request for early graduation, submitted by Caroline Flenar, high school senior, was approved, providing she meets the conditions and requirements of school board policy. She plans to graduate at the end of the first semester in order to attend college in the spring.

The board voted to renew membership in the National School Board association at a cost of $350.

The board in general business hired Russell Tynes as assistant principal of Hull school on a 42-week contract for $16,500. Tynes has been with the Benton Harbor district since 1969 and most recently taught at Seely McCord school under a 38-week contract for $14,346. At Hull, he succeeds George Loder who earlier was named principal at Henry Norton school.

Library Workshop Cancelled

The Berrien County Library Consortium workshop, scheduled to be held Wednesday, Oct. 20, on the Lake Michigan College campus, as been cancelled, according to William Hessel, LMC dean of libraries and consortium chairman.

The workshop was to be open to the public. Although consortium libraries and their staffs have been notified of the cancellation, Dean Hessel indicated that a number of those of the general public who had registered to attend might not have been advised that the workshop had been called off.

Cemetery Sets Wreath Cutoff

NEW BUFFALO — Anton Carson, chairman of New Buffalo Pine Grove cemetery board, has announced that all wreaths, urns and flowers must be removed from graves by Nov. 1 or they will be picked up and destroyed by cemetery personnel. The announcement was made in connection with the annual fall cleanup at the cemetery.

Landfill Decision Delayed

The Benton township planning commission has delayed a decision on a request to expand the present Berrien county landfill until an amendment is adopted to the township's zoning ordinances to cover sanitary landfills.

The planning commission adjourned without taking any action last night at a special meeting on the request by the Northwest Berrien County Landfill Authority for a special use permit to use another 67-acres of land adjacent to the present nine-year-old site just north of Ross field airport.

The present 65-acre landfill, located at the west end of Smallidge road off Crystal avenue, serves the Cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, the townships of Benton and St. Joseph, and the village of Shoreham.

The board divided the sale of a $2 million state aid note between Farmers and Merchants National bank, Benton Harbor, and Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co., Chicago. Each offered an interest rate of 3.079 for $1 million, maturing next June 30.

Acknowledged was a gift to Johnson school of 192 National Geographic magazines from 1958 to 1972, from Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hanners, 3634 Fieldtree road, Benton township.

Fennville Meeting Is Called Off

FENNVILLE — The Fennville city commission meeting was cancelled last night due to lack of a quorum. The meeting has been rescheduled to Monday, Oct. 25, according to Mrs. Dorothy Garlock, city clerk.

ELLBERG: Daniel Ellsberg, who released the Pentagon Papers, addresses rally of about 700 people taking part in a demonstration by the Continental Walk for Disarmament and Social Justice Monday at the Pentagon. About 50 demonstrators including Ellsberg were arrested on misdemeanor charges of impeding traffic. (AP Wirephoto)

FIRE KILLS THREE
ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Robert Yonkers, 26, and two children were killed in a house fire early today near here. His wife was hospitalized.

BH To Start Negotiating For HUD Land Purchase

The Benton Harbor city commission last night authorized the start of negotiations for the city to purchase 44 acres of urban renewal land from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The commission voted unanimously to direct Alvin Chase, the city's economic development director, to begin negotiations with HUD to buy the HUD-owned vacant land in the Riverview drive and old fruit market areas.

Commissioner Michael Govatos, chairman of the commission's economic development committee, said the city hopes to encourage commercial development of the land by purchasing it at a "much lower price" than the $398,000 price tag set on the land by HUD. The city would then be able to sell the land to private developers at a lower price, he said.

Govatos said the city will appeal to HUD to sell the land at a lower price as "a hardship case" because the current price is too prohibitive for developers and it is the only land in the city that can be commercially developed. "As it stands now, it's actually a deterrent to the growth of the city," he said.

One of the major projects eyed by the city for the urban renewal land is the redevelopment of the old fruit market site into a group of small retail stores. Govatos said 33 of the 44 acres of land the city hopes to purchase from HUD will be used for the redevelopment project. Govatos said the city hopes to get redevelopment plans off the ground by spring. One of the plans for redevelopment, according to Govatos, is to locate the retail fruit market there. The retail market is presently combined with the wholesale market on Territorial road. In other action, the commission voted to direct City Assessor John Lottridge to continue to combine duties as city assessor and city clerk until the end of the year.

Lottridge temporarily fills the vacancy created with his resignation of T.J. (Jack) Carter who resigned as acting city clerk Sept. 30. The commission also voted to give Lottridge 12 extra hours worth of wages per week to fill the vacancy.

The commission referred to committee a request by Ellis Hull to withhold three parcels of property he owns in the city from the state property tax sale until he can pay the delinquent property taxes. The three parcels were identified as Johnny's Fashion store, Shango's Gallery and a vacant lot, all on East Main street.

Properties with delinquent taxes for three years revert to the state which sells them at auction. The commission voted to accept a low bid of $115,140 from Michiana Mack, Inc., of Mishawaka, Ind., for a new fire truck for the city. Money for the new truck is coming from the city's $1.4 million federal Community Development grant.

The commission approved a contract with Herman Wenz, of Hartford City, Ind., to demolish the former Producers Service building the city owns at 26 Market street at no cost to the city. Wenz said in a letter he will demolish the building for the right to salvage the contents.

Tynes has been with the Benton Harbor district since 1969 and most recently taught at Seely McCord school under a 38-week contract for $14,346. At Hull, he succeeds George Loder who earlier was named principal at Henry Morton school.

The board divided the sale of a $2 million state aid note between Farmers and Merchants National bank, Benton Harbor, and Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co., Chicago. Each offered an interest rate of 3.475 for $1 million, maturing next June 30.

Acknowledged was a gift to Johnson school of 192 National Geographic magazines from 1956 to 1972, from Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hanners, 3634 Fieldtree road, Benton township.

Buchanan School Board OKs $3,067,700 Budget

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan school board last night approved a 1976-77 operating budget calling for expenditures of $3,067,700 and revenue of $3,268,168.

Approval of the budget followed a public hearing attended by 12 people.

Paul Montgomery, school business manager, said the budget reflects an increase of 6.2 per cent in expenditures over the 1975-76 figure of $2,889,050.

Revenue is estimated to rise 13 per cent from $2,891,954 last year.

The difference between the estimated revenues and expenditures, $200,468, is listed in budget as a reserve for estimated cuts in state aid and delinquent taxes, Montgomery said.

Under a new state-mandated accounting system, the budget must list revenue anticipating 100 per cent collection of local property taxes and not list any anticipated cuts in state aid. Last year, the district's state aid was cut by $58,000, he added.

Of the estimated revenue, Montgomery said local taxes are expected to raise $1,837,704, with the rest coming from state and federal sources. He pointed out that even with voter approval of a 3.4-mill property tax increase earlier this year, local revenue will decline from last year's figure of $2,063,955, because of a $14,769,707 decrease in the district's state equalized valuation.

Montgomery blamed the drop in SEV on elimination of business inventory taxes with the new single business tax.

The increase in the budget is due to several factors including restoration programs cut last year and rebuilding supplies not purchased last year under a tight budget. The budget also calls for repairs to two school roofs and demolition of a smoke stack at the high school, Montgomery said.

As approved by the board, the budget does not include any pay raises that may come from contract talks with teachers and custodians, only already approved step increases. A pay hike could mean revision to the budget at a later date, he said.

In other areas, the board approved a $2 million fleet insurance policy contract with the Jack Alexander Farm Bureau agency, Niles, calling for a year's premium of $6,064.

Tuition rates for non-resident students of $164 per year for elementary and $202 for secondary students were approved by the board.

A request for early graduation, submitted by Caroline Flenar, high school senior, was approved, providing she meets the conditions and requirements of school board policy. She plans to graduate at the end of the first semester in order to attend college in the spring.

The board voted to renew membership in the National School Board association at a cost of $350.

Library Workshop Cancelled

The Berrien County Library Consortium workshop, scheduled to be held Wednesday, Oct. 20, on the Lake Michigan College campus, as been cancelled, according to William Hessel, LMC dean of libraries and consortium chairman.

The workshop was to be open to the public. Although consortium libraries and their staffs have been notified of the cancellation, Dean Hessel indicated that a number of those of the general public who had registered to attend might not have been advised that the workshop had been called off.

BH To Start Negotiating For HUD Land Purchase

The Benton Harbor city commission last night authorized the start of negotiations for the city to purchase 44 acres of urban renewal land from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The commission voted unanimously to direct Alvin Chase, the city's economic development director, to begin negotiations with HUD to buy the HUD-owned vacant land in the Riverview drive and old fruit market areas.

Commissioner Michael Govatos, chairman of the commission's economic development committee, said the city hopes to encourage commercial development of the land by purchasing it at a "much lower price" than the $598,000 price tag set on the land by HUD. The city would then be able to sell the land to private developers at a lower price, he said.

Govatos said the city will appeal to HUD to sell the land at a lower price as "a hardship case" because the current price is too prohibitive for developers and it is the only land in the city that can be commercially developed. "As it stands now, it's actually a deterrent to the growth of the city," he said.

One of the major projects eyed by the city for the urban renewal land is the redevelopment of the old fruit market site into a group of small retail stores. Govatos said 33 of the 44 acres of land the city hopes to purchase from HUD will be used for the redevelopment project. Govatos said the city hopes to get redevelopment plans off the ground by spring. One of the plans for redevelopment, according to Govatos, is to locate the retail fruit market there. The retail market is presently combined with the wholesale market on Territorial road. In other action, the commission voted to direct City Assessor John Lottridge to continue to combine duties as city assessor and city clerk until the end of the year.

Lotridge temporarily fills the vacancy created with the resignation of T.J. (Jack) Carter who resigned as acting city clerk Sept. 30. The commission also voted to give Lottridge 12 extra hours' worth of wages per week to fill the vacancy.

The commission referred to committee a request by Ellis Hull to withhold three parcels of property he owns in the city from the state property tax sale until he can pay the delinquent property taxes. The three parcels were identified as Johnny's Fashion store, Shango's Gallery, and a vacant lot, all on East Main street.

Properties with delinquent taxes for three years revert to the state which sells them at auction. The commission voted to accept a low bid of $115,146 from Michiana Mack, Inc., of Mishawaka, Ind., for a new fire truck for the city. Money for the new truck is coming from the city's $1.4 million federal Community Development grant.

The commission approved a contract with Herman Wenz, of Hartford City, Ind., to demolish the former Producers Services building the city owns at 261 Market street at no cost to the city. Wenz said in a letter he will demolish the building for the right to salvage the contents.

'Kaye' Really Needs Wig

By ELAINE HOOKER
Associated Press Writer
MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — "Baldie, baldie, baldie," schoolmates in Michigan called after her more than 25 years ago.

Once, during a fire drill, a child pulled the wig off and exposed her bald head, to the delight of the rest of the pupils.

To this day Kaye, now 38, winces when she says the word bald and doesn't even like to say the word wig.

She says her own maturity and the popularity of wigs have helped give her "a free psyche."

But the scars are still there. She has never allowed her husband of 17 years to see her bald head. She wears a wig to bed and will shop only in wig boutiques where there is a back room for her to try on hairpieces.

And she didn't want her real name used in a story, although she couldn't explain exactly why.

She doesn't know how many other women have the same secret — that under the wig there is no hair — because most people are ashamed to talk about it. The owner of a large local wig boutique, however, says that of every 100 women who buy wigs from him, one is completely bald.

Kaye's hair fell out when she was 4 years old, after she had suffered a low-grade fever for several months. No doctor has been able to explain why.

She says she blanked out about six months of that time and doesn't remember when she first realized she was different. But tears came to her eyes as she recalled that her mother found her standing in a corner one day when she was 4½, crying. Her mother said that when she asked what was wrong, the child replied, "I look funny, don't I?"

Throughout school she was teased by other children and always felt "like a second-class citizen." Occasionally, schoolmates invited her to sleep at their houses hoping she would take her wig off at night, when she had thought they were her friends.

"For years, desperately I would dream that when I woke up in the morning all my hair was there."

Her parents, who were not wealthy, spent thousands of dollars on human hair wigs, doctors' visits, injections and heat treatments in the hope her hair would grow back.

During early adolescence, when her body underwent hormonal changes, she grew some hair. When that fell out she realized it never would grow back and began to try to accept it.

When Kaye was 17 or 18, a Methodist minister went to her house to talk over her problems, telling her:

"You've just got to learn to accept it, and say, 'Yes, I do wear a wig. So what?'"

"Now that I look at it, it's so simple I don't know why I ever tried to hide it," she said. "I am in control of my life now."

"You don't ever get over the fear of being rejected by other kids. To the day I die I will never feel comfortable in this body."

POLICE ROUNDUP

Pair Calls Cab, Robs The Driver

A Twin City Cab Lines driver told Benton Harbor police he was robbed of $38 in cash early today by two men after being lured to East Vineyard street by a call to pick up a fare. Robert Osborn, 21, of 161 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, said he was dispatched to the 601 block of East Vineyard but found no one waiting. He said he started to drive away when he was flagged down and two men got into the cab. One of them threatened him with a handgun.

Osborn said they took his money and forced him to drive to an alley off East High street where they got out, took the keys to the cab and departed on foot. Osborn was not injured in the robbery that occurred shortly after 1 a.m.

St. Joseph police said two boys were taken into custody Monday night after police found an allegedly stolen bicycle and a watch. The two, 14 and 15, were later turned over to the custody of their parents pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Lt. Theodore Goodwin said he saw two boys riding bicycles on Lake street near Park street about 8:30 p.m. One bike he said looked like one reported stolen Sunday from a St. Joseph man and was later identified as the reportedly stolen bike. Goodwin said a braided wrist watch used by the blind was confiscated and police said it was learned later it was allegedly stolen from a St. Joseph man.

Police said both boys face charges of possession of stolen property.

Benton Harbor police said Darnell Mulhern, Benton Harbor, was arrested Monday on a charge of attempted breaking and entering a home at 332 East Empire avenue.

Hunted

Benton Harbor police said they were still searching for the driver of a car that careened through a fence in the yard of a Benton Harbor home Monday about 3:15 p.m.

Police said the 1969 Ford convertible went through a chain link fence, tore through the yard and crashed into the other side of the fence at the home of Leo Bettison, 721 Ogden avenue. No one was in the yard at the time.

Witnesses told police four men got out of the car, two who appeared to be carrying six-packs of beer, and walked away.

Rally Slated

The final report rally of the 1976 Blossomland United Way campaign will be held Thursday noon in the St. Joseph Elks lodge, according to Dr. Walter Browne, general chairman. Browne urged volunteers to arrive on time for the $1.50 buffet lunch. He asked employee campaign chairman to file reports at the BLW office by Wednesday afternoon.

Galien Board Discusses Complaints About Coach

BY LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

GALIEN — Galien school board members and administrators met behind closed doors in executive session for more than an hour last night after several parents complained that high school football coach Jerry Hess is too rough with the players during practice.

Dr. Robert C. Tilmann, superintendent, said this morning the board took no action on the complaints, but a meeting had been scheduled today between Hess and administrators.

"I expect we will get a commitment from him to refrain from getting too rough," Dr. Tilmann said.

The superintendent said he believed the commitment would resolve the matter to the satisfaction of most of the parents who have lodged complaints.

Some of the complaints were aired during the public portion of last night's school board meeting.

Hess, who has begun his second year of coaching at Galien with an 0-5 record, is alleged to have knocked down some of his players and slapped the helmets of others while instructing them in rushing techniques on the practice field. The win-loss record is Galien's worst in over 20 years.

"He just got a little too physical out there," Dr. Tilmann said. Hess is a 6-2, 240 pounder, Dr. Tilmann said.

The superintendent said Hess will have to give more consideration to the fact that most of his 24 players are sophomores weighing in at only about 150 pounds.

"You can knock a senior around a lot more because he has 20 more pounds on him and can take it," Dr. Tilmann said. He said that some of the parents want Hess removed but

Apartment House Called Problem For St. Joseph

St. Joseph Building Inspector Carl Conklin reported last night in the city commission that an 18-unit apartment house is a problem for the city.

The apartment house Conklin reported on is at 917 Pearl street and is known as the Lincoln apartments. They are owned by Rocco Bertucca, Coloma.

Conklin was directed to look into the condition of the apartments by City Manager Gerald W. Heppler after Heppler received an anonymous letter last month complaining about conditions.

Lawton School Budget OK'd

LAWTON — A 1976-77 budget calling for expenditures of $1,183,922 was adopted by the Lawton school board last night.

The budget represents about a $40,000 increase over last year's actual expenditures of $1,144,311, according to Supt. Ray Bandlow.

Major sources of revenue include: $498,129 in state aid; $597,114 in local property tax receipts; $78,679 in other state aid; and $10,000 from federal programs.

Bandlow said the budget is based on a property tax levy at 25.85 mills for general operations.

That is an increase of about 2.3 mills over last year.

The district will also levy 7 mills for debt retirement.

In other areas, the board signed an agreement to accept a $27,400 bond loan from the state. The loan will enable the district to pay bonded indebtedness on time, Bandlow said.

The superintendent said the board has scheduled Nov. 5 and April 1 as half-days of school for students, but full days for teachers. Both days are at the end of marking periods and will give teachers time to prepare report cards.

Second Man Held On Robbery Count

CASSOPOLIS — Cass sheriff's deputies said yesterday that a second man has been arrested in connection with the Sept. 19 armed robbery of the Totem fruit stand near Dowagiac.

The man, Robert Holleman, 25, was arrested Sunday at his South Bend residence by Indiana authorities, deputies said.

He is to be charged with armed robbery and extradition will be sought, deputies said. He is being held in the St. Joseph county, Ind., jail.

State police detectives at the Benton Harbor post said Holleman is also charged with armed robbery in connection with a Sept. 9 holdup of the Burkhardt Standard Service center on M-139 in Benton township.

In that robbery, a gunman made off with $287.

An Eau Claire man, Kevin

Conklin told the commission he understood two-thirds of the tenants were on some kind of welfare. He said the apartments sustain damage frequently and repairs are made by unqualified people. He said some of the tenants appear to have "no sense of pride."

Conklin said the building was the Lincoln elementary school years ago.

St. Joseph Atty. James Straub, representing Bertucca, who was not present, agreed with some of Conklin's description of the apartments, but added that being an absentee landlord as Bertucca is it is sometimes difficult to maintain an 18-unit apartment house.

Straub added that structurally the building is in good condition, but because it is so old Bertucca could not charge high rent and, therefore, gets the type of tenants who may be destructive.

No action was taken by the commission, but both Conklin and Straub agreed that Bertucca was co-operative and was willing to work with the city to help correct any problems at the apartments.

In other business, the commission voted to enter into a purchase agreement to buy a house at 817 Broad street for $21,000 for office development district.

Heppler said the purchase is the 10th parcel of property acquired by the city in the proposed office district. Heppler said the property will be purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Heyn, who are residing at the single family dwelling. Heppler said the Heyns plan on relocating at 1824 Langley avenue.

In other business concerning the office district to be centered near Pleasant and Court streets, the commission accepted a recommendation from City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr., to have the St. Joseph Housing corporation take over management of four houses owned by the city in the office district. The houses are at 312, 314, and 306 Church street and 319-321 Court street.

Heppler said the corporation would be responsible for collecting rent, making repairs and paying taxes. He said the corporation would take control of the properties until such time as development of the office district is ready and the present tenants can relocate. The houses would then be demolished.

He said the housing corporation is a nonprofit organization that was formed back in the 1920's and whose purpose is to help improve the housing stock in St. Joseph.

He said the money the corporation collected from the tenants of the four dwellings would be used by the corporation to acquire property in the office district which would then be sold to the city at cost.

The commission also voted to direct Heppler to send word of its opposition to state legislators in reference to anti-annexation legislation pending in the State Senate. Commissioner William Gillespie said the legislation if passed would force cities to annex all of a chartered township and would not allow partial annexation of a chartered township.

The commission also voted to allow Eric Johnson 10 days to draw up and submit plans to Conklin on how he plans to rehabilitate his garage at 1010 State street. The commission told Johnson if the garage is not repaired to code it will be torn down.

Douglas Lee Clark, 19, and James F. Widner, 22, both of Hartford, pleaded guilty to charges of attempted larceny in a building stemming from the theft of $20 from a popcorn stand parked at Cade's Arco service, Hartford, on Sept. 1.

Pair Calls Cab, Robs The Driver

A Twin City Cab Lines driver told Benton Harbor police he was robbed of $38 in cash early today by two men after being lured to East Vineyard street by a call to pick up a fare. Robert Osborn, 21, of 163 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, said he was dispatched to the 600 block of East Vineyard but found no one waiting. He said he started to drive away when he was flagged down and two men got into the cab. One of them threatened him with a handgun.

Osborn said they took his money and forced him to drive to an alley off East High street where they got out, took the keys to the cab and departed on foot. Osborn was not injured in the robbery that occurred shortly after 1 a.m.

Police said Mary Beth Virehott, 332 East Empire, reported a man attempted to enter her home about noon, but she frightened him away when she came to the door with a shotgun.

Patrolman Dale Easton said a man matching the description was picked up nearby. Mulherion, 21, of 954 Waukonda avenue, was booked at the Berrien county jail.

Benton Harbor police said they recovered a movie projector dropped by two youths who ran from Columbus school where police were called about 8 p.m. Monday by a silent burglar alarm.

Police Sgt. Charles Harrison said he chased two boys, who appeared to be in their teens, on foot from the school, 815 Columbus avenue, but lost them as they darted between houses. Harrison said one boy dropped the projector as they ran across the school parking lot.

Police said entry to the school was made through a basement window.

Benton Harbor police said Darnell Mulherion, Benton Harbor, was arrested Monday on a charge of attempted breaking and entering a home at 332 East Empire avenue.

Hunted

Benton Harbor police said they were still searching for the driver of a car that careened through a fence in the yard of a Benton Harbor home Monday about 3:15 p.m.

Police said the 1969 Ford convertible went through a chain link fence, tore through the yard and crashed into the other side of the fence at the home of Reo Bettison, 721 Ogden avenue. No one was in the yard at the time.

Witnesses told police four men got out of the car, two who appeared to be carrying six-packs of beer, and walked away.

Galien Board Discusses Complaints About Coach

BY LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer
GALIEN — Galien school board members and administrators met behind closed doors in executive session for more than an hour last night after several parents complained that high school football coach Jerry Hess is too rough with the players during practice.

Dr. Robert C. Tilmann, superintendent, said this morning the board took no action on the complaints, but a meeting had been scheduled today between Hess and administrators.

"I expect we will get a commitment from him to refrain from getting too rough," Dr. Tilmann said.

The superintendent said he believed the commitment would resolve the matter to the satisfaction of most of the parents who have lodged complaints.

Some of the complaints were aired during the public portion of last night's school board meeting.

Hess, who has begun his second year of coaching at Galien with an 0-5 record, is alleged to have knocked down some of his players and slapped the helmets of others while instructing them in rushing techniques on the practice field. The win-loss record is Galien's worst in over 20 years.

"He just got a little too physical out there," Dr. Tilmann said. Hess is a 6-2, 240 pounder, Dr. Tilmann said.

The superintendent said Hess will have to give more consideration to the fact that most of his 24 players are sophomores weighing in at only about 150 pounds.

"You can knock a senior around a lot more because he has 20 more pounds on him and can take it," Dr. Tilmann said. He said that some of the parents want Hess removed but

FISHING AT POINTER LAKE

Berrien Springs Man Drowns

BY TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Emanuel (Mike) Thierbach, 65, Berrien Springs, drowned Monday while fishing from his boat on a small lake southwest of here, Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police said. Thierbach's body was recovered by Berrien sheriff's marine deputies about 12:30 a.m. today. Berrien Springs police said Thierbach had been reported missing by his wife, Evelyn, about 7 p.m. and soon after police located his empty boat anchored in Pointer lake, Oronoko township, off Garr Road between Snow road and Red Bud trail.

Marine deputies reported Thierbach was found about 20 feet from his boat in seven feet of water. Berrien Springs Patrolman Robert Griese said Dr. Robert Wieseke, deputy Berrien medical examiner, listed the cause of death as accidental drowning.

Griese said Thierbach's boat was about two-thirds full of water and his fishing equipment was floating nearby. There was no apparent damage to the 14-foot aluminum boat.

Police theorized that Thierbach may have leaned out of the boat and fallen overboard, then was weighted down with heavy clothing. He was not wearing a life jacket, Griese said, although one was found floating with his fishing gear.

The drowning was the eighth of the year in Berrien county. Last year a total of seven drowned in the county. Funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon at the Alford-Mayhew funeral home, Berrien Springs.

Mr. Thierbach lived at 403 South Mechanic street, Berrien Springs.

Memorials may be made to Trinity Lutheran church, Berrien Springs.

Baroda Township Ups Levy

BARODA — Baroda township board last night voted to increase this year's township tax levy from three to four mills. The hike includes one-half mill each for the fire equipment fund and the rubbish and garbage pickup fund.

The rate is expected to bring in approximately $14,000 in additional taxes, based on the township's present state equalized valuation of approximately $14 million in real and personal property, according to Supervisor Orland Mead.

The board had been levying half of a one-mill levy approved by voters for fire protection previously, permitting the increase for fire needs.

In the case of the rubbish collection tax, voters had approved a mill and a half levy, but the board had levied only a half mill previously.

The increase in the fire levy is to raise revenue for equipment, township officials said.

The rubbish and garbage service cost is $16,200 a year, of which approximately $7,000 was paid by the one-half mill assessment, the remainder from the general fund. The board was in agreement that due to a lack in the general fund, the additional one-half mill would be needed to meet the expense next year. A contract with the T. & E. Enterprises, Sawyer, for the service was approved after the new rate was set.

In other business, the board voted to obtain bids for the pump and apparatus for the new fire truck. Bids are to be received by Clerk Emil Nitz no later than Nov. 29 for review by the truck committee. A recommendation will be made to the board at its Dec. 20 meeting.

Nitz reported the board, at a special meeting on Sept. 25, accepted the low bid of $12,620 from Zerbel G.M.C. Truck, Inc., Benton Harbor, for a 1977 fire truck chassis. Two other bids of $13,352 from Gersende Equipment Co., Benton Harbor, and $13,595 from West Motors, Niles, also were received.

Mead announced the Baroda-Lake fire department board voted to purchase a 1977 Plymouth from Roti Motors, Benton Harbor, for approximately $4,000. Baroda and Lake townships will each pay 40 per cent of the cost and Baroda village 20 per cent.

Nitz reported there are 1,400 registered voters in the township. Six building permits totaling $63,350 in estimated building costs were approved during September.

Large rubbish pickups will be made on Oct. 23 in the village; Oct. 30, Shawnee road and south; and Nov. 6, north of Shawnee road. No building materials, tree limbs or car mufflers will be picked up.

Mead announced the Berrien county chapter of the Michigan Township association will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Bertrand township hall.

The regular meeting date of the board was changed from Nov. 15 to Tuesday, Nov. 9.

Water Safety Retraining

The Berrien county chapter of the Red Cross has announced it is offering a retraining course for water safety instructors beginning Wednesday, Oct. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Andrews university pool in Berrien Springs. The four-week course will be the last opportunity for instructors to be retrained before the Dec. 31 deadline, according to Dan Klein, the course instructor. Interested people should contact Klein at the Andrews physical education department.

South Haven Again Stalls Revised Zoning Standard

BY TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A proposed new zoning ordinance for South Haven was tabled again last night by the South Haven city council, amid criticism from some aldermen.

The proposed ordinance, in the making for more than two years, has been before the council for adoption since last June.

Dad Behind In Support; He's Jailed

A Dowagiac man owing more than $4,000 in child support was sentenced to 60 days in jail Monday by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White.

While held Walter Lorenz in contempt of court for $4,063 arrears for two children not on ADC and placed him on two years probation.

Last night's tabling was the third time the proposal was kept for action later.

The council did agree to meet Thursday with the planning commission in an attempt to iron out differences over the proposal so it could be placed on the council's agenda for the next meeting.

Opposition to the measure came from two councilmen primarily.

Labeling the new ordinance ambiguous, Matthew Goerg, third ward councilman, claimed the new law was going to do citizens more harm than good. He was joined in his criticism by Wilbur Ingham, first ward councilman.

"There are too many rules being laid down," said Goerg. "It's no wonder people want to live outside the city where there aren't so many rules. At times I've been tempted to move out."

Goerg further claimed the new ordinance was going to drive industry out of the city. "If we cause plants to move (because of this ordinance) then I believe the council should resign," said Goerg.

Spokesmen for the National Motor Castings company, one of South Haven's largest employers, expressed concern last night over some parts of the proposed ordinance as it relates to setback requirements.

"We are not opposed to zoning as such, but desire to make the council aware of some potential problems we see in the ordinance," said David Grier, attorney for National Motor.

Ronald Kozlik, first ward alderman, took issue with Goerg, noting there is no such thing as a zoning ordinance that makes everybody happy. He further accused Goerg of having a negative attitude.

Joseph Seiler, second ward councilman, agreed, asking Goerg, "how come after two years in making (this) ordinance certain members of council have become instant experts?"

A citizen, Mrs. Stanley Olen of Black River road, noted that zoning legislation in the city in the past has caused her inconvenience. She said that four years ago she had to hire a lawyer to get the city to zone her land to allow the construction of a home, but that now under the new ordinance it is classified as residential.

In other matters, council accepted the low bid of Ed Hedlund of South Haven to rent a hangar at the municipal airport at $70 per month.

His proposal was passed by a 6-1 margin with Goerg casting the only dissenting vote on the grounds that the monthly fee is too low. Goerg predicted that acceptance of Hedlund's proposal would make the council "the laughing stock of the town."

However Mayor Richard Lewis noted that a previous rental agreement called for the tenant to pay the city $2 a month.

"We might have been the laughing stock then, but not now," said Lewis.

Voting to approve the lease were Ingham, Kozlik, Seiler, Mayor Lewis, Robert Warren and Norvan Books.

Council approved a request from National Motor Castings to terminate, as of Nov. 1, a long-term lease of dock space along the Black River. The firm has been paying the city $500 per year for the right to use city property to unload pig iron from ships.

A company spokesman said it no longer receives materials by ship.

Council referred to the board of public utilities and planning commission for final determination of a 1973 request from Merton Jones that a four acre tract of land he owns in South Haven township be annexed to the city. Council failed to act on Jones' initial request.

Council voted 6-1 to allow the fire department to burn abandoned buildings for training purposes if neighbors do not object and as long as the property owner agrees to cleanup the site after the fire.

Goerg cast the only dissenting vote, saying he doubted that burning abandoned buildings had much training value for firemen. He also charged that such training would be too expensive for the city.

Edwardsburg Man Held On Hired Murder Count

BY JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau

EDWARDSBURG — An Edwardsburg man arrested in his home early this morning is wanted in Virginia in connection with what authorities in that state describe as an alleged murder for hire scheme.

Lodged in the Cass county jail, Cassopolis, was a man identified by state police at Niles as William Morris, 50. Police said he was taken into custody after they were notified by state police in Virginia that he had been indicted by a Wise county, Va. grand jury on a first degree murder charge.

Joseph Kuczek, commonwealth attorney for Wise county, Va., said this morning that Morris was one of three people indicted in connection with the 1968 murder of a man in nearby Coeburn, Va., by what Kuczek described as hired killers.

Also indicted on a first degree murder charge was Betty Lou Ramsey, who according to Kuczek, is described as a girlfriend of Morris and allegedly present when plumber Charles Stout was slain on Feb. 4, 1969.

Also indicted was a man described by Kuczek as a former partner in a plumbing firm with the victim, James E. Collins, also of Coeburn, Va. Collins is charged with being an accessory before the fact of the murder, Kuczek said.

According to Kuczek, Collins is alleged in the indictment to have paid Morris $25,000 to murder Stout. The commonwealth attorney said that Collins collected $200,000 on an insurance policy the two partners had taken out on each other.

State police at Niles said Morris was arrested at his home shortly after midnight by their officers, Cass county sheriff's department deputies and officers from the Edwardsburg village-Ontwa township police department. Police said he offered no resistance when taken into custody.

South Haven's Hospital Seeking $1 Million Grant

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven Community hospital authority board last night authorized filing an application for $1 million in federal grant as an alternative financing method for a proposed building improvement program.

The grant would be sought under the federal public works employment act.

Voters in the hospital authority will be asked Nov. 2 to approve a millage issue to finance the $1.2 million construction program.

However, approval of the public works findings would probably mean that the millage would not have to be levied, if it were approved, according to Administrator Wayne Eagleson.

The problem, according to Eagleson, is that the hospital will not know for at least 90 days if the public works grant is to be approved. He urged voters not to base their decision at the polls Nov. 2 on the hopes that the federal funding will be approved.

"If we are funded by the federal government, then we probably wouldn't need the millage, but the public works program is a gamble at this time," Eagleson said.

The Nov. 2 proposal seeks one mill for three years for construction of an addition to the hospital and renovation of existing facilities.

In other matters, Eagleson announced the appointment of Mrs. Jacqueline Sorensen as director of nursing to fill a vacancy of nearly two months. Mrs. Sorensen was previously director of nursing at a hospital in Detroit.

The board approved purchasing $14,000 in additional cardiac monitoring equipment to establish an intermediate care unit for heart patients. Eagleson noted that the intensive care unit had an occupancy average of 121 per cent last month, indicating the need for intermediate care facilities.

Eagleson reported the hospital is investigating the possible establishment of an out-patient pharmacy service.

Patient occupancy last month increased to 55 per cent as opposed to 35 per cent during September, 1975. Occupancy for the fiscal year to date is averaging 49 per cent against 38 per cent for the same period a year ago.

The board adjourned after normal business into a three-hour executive session to discuss personnel matters. Eagleson said the discussion centered around differences between the medical staff and hospital employees, but he declined to elaborate.

Ups Levy

BARODA — Baroda township board last night voted to increase this year's township tax levy from three to four mills. The hike includes one-half mill each for the fire equipment fund and the rubbish and garbage pickup fund.

The rate is expected to bring in approximately $14,000 in additional taxes, based on the township's present state equalized valuation of approximately $14 million in real and personal property, according to Supervisor Orland Mead.

Nitz reported there are 1,400 registered voters in the township.

Six building permits totaling $63,350 in estimated building costs were approved during September.

Large rubbish pickups will be made on Oct. 23 in the village; Oct. 30, Shawnee road and south; and Nov. 6, north of Shawnee road. No building materials, tree limbs or car mufflers will be picked up.

Kubek Says '61 Team Better Than Today's Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are no Little League team. After all, they're the American League champions. Yet former Yankee Tony Kubek thinks only one player from New York's 1976 club could have started for the Yankees in 1961.

Kubek says that of the present Yankee regulars, only Catfish Hunter would definitely fit into the pinstripes of the Yankee powerhouse, which crushed the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series 15 years ago.

Kubek, a cog on six Yankee pennant-winning teams in the late 50s and early 60s, considers himself a somewhat biased historian, but he was willing to compare the two clubs that are separated by much more than 15 years and new double knit knickers.

"It's really hard to make comparisons," says Kubek, part of NBC's baseball broadcasting team. "The game's changed so much, with expansion, relief pitching, artificial turf and the designated hitter."

"But the only guy I feel certainly would make the 1961 Yankees would be Hunter," Catfish, five-time 20-game winner, would fit nicely into then-Yankee Manager Ralph Houk's rotation, which included Whitey Ford, Bob Turley and Ralph Terry.

The 1961 Yankees brought tape measures wherever they went.

They hit a major league record 240 homers that year, with Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle combining for 115. They won 109 games, second most ever by a Yankee team, winning their second of five straight pennants.

The streak ended in 1964, the last time the Yankees won the AL pennant until this year's team, headed by Hunter and hitters Thurman Munson, Mickey Rivers and Chris Chambliss.

Catcher: "Thurman Munson's a helluva good player, but could he have beaten out Yogi Berra or Elston Howard?" asked Kubek. Berra, a Hall of Famer, batted .285 with 358 homers in his 19-year major league career. Howard hit 167 homers and batted .274 in 10 seasons.

"And don't forget, Johnny Blanchard (third-string catcher) had 21 homers that season," said Kubek.

Munson batted .302 with 17 homers and 105 runs batted in this year.

First base: "I like Chambliss, but Moose Skowron hit over .300 four straight seasons and he was a good defensive first baseman," Kubek said. In 14 seasons, Skowron batted .282 and slugged 211 homers.

Chambliss, also a good defensive player, batted .293 with 17 homers and 96 RBI this year.

Second base: "I know Willie Randolph's a good, young player, but I can't say I'd take him over Bobby Richardson," Richardson, one of the smoothest Yankee infielders, batted .266 in 12 seasons.

Randolph, a 22-year-old rookie with excellent range, hit .267 in 1976.

Shortstop: "Shortstop, I can't say," said Kubek, who happened to play that position for the 1961 Yankees. A slick shortstop with a strong arm, Kubek batted .266 in nine seasons.

Fred Stanley, also a strong fielder, hit .238 this year.

Third base: "Graig Nettles had a great year and he has power, but no one ever played third base like Clete Boyer," Kubek said.

Boyer, a peerless defensive third baseman, hit .242 in 16 seasons. Nettles, a very respected defensive player, led the AL in homers with 32, while driving in 93 runs and hitting .254.

Outfield: "People forget that Hector Lopez drove in a lot of runs for us and he was in and out of the lineup," Kubek said.

In 12 seasons, Lopez hit .269 with 136 homers. He was only a fair defensive player. Roy White has a weak arm but, overall, is a good outfielder. He hit .286 this season.

"I think you're going to have some problems in centerfield and right field," said Kubek.

Mantle, a Hall of Famer, is sixth on the alltime home run list with 536. His lifetime batting average was .298. He was an excellent outfielder. In 1961, he slammed 54 homers, scored 132 runs, knocked in 128 RBI and batted .317.

Rivers, a fleet centerfielder with no arm, scored 95 runs while batting .312 this season. He stole 43 bases.

Maris hit a record 61 homers in 161 games, and had a powerful arm in right field. Lifetime, he batted .260 with 275 homers in 12 seasons. The Yankees platooned in right field this year between right-handed hitting Lou Piniella and lefthanded hitting Oscar Gamble. Piniella batted .281. Gamble socked 17 homers.

After evaluating the 1976 Yankees, Kubek did the same thing to this year's model of the "Big Red Machine."

"People tell me the Reds have much more speed than the '61 Yankees, that we were a slow team," said Kubek. "That's just not true. We didn't run because we didn't play that way. Heck, if we had wanted to, we could have stolen lots of bases."

"Richardson could have 50, I could have had 30 and Mantle could have had 40. And no one realizes it, but Maris was a sprinter. He was one of the most sought-after scholastic football running backs."

Anderson Sees Seven-Game Series

Don't Write Off NY

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson isn't about to write off the New York Yankees and Yankee manager Billy Martin thinks he's wise not to do so.

"I said before the World Series began that I thought it would go seven games," Anderson said before the Series resumed tonight with Game Three. "I think I'll stick with that."

"The Yanks are an excellent club. They have to be to be here in the Series. They've won three or four in a row before and they can always do it again," Anderson said.

The Yanks will have to do just that to get back into this Series. They lost the first two games in Cincinnati, 5-1 and 4-3. Only six times in 73 previous World Series has a team been down 2-0 and come back to win the championship. And two of those teams were Yankee teams, in 1956 against the Brooklyn Dodgers and two years later against the Milwaukee Braves.

"I think Sparky's right," Martin said of Anderson's conservative stance. "I think we have the edge at home because we're more used to the natural grass. And we're very easily capable of turning this thing around in a hurry."

"I'm not all that impressed with their pitching," Martin continued. "But I am impressed with the rest of their club. Still, I can't call them awesome the way some people have. The Yankee clubs that I played on, when we won five World Series in a row, that's awesome."

Martin sends 31-year-old right-hander Dock Ellis to the mound tonight in hopes of turning things around. Ellis turned himself around this year after coming to New York as a virtual throw-in in a trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates. After several stormy and ineffective seasons, he posted a 17-8 record this year.

"I hate cold weather. I don't like pitching in it. I don't think anyone likes playing in it," Ellis said, viewing the possibility of playing in sub-freezing temperatures in Yankee Stadium.

Ellis said he was in no way nervous about being the man on the spot. "It's just another game to me," he said. "You've got to take each game as it comes. You can't get all worked up over one game, no matter how important it may seem. You can only do what you are capable of doing. It's the same way all over, starting with Little League."

Going against Ellis will be rookie Pat Zachry, a 24-year old right-hander who was 14-7 this year.

Zachry finds himself in an unusual position, playing in a ball park he always wanted to play in — but in the wrong uniform.

"The Yanks were always my favorite team from the time I was growing up," he said. "When I was a kid, I'd go in the back yard with a plastic ball and bat and make believe I was playing for the Yankees. And we won every game 15-0."

Grogan Scrambles Pats To Win

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Steve Grogan, the New England Patriots' sophomore quarterback, isn't yet comparable to such National Football League scramblers as Fran Tarkenton and Roger Staubach, but he loves to run as much as pass.

The 23-year-old former Kansas State star has done both in making New England fans forget about traded Jim Plunkett while leading the Patriots to a surprising 4-2 record.

Grogan enjoys running so much that he even scores touchdowns on broken plays. He did that twice Monday night, sparking the Patriots to a 41-7 romp over the New York Jets before a national television audience.

Grogan, who received a telegram signed by about 500 hometown friends from Ottawa, Kan., celebrated his debut on national TV with a spectacular performance that stole the thunder from veteran quarterback Joe Namath of the Jets.

He completed 14 of 23 passes for 145 yards and one touchdown. He also carried seven times for 103 yards, including a 41-yard scoring sprint.

And he scooped up a fumble by teammate Don Calhoun at the New York six and ran for a touchdown.

"Grogan had an excellent game, a super game," Jets Coach Lou Holtz said. "The tale of the game was the offensive line."

"They protected Grogan and opened holes in play action. When we blitzed inside, he stepped outside. When we blitzed outside, he stepped inside. He sure has some horses in front of him and behind him."

Grogan's pickup of Calhoun's fumble for New England's second touchdown in the second period was the broken play. However, his run for the fourth touchdown in the third quarter was electrifying.

"A couple of his runs were planned, a couple weren't," New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks said. "The long one for the touchdown was not designed for him to carry the ball."

Rozelle Decision Upheld

Judges Urge Reasonable Restrictions

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A federal appeals court opinion Monday which upheld an earlier court ruling against the National Football League's Rozelle Rule drew optimistic praise from the two chief protagonists in the case — the league and the NFL Players Association.

A three-judge panel of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the Minnesota District Court's ruling that the Rozelle Rule is unlawful and in violation of federal antitrust laws. However, the court also found that "some reasonable restrictions relating to player transfers are necessary for the successful operation of the NFL" and suggested that such restrictions should be negotiated.

The appeals court ordered the case remanded to the district court, where the players' demand for damages still is to be settled.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the Players Association, which funded the original suit by 15 present and former players, said his group was extremely pleased and "hopefully, with this decision, the NFL owners and the commissioner will decide to come to the bargaining table in good faith to achieve a compromise agreement."

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the league said, "This judicial clarification should pave the way for a resolution of these matters at the bargaining table, as has been done in baseball, hockey and basketball."

The spokesman said the league understood that the appeals court "has confirmed the league's position that the Rozelle Rule is a subject to be resolved in collective bargaining" and that the court also "recognized the need for reasonable restrictions on player transfers in the NFL."

The rule, called the Rozelle Rule after NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, says a player can become a free agent when he plays out his contract with a team, but gives the commissioner the power to order compensation when a player goes to another team in the league.

John Mackey, a former Baltimore Colts player, and 14 others filed the suit in May 1972. The Minnesota court of U.S. District Judge Earl R. Larson ruled last Dec. 30 in favor of the players after they alleged the Rozelle Rule constituted an illegal combination in restraint of trade, denying football players the right to freely contract for their services.

Among the "reasonable restrictions" listed as possibilities by the court was limiting the period during which the rule can be invoked, giving players more rights in transactions governed by the rule and paying more attention to the fate of "average" players.

In holding that the rule goes too far, the judges pointed out there is little concern manifested for the average or below average players, that the rule is unlimited in duration and that a player has no input into the process by which fair compensation is provided.

However, the Jets didn't give Grogan the run when he took off for his sixth touchdown of the season. There was a mixup in signals in the New England backfield, so Grogan kept the ball himself, found a hole on his left side, picked up blocks from tackle Leon Gray and guard John Hannah and raced for the score.

Namath, 33, and in his 11th NFL campaign, completed 16 of 27 passes for 135 yards and one touchdown, only his second of the season, before retiring to rest a pulled hamstring in the third period.

The Jets now are 0-8 in the long-standing weekly television series and 1-5 over-all for this season.

Indiana First Test For No. 1 Michigan?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan is the No. 1-ranked college football team in the nation, but have the Wolverines been tested? They've looked brilliant at times and deserving of a top ranking. But who have they played? How can anyone know if they're the nation's top team until they face, and beat, a tough team like Big Ten archrival Ohio State?

Michigan has beaten Wisconsin, Stanford, Navy, Wake Forest, Michigan State and Northwestern. Those opponents have a combined record of 9-27-1. Wisconsin is 3-4; Stanford, 2-4; Navy, 1-5; Wake Forest, 3-4; Michigan State, 1-4-1; and Northwestern, 0-6.

"It's gonna happen this week," Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said, when asked when a good test will come.

Saturday the Wolverines play at Indiana, which is off to a 2-1 Big Ten start and is 3-3 overall.

"It's the best Indiana team I've seen in a long time," Schembechler insisted, having viewed films of the Hoosiers past three games. "They're gonna be good."

Later, at his weekly news luncheon, he added: "This will be our most difficult game so far. We're playing on the road, and we haven't done too well the last two times we went down there (to Bloomington)."

Indiana lost its first two games, 32-13 to conference rival Minnesota, which has a 5-1 record, and 45-13 to highly rated Big Eight power Nebraska. It beat Washington, 20-13, lost to North Carolina State, 24-21, beat Northwestern, 7-0, and beat Iowa, 14-7.

"They dominated Iowa," Schembechler said. "They gave up one big play, and that was it ... Talk about a team in the second division that's greatly improved, and that's Indiana. Right now they think they can beat anyone in the world. You can tell from watching their films. They play with great emotion and hustle."

Michigan's offense is awesome. Their backs have run for fantastic averages and the line has continually opened up gigantic holes.

Schembechler figures he'll be able to tell better after the Indiana game whether his team is that great or whether they've just looked great because of the poor opposition.

Indiana will be "the best defensive team we've met," he said.

Senior fullback-tailback Rob Lytle, who rushed for 172 yards in Saturday's 38-7 triumph over Northwestern, was named by Schembechler and his staff as the offensive "Champion of the Week." It is the third time this season he's won the honor.

Lytle leads the team with 691 yards rushing in 87 carries for an amazing 7.9 average. Tailback Harlan Huckleby has 682 yards and a 6.5 average, while fellow sophomore Russell Davis, just rounding into shape after a couple of injuries, has 295 yards from his fullback spot with an 8.0 average.

Michigan's top defensive player of the week was defensive end Dom Tedesco. Defensive "hustler" was tackle John Hennessy and the offensive "hustler" honor went to tight end Gene Johnson.

Wildcats And Decatur Collide Friday

Lewis Leading Marcellus

The game of the year, as far as the Southwestern Athletic Conference is concerned, comes up this Friday when Marcellus (3-0 in the league) travels to Decatur (3-0).

Except for last year, this game has decided the league championship. Last year, Marcellus won the big battle 16-14 but Lawrence topped both the perennial powers to take the title.

The rest of the SAC schedule will find Gobles (1-3) at Lawton (0-4) and Martin (1-2) hosting Bloomingdale (2-1) on Friday. Lawrence travels to Lakeshore's field Saturday night to tangle with Michigan Lutheran in a non-league game. One of the big cogs in the eight-ranked Wildcats' machine for the past three years has been Lennie Lewis. This season, the senior running back has gained 883 yards, an 8.6 per carry average, and scored 13 touchdowns.

"Lennie gets most of his yardage on inside stuff," comments Marcellus' coach Joe Wood. "He can go both inside and outside, but goes mostly through the middle."

And Lewis can take the punishment, as he goes 6-1 and 186 pounds. He also has 10.3 speed in the 100, so he is a definite breakaway threat, as well as a power runner.

As for his best game of the year, his coach says that it is hard to pick one out. "He's been over 150 yards in every game, so it's hard to single out a game," he comments.

"Lennie has really gained confidence in himself as a runner in the last two years," Wood states. "He isn't the whole team...but a good part of it."

Lewis has an excellent supporting cast in the backfield. Steve Bradley had been the other starting back last year, but an injury forced him to the sidelines three weeks ago. Kevin Rimes stepped into his spot and proceeded to gain 180 yards on 12 carries in his first game.

Last year, Lewis rolled up 1,250 yards rushing while Bradley gained 1,000 yards.

Ross Mason is the quarterback, and he has been averaging six yards per carry on option runs.

Of course, a back is as good as his line, and Marcellus has a good one. "The line is a big factor," Wood states. "They missed some blocks in the Constantine and Bloomingdale game, but they have seemed to come around in the last couple of weeks."

The line consists of center Dennis Bainbridge, guards Chuck Harris and Rick Northrop, tackles Mike Buckhold and Terry Park and tight ends Jerry Cornwell and Bruce Murray.

Decatur will combat Lewis with a good running back of its own — sophomore Dennis Warkentien. The 5-9, 160-pounder has gained 791 yards this season, which is second in the area. "He has quickness and speed and uses his blockers real well," Decatur's head coach Don Raterink states. "He's quicker than some of the past backs, but maybe not the power runner. He also has outstanding balance."

"I think it is quite a privilege to go into a game like this with both teams undefeated and going for the lead. Marcellus is exceptionally strong this year. This is either their best or second best team they have had in the last 10 years."

Raterink knows he will have his hands full come Friday night. "I don't know if we can stop them, but we hope to slow them down a bit. I also hope we can take away their big, breakaway plays."

Defenses Forcing Spartans To Run

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Is Michigan State, which has lived by the pass this fall, about to turn to the running game as its main attack?

It might have to, if opponents continue to defend against the Spartan aerial game like Minnesota did in Saturday's 14-10 win over MSU. And, according to coach Darryl Rogers, there isn't much else Michigan State can do but run the ball to overcome such tight coverage.

Rogers confirmed that MSU opponents, having seen the Spartan game films, are defending against the pass more effectively. Minnesota threw double coverage at nearly all the MSU receivers, forcing the Spartans into a conservative ground attack.

"If they're going to double you, you have to run the ball," Rogers shrugged Monday. "They had six guys involved (in pass coverage) — we figured they only had five left."

But it could have been worse. The once-paltry running game came up with its best production of the year with 254 yards on the ground — 138 by reserve fullback Jim Earley.

Rogers praised Earley's performance as "the best effort we've had from a running back this year." The Dayton, Ohio, junior, who missed several games with an illness, entered the contest with eight yards in total and carried the ball 26 times in the absence of Levi Jackson.

He scored the only Spartan touchdown on a 16-yard charge-up the middle, his longest gain. Steady tailback Rich Baes chipped in with 85 yards.

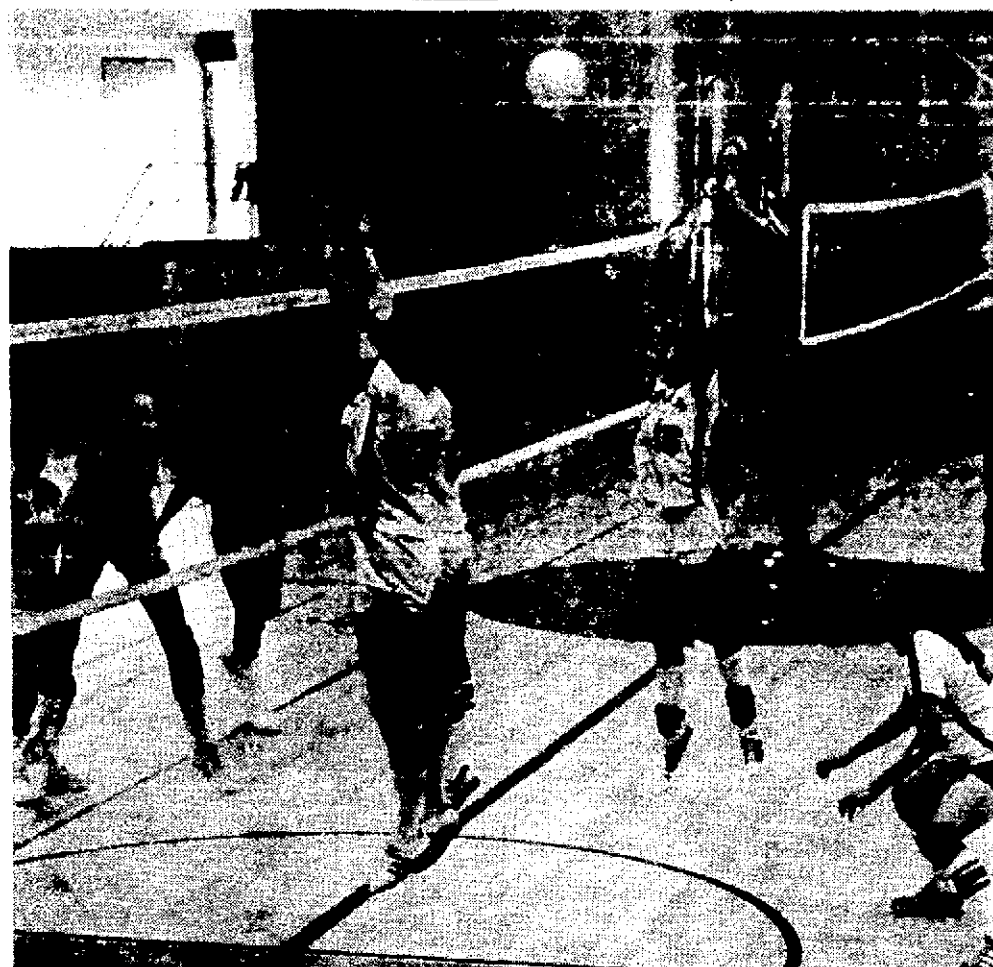

Rogers said the offensive line did its best blocking of the season against Minnesota, in part due to the return of senior tight end Mike Cobb after a five-game suspension.

Rogers, downcast after the game, had cheered up considerably by Monday, and said he saw positive things in the defeat.

"But we're not scoring enough," he commented, pointing out several long drives in recent games which fell short of scoring territory. "We've never taken the ball so far and gotten so little. We had a 47-yard drive Saturday and didn't get past midfield."

Rogers also criticized the MSU pass coverage, which left Minnesota receivers open repeatedly for key gains. "We just haven't covered very well all year," he said.

The Spartans, now 1-4-1 overall and 0-3 in the Big Ten travel to Illinois Saturday to battle a strong Illini team. Illinois is 3-3 overall and 2-1 in the Big Ten, but Rogers warned "they're a better team than their record."

LMC 16-2 After Volleyball Sweep

Lake Michigan College's girls volleyball team ran its record to 16-2 Monday afternoon by sweeping a pair of conference matches. The Indians topped Southwestern Michigan College 15-8, 15-9 and then beat Muskegon Community College 15-2, 15-10.

Southwestern also beat Muskegon 15-6, 15-11. Janet Hess scored 13 points and Sherry Scheffler added 10 in LMC's win over SMC. Barb Barton and Janet Kintley each chipped in with nine points and eight spikes. Annette Johnston had 10 spikes for the Roadrunners.

Deb Schmid came in with 12 points and Pat Villwock had 10 in LMC's victory over Muskegon.

The Indians are 3-0 in the league heading into Wednesday's action at Jackson. There the Indians take on Jackson Community College and Mott Community College.

SMC, now 8-3 overall, will compete in a tournament Saturday at Battle Creek.

Court Throws Out Ali And Perez Suits

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali says he has no qualms about a court's decision to throw out a libel suit against him by referee Tony Perez, and to disallow Ali's counter-suit.

"The court has decided, and what they say is the law, that's all," said Ali, who maintained an uncharacteristic calm during the $20 million suit filed in federal court in New York.

Perez' suit stemmed from comments Ali made on a television interview after his successful title defense against Chuck Wepner in 1975.

The interview also dealt with Ali's 1974 loss to Joe Frazier, a fight in which Ali said Perez "was paid probably by some gangster or somebody or he had some money bet on Frazier."

Ali, who now claims to be in retirement, also had called Perez "a racist and dirty referee."

Ali admitted during the five-day trial he could not substantiate his allegations against Perez, and Perez' attorney, Robert Sullivan, asked the two-man, four-woman jury to put an end to Ali's "saying anything he pleases, no matter who it hurts."

The jury deliberated only 80 minutes Monday before throwing out Perez' suit and disallowing Ali's $1 million counter-suit. The counter-suit contended that Perez mishandled both fights, including allowing Wepner to land numerous illegal and damaging punches.

Ruling on a motion on behalf of Perez, U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack refused to set aside the jury's verdict.

"The verdict was eminently justified on the basis of the evidence and circumstances," the judge ruled.

Lewis Leading Marcellus

The game of the year, as far as the Southwestern Athletic Conference is concerned, comes up this Friday when Marcellus (3-0 in the league) travels to Decatur (3-0).

Except for last year, this game has decided the league championship. Last year, Marcellus won the big battle 16-14 but Lawrence topped both the perennial powers to take the title.

The rest of the SAC schedule will find Gobles (1-3) at Lawton (0-4) and Martin (1-2) hosting Bloomingdale (2-1) on Friday. Lawrence travels to Lakeshore's field Saturday night to tangle with Michigan Lutheran in a non-league game. One of the big cogs in the Wildcats' machine for the past three years has been Lonnie Lewis. This season, the senior running back has gained 883 yards, an 8.6 per carry average, and scored 13 touchdowns.

"Lonnie gets most of his yardage on inside stuff," comments Marcellus' coach Joe Wood. "He can go both inside and outside, but goes mostly through the middle."

And Lewis can take the punishment, as he goes 6-1 and 186 pounds. He also has 10.3 speed in the 100, so he is a definite breakaway threat, as well as a power runner.

As for his best game of the year, his coach says that it is hard to pick one out. "He's been over 150 yards in every game, so it's hard to single out a game," he comments.

"Lonnie has really gained confidence in himself as a runner in the last two years," Wood states. "He isn't the whole team...but a good part of it."

Lewis has an excellent supporting cast in the backfield. Steve Bradley had been the other starting back last year, but an injury forced him to the sidelines three weeks ago. Kevin Rimes stepped into his spot and proceeded to gain 180 yards on 12 carries in his first game.

Last year, Lewis rolled up 1,280 yards rushing while Bradley gained 1,060 yards.

Ross Mason is the quarterback, and he has been averaging six yards per carry on option runs.

Of course, a back is as good as his line, and Marcellus has a good one. "The line is a big factor," Wood states. "They missed some blocks in the Constantine and Bloomingdale game, but they have seemed to come around in the last couple of weeks."

The line consists of center Dennis Bainbridge, guards Chuck Harris and Rick Northrop, tackles Mike Buckhold and Terry Park and tight ends Jerry Cornwell and Bruce Murray.

Decatur will combat Lewis with a good running back of its own — sophomore Dennis Warkentin. The 5-9, 160-pounder has gained 791 yards this season, which is second in the area. "He has quickness and speed and uses his blockers real well," Decatur's head coach Don Raterink states. "He's quicker than some of the past backs, but maybe not the power runner. He also has outstanding balance."

"I think it is quite a privilege to go into a game like this with both teams undefeated and going for the lead. Marcellus is exceptionally strong this year. This is either their best or second best team they have had in the last 10 years."

Raterink knows he will have his hands full come Friday night. "I don't know if we can stop them, but we hope to slow them down a bit. I also hope we can take away their big, breakaway plays."

Defenses Forcing Spartans To Run

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Is Michigan State, which has lived by the pass this fall, about to turn to the running game as its main attack?

It might have to, if opponents continue to defend against the Spartan aerial game like Minnesota did in Saturday's 14-10 win over MSU. And, according to coach Darryl Rogers, there isn't much else Michigan State can do but run the ball to overcome such tight coverage.

Rogers confirmed that MSU opponents, having seen the Spartan game films, are defending against the pass more effectively. Minnesota threw double coverage at nearly all the MSU receivers, forcing the Spartans into a conservative ground attack.

"If they're going to double you, you have to run the ball," Rogers shrugged Monday. "They had six guys involved (in pass coverage) — we figured they only had five left."

But it could have been worse. The once-paltry running game came up with its best production of the year with 254 yards on the ground — 138 by reserve fullback Jim Earley.

Rogers praised Earley's performance as "the best effort we've had from a running back this year." The Dayton, Ohio, junior, who missed several games with an illness, entered the contest with eight yards in total and carried the ball

26 times in the absence of Levi Jackson.

He scored the only Spartan touchdown on a 16-yard charge up the middle, his longest gain. Steady tailback Rich Baes chipped in with 85 yards.

Rogers said the offensive line did its best blocking of the season against Minnesota, in part due to the return of senior tight end Mike Cobb after a five-game suspension.

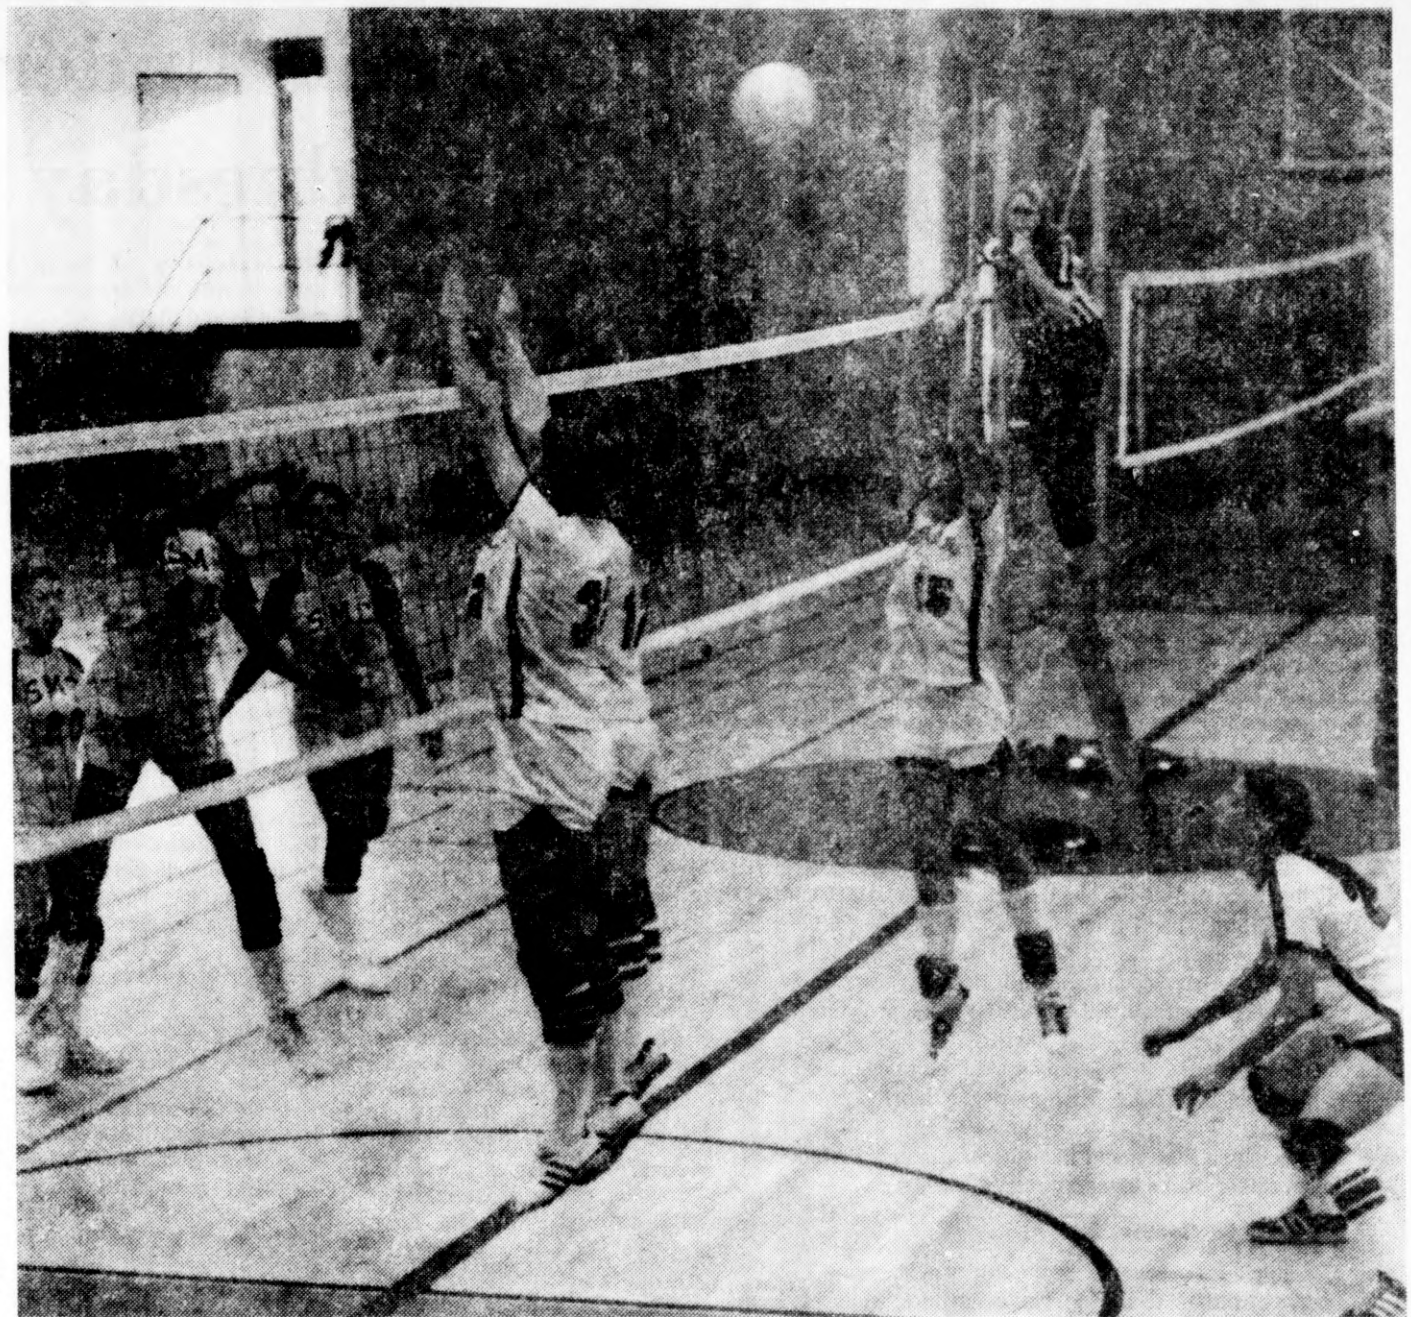

Rogers, downcast after the game, had cheered up considerably by Monday, and said he saw positive things in the defeat.

"But we're not scoring enough," he commented, pointing out several long drives in recent games which fell short of scoring territory.

"We've never taken the ball so far and gotten so little. We had a 47-yard drive Saturday and didn't get past midfield."

Rogers also criticized the MSU pass coverage, which left Minnesota receivers open repeatedly for key gains. "We just haven't covered very well all year," he said.

The Spartans, now 1-4-1 overall and 0-3 in the Big Ten travel to Illinois Saturday to battle a strong Illini team. Illinois is 3-3 overall and 2-1 in the Big Ten, but Rogers warned "they're a better team than their record."

Court Throws Out Ali And Perez Suits

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali says he has no qualms about a court's decision to throw out a libel suit against him by referee Tony Perez, and to disallow Ali's counter-suit.

"The court has decided, and what they say is the law, that's all," said Ali, who maintained an uncharacteristic calm during the $20 million suit filed in federal court in New York.

Perez' suit stemmed from comments Ali made on a television interview after his successful title defense against Chuck Wepner in 1975.

The interview also dealt with Ali's 1974 loss to Joe Frazier, a fight in which Ali said Perez "was paid probably by some gangster or somebody or he had some money bet on Frazier."

Ali, who now claims to be in retirement, also had called Perez "a racist and dirty referee."

Ali admitted during the five-day trial he could not substantiate his allegations against Perez, and Perez' attorney, Robert Sullivan, asked the two-man, four-woman jury to put an end to Ali's "saying anything he pleases, no matter who it hurts."

The jury deliberated only 80 minutes Monday before throwing out Perez' suit and disallowing Ali's $1 million counter-suit. The counter-suit contended that Perez mishandled both fights, including allowing Wepner to land numerous illegal and damaging punches.

Ali's lawyer, Richard Sharfman, told the jury: "No one can say whether these blows contributed to the shortening of his career or not."

Ruling on a motion on behalf of Perez, U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack refused to set aside the jury's verdict.

"The verdict was eminently justified on the basis of the evidence and circumstances," the judge ruled.

Pheasants Under Gun Wednesday

Another good pheasant season is expected when ringnecks come under the gun at 10 a.m. Wednesday in southwestern Michigan.

August brood counts by rural mail carriers were down in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties, but the tallies were still among the highest ever posted.

Berrien's 5.4 broods per 10 carrier days were the second highest in the history of the count, but below last year's record 6.0 tally. Cass slipped from the 1975 record of 3.5 to 2.2, the fourth highest ever. Van Buren's 6.8 and Allegan's 4.5 were both third overall in the respective counties.

Ruffed grouse, woodcock, rabbits and woodchuck also become legal targets in the area Wednesday, and the goose season gets underway Thursday at the Allegan State Game Area.

There are more than 11,000 geese at Allegan now, and game area manager Chuck Freiley Jr. says the population is "as good as we've ever had at this time."

Goose hunting at the highbanks in Allegan will be by advance reservation only, with the drawing for posts starting at 6:30 p.m. The Fennville farm will be open to all licensed hunters, with the drawing for posts also at 6:30 p.m.

Shooting on Thursday starts at 7:55 a.m. It closes at noon at the highbanks and at 3 p.m. at the farm.

Allegan regulations will be the same as last year, with a limit of one Canada goose per hunter. Each hunter is also limited to 12 shells.

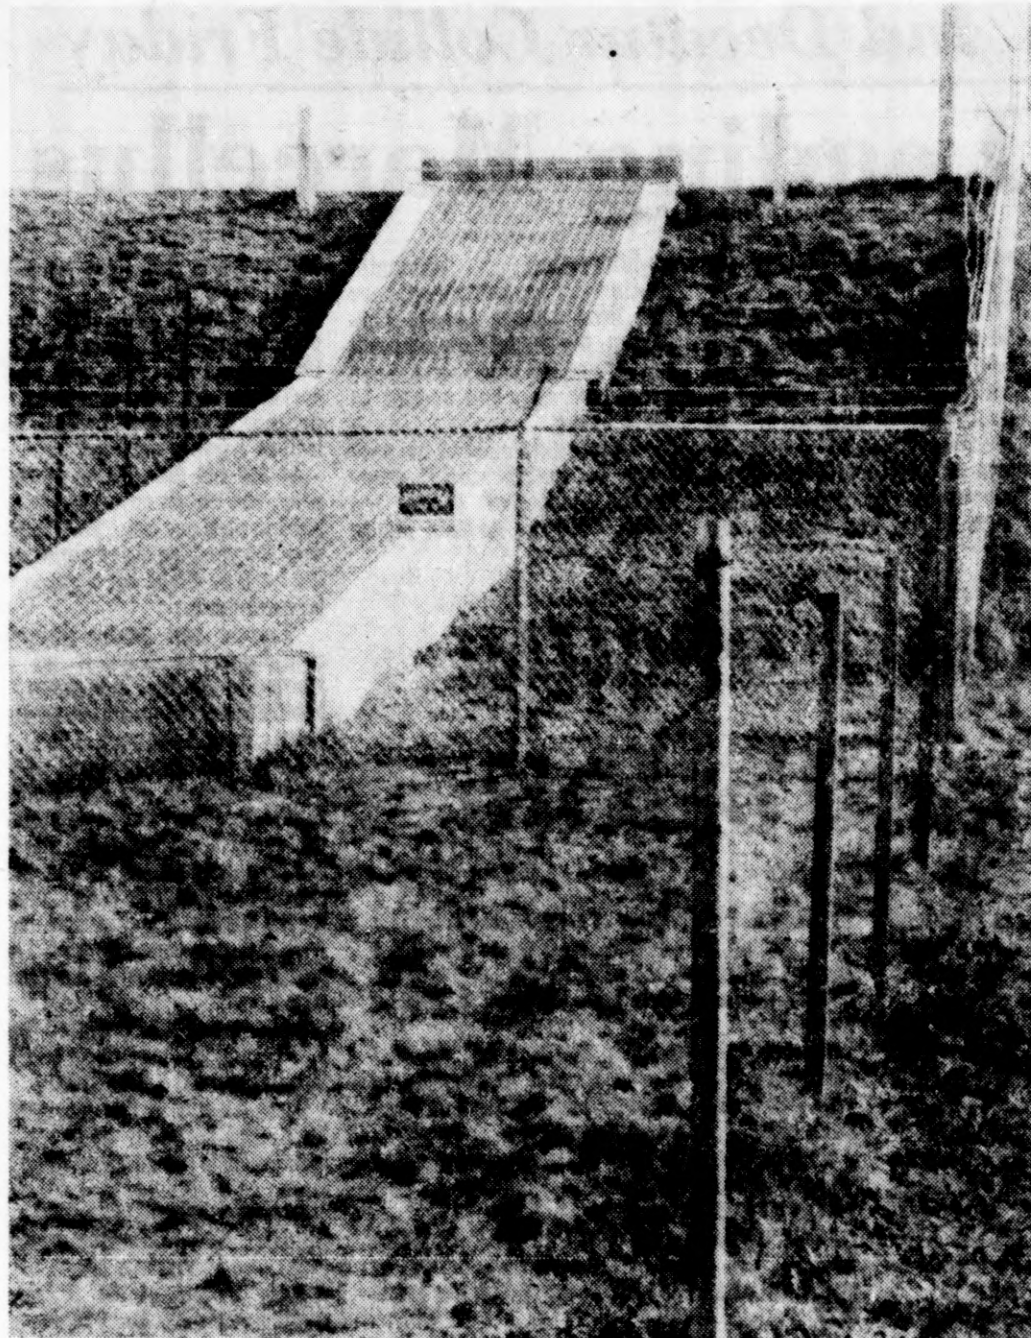

DNR personnel at the Fennville farm will be asking hunters to cooperate in a statewide lead shot survey. They'll be asking hunters if they can take the gizzards from waterfowl they have taken.

Lead shot becomes illegal for waterfowl shooting in Michigan next year, and biologists want to make a comparison of lead content in waterfowl between this year and coming seasons.

Meanwhile, squirrel hunters, who have been active since September, are increasing their harvest as cover thins. Raccoon hunting is also becoming more productive, according to the DNR.

Bow and arrow deer hunters who bag a whitetail are eligible for the DNR's new "1976 Michigan Successful Deer Hunter" patch. The best archery shooting, according to the DNR, has been in the Barry State Game Area.

Hunters are also reminded that a few farms are still under contract to provide public access under the "Cropland Adjustment Program." The local county ASCS office of the United States Department of Agriculture has a listing.

Fishing Report

Fishing pressure reached a season-high on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam over the weekend.

The Saturday-Sunday turnout at Shamrock Park alone was 2,600, according to park ranger Alvin Aldridge, who expects high weekend pressure through the rest of October.

But success wasn't anything exceptional last weekend, according to Aldridge's figures. The 1,400 fishermen on Saturday took 130 chinook salmon, 14 coho, 21 steelhead and 11 brown trout. On Sunday, 1,200 anglers had 85 chinook, 13 coho, 33 steelhead and 12 browns.

Foul hooking now makes up a big part of the fishing with activity concentrated below the dam. The same situation exists below the Allegan dam on the Kalamazoo River. Conventional hook 'n' line success on the lower portion of the Kalamazoo is starting to slow down, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Out on Lake Michigan, anglers willing to brave the crisp fall weather have a chance at lake trout. A few lakies are also moving into area rivers. Some have been taken off the piers at St. Joseph and South Haven, and seven lakies were in the creel count taken over the weekend at Berrien Springs by Aldridge. Laker fishing has been particularly good on the Big Lake off the mouth of the Galien River at New Buffalo. Limits of lunkers up to 14 pounds have been taken.

Horicon Hazing Shows Signs Of Success

HORICON, Wis. (AP) — A controversial hazing program to discourage southbound Canada geese from making their fall stop at Wisconsin's Horicon Marsh showed signs of success last week. But wildlife managers said it was too early to judge how well the plan was working.

A count of geese at the Horicon National Wildlife Refuge showed 148,700 geese within the refuge and 178,000 in east central Wisconsin Thursday, compared with figures of 168,700 and 198,700 at the same time last year.

However, "there's no way of predicting what we're going to get for a population figure here," Harold Bushweiler, an administrative assistant at the federal refuge, said Friday.

He said the southward migration of geese from their Canadian breeding grounds to wintering areas in Southern Illinois, Kentucky and southeastern Missouri could be proceeding slower than usual this year.

Also, it was not known whether some geese might have simply passed up the normal rest and feeding stop at Horicon and continued south, although there have been no indications as yet of substantial increases in geese populations in the southern states.

The Horicon population normally peaks in mid or late October.

In recent years, Horicon has hosted as many as 250,000 geese during the fall migration, attracting thousands of persons to view the majestic birds, while also boosting the area's tourism business.

But wildlife managers said the large, highly-concentrated geese populations increased the threat of disease and triggered numerous complaints of geese feeding in area cornfields.

The hazing program, planned to continue for five years at an annual cost of $100,000, began this fall, with refuge workers touring the marsh in airboats 16 hours a day to discourage geese from staying.

A helicopter is to be added to the hazing machinery next week.

The program also has included a lowering of water levels in the marsh, a move that critics say has increased the potential of mud flats breeding disease bacteria as well as diminishing the beauty of the marsh.

Noise-making exploder devices have been distributed on private lands to keep geese from feeding on corn.

Jack Toll, who manages the national refuge, said complaints of damage to area cornfields are running about double the level of last year, but the complaints would decline as farmers complete their harvests.

Geese have apparently responded to the hazing program by simply moving earlier than usual to other nearby stopping points, such as Green Lake and other areas to the west of the marsh, he said. They would normally make that move in November.

Toll said it was far too soon to judge the hazing program, because the re-education of the geese could be expected to take several years.

The goal, he added, was to encourage geese to either make a shorter stop at Horicon or take a different route, possibly following the Mississippi River.

The program, conducted with the help of the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, seeks redistribution of about half the flock by 1980, lowering the peak fall population at Horicon to about 100,000 geese.

Among the complaints about the program so far have been those of farmers contending there have been more problems from geese foraging in their fields, restaurant operators and other businessmen complaining of lost profits at their establishments and environmentalists saying the plan has hurt the marsh esthetically.

Lakeshore School Budget Exceeds '75-'76 By 11.6%

The Lakeshore school board last night adopted a final budget for the 1976-77 school year calling for total expenditures of $5,381,056.

The figure is 11.6 per cent more than was spent during the entire 1975-76 school year, according to William Galbreath, assistant superintendent. Actual expenditures last year were $4,801,666.

Galbreath outlined the new budget during a half-hour public hearing on the matter prior to the start of last night's meeting. There were no objections raised to the budget during the hearing.

Galbreath said 75 per cent of the budget is for salaries. The total budgeted for salaries is $4,035,309. That is 10.6 per cent more than the $3,647,901 spent on salaries last year.

For just administrators and teaching personnel, expenditures this year will increase $320,587, or 10.1 per cent. That includes all insurance and retirement benefits.

Teachers are in the second year of a two-year contract which called for total wage hikes this fall of 8.5 per cent including annual step increases. Administrators have received wage increases ranging from 5.3 to 10 per cent.

Galbreath told board members the district has encountered sharp increases this fall in the cost of employee health insurance premiums and utilities.

The premiums have increased from $119,848 to an estimated $185,000. Total operational costs this year — which include all utilities — have been set at $49,940. Last year, the district spent $411,812 for the same services.

Galbreath said the budget calls for a total anticipated income of $5,075,975, which is $295,081 less than budgeted expenditures.

He said difference would be made up from a fund equity totaling $851,000 which the district has from previous years.

Local property taxes will provide a projected $2,260,996 toward the budget. The school district's total property tax levy this year is 29.276 mills.

The district expects to receive $2,139,743 in state aid. The remainder of the income will come from a variety of sources.

Some major expenditures include $1,419,893 for elementary education; $1,665,828 for secondary education; $77,572 for community education; $154,803 for administration; $316,482 for transportation; $173,450 for maintenance; and $36,500 for athletics.

In other areas last night, the board voted to borrow $653,000 in anticipation of state aid from the First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan, Niles.

The bank's bid of 3.39 per cent interest was the lowest of four received.

The board voted to purchase three 78-passenger replacement school buses from the Thomas-Hendrickson Co. at a cost of $28,265 each.

The Thomas bid was the second lowest of five received. Supt. Frederick Schmidt said the low bid of $28,265 each for three Iloekstra buses was rejected because school officials were not familiar enough with them to recommend they be purchased.

The board voted to purchase fleet insurance this year from the Farm Bureau insurance company at a cost of $7,382 for 45 vehicles including driver education cars.

The firm submitted the lowest of three bids.

Board members voted to reduce the rate for renting the high school auditorium to $300 for non-school activities. The rate had been set at $500 last year.

It was announced there will be an open house at the high school Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. Industrial arts and home economics students will show projects they are working on and there will be special demonstrations and refreshments.

Arlington Endorses 3 Issues

BANGOR — The Arlington township board last night endorsed three issues that will be on the November general election ballot.

Endorsed were county issues proposing a 1.2-mill tax levy and authority to sell $825,000 in bonds to establish a sanitary landfill system in the county, and a South Haven Community hospital authority proposal. The authority proposal involves a one mill for three years to help finance a proposed $1.2 million hospital building and renovation program.

In other action, township Treasurer Randolph Hay said the township will not collect a one per cent fee on 1976 taxes as permitted by the state. The decision not to take the collection fee will save township taxpayers about $2,000, he added.

The township board announced that it will begin work on an ordinance governing lot splits. The ordinance is necessary because several township residents have asked for lot splits and state officials said an ordinance is required to uniformly control such splits, according to board members.

Supervisor William Colgren said he and other township officials will hold a public hearing next Monday, Oct. 25, to answer any questions township residents have on zoning. The 8 p.m. meeting will be at the township hall.

The township board turned down a request for a donation for Bangor high school band uniforms. The request came from a member of the band boosters' club.

Cut Items Are Back In Coloma School Budget

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night adopted the 1976-77 school budget of $3,844,323, up $308,169 over last year's budget.

Supt. William Barrett said the increase represents the return of items cut last year when voters twice rejected a 1.26-mill property tax levy issue. A 2.5-mill levy was passed in June this year to provide the needed income.

The areas mentioned by Barrett as being replaced items included teaching positions at the Coloma middle school and supplies, including new textbook purchases.

The school's income for 1976-77 was pegged at $3,892,323, up $291,863, over last year's income.

The total income, minus expenditures for the year will result with a surplus of $17,800

at the end of the current year, according to Barrett.

Barrett told board members the school system is beginning a new financial accounting system this year and it may be necessary to return to the board three or four times during the school year to make budget reports.

For the 1976-77 school year, local property taxes will net $1,419,778, while state school aid will bring in an additional $2,105,778.

Tavern Is Held Up

WATERVLIET — An estimated $600 in cash was taken in an armed robbery of the Elite Bar here early this morning, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Det. Gary Methling said that a lone gunman made off with the cash shortly after 2 a.m. after making two employees of the North Main street bar and two patrons lay on the floor behind the bar before he fled.

Dorothy Baldwin, 28, and Gary Robertson, both of Watervliet and both employed by the bar, told Methling the holdup came just after the last call had been announced. They reported the man waived a small handgun and announced the holdup.

Methling said that after the man was handed the cash by Dorothy Baldwin he forced the two employees and patrons Douglas Chapul and Norm Warsko, also of Watervliet, to lay on the floor behind the bar. The man was reported to have fled on foot from the bar.

Carl Illings, Colonia, owner of the bar, estimated the loss of cash at about $600. Methling said.

The man was described as white, about 26-years-old, 5 foot 10, about 170 pounds with dark curly hair and a mustache, Methling said.

BLOOMINGDALE

Property Transfer Bid Rejected Again

BLOOMINGDALE — A request from Mr. and Mrs. James Lisowski to transfer their property to the Gobles school district was denied for a second time by the Bloomingdale school board last night.

Meeting in special session at the Grand Junction school to hear the request, the board voted 3-2 to deny the transfer. Voting to deny were James Muenzer, Ray Melvin and Ronald Bodke. Voting in favor were Mrs. Kay Johnson and Fred Rawson.

A state education department hearing already is scheduled Thursday, Oct. 21, in Lansing on an appeal of the first denial.

Mr. and Mrs. Lisowski told the board they lived on the east side of 38th street, in the Gobles district, until recently. When they sold some of their property and moved across the street to the west side, they were in the Bloomingdale district. They told the board they had seven children in grades 1-10 and wanted their children to continue to attend school with their friends in Gobles.

The request was denied earlier this year when the parents sent a letter to the board requesting the transfer. It has also been turned down by the Van Buren county intermediate school board.

In other areas, the board was informed by Supt. Donald Drago that four teachers scheduled to be laid off after board action Oct. 4, cannot be laid off after all. Drago said state law prevented the layoffs, which were made as part of an effort to erase a projected deficit for the 1976-77 school year.

The board said it would give further consideration to seeking federal public works funds to finance possible building improvements at its Monday, Oct. 25 meeting, also to be held

Decoration Set Ablaze

Berrien sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Candy Johnson, 1418 Desmond drive, Lincoln township, reported Monday a corn stalk Halloween decoration was set afire in the yard of her home. Deputies said the decoration was on a wood outdoor lightpost which was charred in the fire. The decoration was destroyed, deputies reported.

BLOOMINGDALE

Property Transfer Bid Rejected Again

BLOOMINGDALE — A request from Mr. and Mrs. James Lisowski to transfer their property to the Gobles school district was denied for a second time by the Bloomingdale school board last night.

Meeting in special session at the Grand Junction school to hear the request, the board voted 3-2 to deny the transfer. Voting to deny were James Muenzer, Ray Melvin and Ronald Bodtke. Voting in favor were Mrs. Kay Johnson and Fred Rawson.

A state education department hearing already is scheduled Thursday, Oct. 21, in Lansing on an appeal of the first denial.

Mr. and Mrs. Lisowski told the board they lived on the east side of 38th street, in the Gobles district, until recently. When they sold some of their property and moved across the street to the west side, they were in the Bloomingdale district. They told the board they had seven children in grades 1-10 and wanted their children to continue to attend school with their friends in Gobles.

The request was denied earlier this year when the parents sent a letter to the board requesting the transfer. It has also been turned down by the Van Buren county intermediate school board.

In other areas, the board was informed by Supt. Donald Dragoo that four teachers scheduled to be laid off after board action Oct. 4, cannot be laid off after all. Dragoo said state law prevented the layoffs, which were made as part of an effort to erase a projected deficit for the 1976-77 school year.

The board said it would give further consideration to seeking federal public works funds to finance possible building improvements at its Monday, Oct. 25 meeting, also to be held

'Death Wish' Author Fears Prime Time Showing

By WILLIAM SCHIFFMANN
Associated Press Writer

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — The author of "Death Wish" fears that when CBS airs the movie version it will trigger a rash of copycats imitating the "hero" — a man who kills those he thinks are law-breakers. So Brian Garfield has been waging a so far unsuccessful campaign to convince the giant network that showing the violence-drenched film on a Friday night in prime time is a mistake that could result in tragedy.

"If they don't show it, it might keep a couple of people alive," the novelist said in an interview. "If you run it for an audience of 100 million, you have to accept the responsibility for looks."

"My problem with the film is that I think it's dangerous," said Garfield, who was attending a writer's workshop here. "It's already led to a couple of people emulating the events."

CBS, which says the movie meets its programs' standards, says it'll be broadcast in November but no date has been set yet. Garfield's book deals with a man, portrayed by Charles Bronson in the film, who takes the law into his own hands after his wife is murdered and his daughter driven insane during a vicious rape by three hoodlums.

The character in the book shows clear evidence of a mental disorder as the book progresses and near the end is shooting burglars and car strippers. "He's obviously a nut," Garfield said. But in the movie, says Garfield, who had no part in the production, the man is made out to be a "cowboy hero" who never shoots first. "It makes it much more appealing," he said.

The character, a wealthy architect, kills his first victim, a mugger, almost by accident. But after the ease with which he exacts his retribution, he decides to continue his vigilante assault on crime. As the movie ends, Bronson is caught in the act by a policeman, who realizes he is the vigilante killer and turns his back on the bloodshed.

Garfield objected to scheduling the film as a "Movie of the Week" late this year in prime time. "I suggested they think of running it as a late show. But of course if they run it as a late show they lose advertising. "The only reply I got was full of courteous double-talk which amounted to a 'no,'" he said.

"Mr. Garfield's desire to have us not show the film does not reflect the reality of the situation at all," said Mike Buchanan, head of CBS publicity on the West Coast. "If a show meets our program practice standards, it is shown." "It's an awkward position," Garfield admitted. "I don't want it to look like I'm trying to tell CBS how to run their network."

Garfield, who stands to lose about $50,000 if the show is taken off the air, says he plans no further efforts at the moment. "I'm the last one who wants to be a censor," he said. "I tried to exercise some moral pressure and that's as far as I'm entitled to go."

SCALPED: Some people will do anything to show which team they are rooting for, as illustrated by Springfield, Ohio, high student Frank Miller who already had the Indian style haircut but decided to paste a paper "S" to his head for the Spartans' game with North Canton. New Buffalo Teachers, Board Accept Mediation

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board and the New Buffalo teachers association have agreed to mediation in their dispute over a contract for the 1976-77 school year.

School Supt. Walter Schwarz reported at last night's school board meeting that mediator Howard Case will meet with members of both negotiating committees Nov. 4 to re-open the stalled talks.

Negotiators have met only once since the start of the school year and were reported to be deadlocked. Teachers are now working without a master contract.

Board members last night voted to appoint Schwarz and board member Howard Cuvert as the board's negotiating team in the upcoming talks.

The board had been represented in earlier negotiations by the late Thomas Combs, a Kalamazoo attorney who died recently.

A proposed final budget for the 1976-77 school year unveiled by Schwarz last night contained no provisions for any salary increases. Board members postponed action on adopting it.

A special meeting was scheduled for Monday, Oct. 25, at 8 p.m. in the superintendent's office to take final action on the proposal.

Board members said they wanted more time to study it.

Schwarz presented the proposed $1,743,909 balanced budget during a public hearing on the matter prior to the regular meeting.

About 35 people were present, but no one offered any formal objections to the proposal.

Schwarz said the budget called for spending about $100,000 more than last year's final budget which totaled $1,645,927. None of the additional money is budgeted for salary increases, he said. Salaries make up 68 per cent or $1,184,343 of the budget.

Increased maintenance costs take up $93,946 of the additional spending.

The budget anticipates total revenue of $1,743,909, the same amount as proposed spending.

Revenue from local property taxes is estimated at $1,218,325. The total of state and federal revenues were estimated at $525,584. The remainder of estimated revenue would come from a variety of sources.

The total property tax levy this year has been set at 24.988 mills in the district.

"We face a trend of a greater number of people not paying taxes when they are due," Schwarz said. The budget is based on an 88 per cent collection and does not have a contingency to take care of any future cuts in state aid.

He said the district has 109 pupils less than last year, resulting in a loss of over $90,000 in state aid.

Enrollment at the junior high and high schools this year is 706. Elementary enrollment this year is 822. There are six less teachers this fall.

In other areas, the board voted to add a fourth first grade classroom and teacher at the elementary school.

The action came after the board received several parental complaints that the present three first grade classrooms are overcrowded with 31 students each.

The board voted to change the fourth and fifth grade boys basketball program to a fifth and sixth grade intramural program.

The program will allow all fifth and sixth graders to participate this year, school officials said. Last year, some sixth graders were cut from the sixth grade team.

It was announced there will be an open house at the junior and senior high school Oct. 27. Elementary open house is scheduled for Nov. 4.

Baby Hurt By Pet Raccoon

HOUSTON (AP) — A five-week-old boy is recovering from injuries he suffered when a pet raccoon attacked him as he slept, his parents say.

Elmo Scott said officials at a local hospital described his son, Charles, as in fair condition Monday, a week after he was attacked in the bedroom of his grandmother's house.

"He had to get 86 stitches in his face alone," Scott said.

He said the raccoon, a pet belonging to a neighbor, apparently got in the back door and went to the bedroom where the infant slept. He said his brother-in-law, Charles Mullenix, went to investigate a "funny sound" and found the raccoon "all over" the baby.

Mullenix said he was bitten and scratched several times before he choked the animal to death.

Paw Paw School Budget Up 5.3%

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A 1976-77 budget of $3,276,153, a 5.3 per cent increase over last year's actual expenditures, was approved last night by the Paw Paw school board.

The budget is based on $1,197,882 from local sources, $1,987,072 in state aid, and $101,198 in revenue from miscellaneous sources. Last year's actual costs were $3,109,517.

Supt. Norval Bovee said the budget was prepared on an anticipated K-12 enrollment of 2,125, virtually unchanged from last year's 2,121 figure. Additionally, enrollment in the community education (adult) program climbed from 382 last year to 394 this year.

The budget sets the district's property tax levy for operations at 27 mills. This represents a .92 of a mill increase over last year.

Voters approved the additional millage in the June election.

The largest item in the budget, instructional expenses, is $2,271,238, up 15.25 per cent over last year's figure of $1,970,778.

Other major items, with last year's figure in parentheses, include: administration, $135,612 ($116,178); transportation, $137,800 ($197,864); operation of plant, $280,250 ($257,477); maintenance, $129,220 ($146,933); fixed charges, $254,000 ($149,381); and capital outlay, $24,033 ($61,118).

In other areas, the board approved borrowing $250,000 at 3.39 per cent interest from the Paw Paw branch of the First National Bank against anticipated state aid. The bank had the low interest among three bids submitted.

The board approved a request by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Novak to allow their son, a student at the Michigan Avenue school, to remain as a student there pending results of an appeal before the state Board of Education. The Novaks live just inside the Bloomington school district but are attempting to have their property transferred to the Paw Paw district. The Van Buren intermediate school district has turned down the request, and the Novaks are appealing to the state board.

A recommendation by board Member Robert LaRue setting up a committee of eight to 10 persons to establish district philosophy and goals on dealing with gifted children, was approved.

The board also scheduled an informal work session for Oct. 26 to discuss procedures for evaluating administrators.

Bainbridge Zoning Request Is Denied

The Bainbridge township planning commission denied a request to rezone 23 acres of land from agricultural to residential - agricultural use after a public hearing last night.

One of the reasons the denial was voted was because the change would have been spot zoning, according to Dale Kreitner, commission secretary. Others were that the rezoning would cause potential problems to farmers in the area due to spray drift, and because of objections of neighbors present at the meeting, Kreitner said.

The request for rezoning the tract of land, located in the southwest corner of Territorial and County Line road, was submitted Aug. 30 by Vern Hiler, owner.

According to Kreitner, five people owning property near the site were present at the meeting and voiced objections to the request.

Bainbridge Zoning Request Is Denied

The Bainbridge township planning commission denied a request to rezone 23 acres of land from agricultural to residential - agricultural use after a public hearing last night.

One of the reasons the denial was voted was because the change would have been spot zoning, according to Dale Kreitner, commission secretary. Others were that the rezoning would cause potential problems to farmers in the area due to spray drift, and because of objections of neighbors present at the meeting, Kreitner said.

The request for rezoning the tract of land, located in the southwest corner of Territorial and County Line road, was submitted Aug. 30 by Vern Hiler, owner.

According to Kreitner, five people owning property near the site were present at the meeting and voiced objections to the request.

Dowagiac Board Is After Grant

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac school board last night voted to give the school administration permission to apply for up to $1,205,000 in federal funds for four school construction projects.

Administrators said they want to file applications for 100 per cent funding through the federal Public Works Employment act for:

- A grant of $275,000 to be applied towards a $400,000 classroom renovation and shop construction project at the high school.
- A grant of $410,000 for an addition to Patrick Hamilton lower elementary (fifth and sixth grades) school.
- A $270,000 grant for an addition to Justus Gage elementary school.
- A $250,000 grant for an addition to the Central Junior high school.

The federal bill provides for $2 billion nationwide for 100 per cent funding of public works construction projects in areas of chronic high unemployment.

In other matters, the board was told that the district's official enrollment for 1976-77 is down 108 students from 1975. The 1976-77 figure is 3,860, compared to 3,968 students a year ago.

School officials announced that a proposed budget will be presented at a public hearing at 7 p.m. Nov. 15.

Board Member Richard Sifford drew rebuttal from several other board members when he read a statement saying he had been reprimanded by school officials for asking school employees about requisitions, invoices and other transactions.

Sifford, the only board member to vote against a June board decision to issue $400,000 in bonds for construction and to levy a tax without a district referendum, challenged the board to charge him with misconduct if his inquiries had been wrong.

Board Member Donald Lyons said Sifford was wrong in asking employees questions about operations and then instructing the employees: "Don't tell your boss I was here."

Board Member Dewain Townsend said Sifford's method of inquiry was wrong.

And Board Member James Corbit said "...you have the right to criticize board members, and others have the right to criticize you."

The board took no action on Sifford's statement or his challenge.

The board also gave band teachers and band boosters permission to seek invitations to perform at national events such as the Kentucky Derby and the Indianapolis 500 race.

Authority to attend such events would be subject to board approval after financing had been worked out.

The board also ordered an end to non-essential field trips on which buses are used until split sessions are ended at the high school.

WAX PLANT REBUILT: New Taylor Wax Processing Co. plant, California road, New Troy, is expected to begin operating this week, according to Wayne Krieger, who owns plant with wife, Blanche. Sept. 9, 1975 fire destroyed plant (rebuilt at same location) causing estimated $300,000 damage to building and contents, Krieger said. He said new 12,000-square-foot plant was built by Hollman and Roe Builders, Stevensville, at estimated cost of $150,000. Gradual phase in of replacement equipment is planned, he said. In addition to Krieger and wife, plant employed three people at time of fire. Krieger expects initial operation to employ three, with possible addition of two more people in near future. Writ Holds Up Zoning Action

A preliminary injunction was issued Monday in Berrien Circuit court prohibiting the Village of Berrien Springs from enforcing a zoning ordinance against the owner of an adult foster care home.

But the injunction entered by Judge William S. White also prohibits the owner, Daniel Cristancho, from enlarging the facility at 362 Washington street or increasing the number of residents during the pendency of the case.

Cristancho filed the suit earlier this month asking that the zoning ordinance affecting his foster care home be declared null and void. The dispute between Cristancho and the village began last summer when Cristancho sought a building permit to expand the home.

The village claims Cristancho is operating a commercial venture in a residential area, but Cristancho contends recent license rulings in Michigan classify foster care homes of the type he operates as residential entities. He previously said he cares for six full-time residents and one person on a temporary basis.

Dowagiac's Council Sets Goblin Hours

DOWAGIAC — In one of its briefest meetings of the year, the Dowagiac city council last night set Halloween trick-or-treat hours and reappointed two men to the zoning board of appeals.

During the five-minute meeting, the council set trick-or-treat hours for 6 to 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 30. City Manager Henry Graper Jr. urged children to stop only at houses that have porch lights on.

In the only other item of business, the council reappointed Robert Howe, 404 West High street, and Joseph Gebhard, Hillcrest apartments, to three year terms on the zoning board of appeals.

Andrews Gains Accreditation

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The department of chemistry at Andrews university here has received accreditation from the American Chemical society (ACS), according to Dr. Dwain L. Ford, dean of the college of arts and sciences. The announcement of accreditation from the ACS headquarters in Washington, D.C. bring AU's total number of such endorsements to seven.

U.S. Health Bill Is Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even without national health insurance, Americans will be paying well over $220 billion per year for health care by 1980, according to a government-funded study.

The study also found relatively little difference in cost among the national health insurance plans being proposed by organized labor, physicians, hospitals, the insurance industry and other interest groups.

To Seek UN Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Outgoing President Luis Echeverria of Mexico is running for election to a five-year term as United Nations secretary-general starting Jan. 1. His candidacy was announced Monday by Mexican Ambassador Roberto de Rosenzweig Diaz.

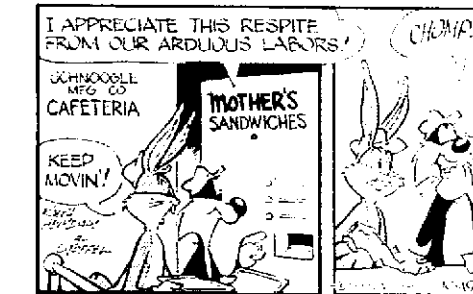

Library's In A 'Fine' Mess

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — The Monroe County Library System is in a "fine" mess, administrators claim, because state troopers from these towns have been patrolling Detroit freeways. Library System Director Bernje Margolis said a $177,551 drop in library income is at least in part attributable to the reassignment of troopers from the Flat Rock and Erie Michigan State Police posts. The State Constitution provides that fines levied for violations of state laws be used to fund Michigan libraries. Half the Monroe County system's budget comes from such fines. Due to its location in extreme southeastern Michigan, Monroe County's stretch of Interstate 75 is heavily traveled by commercial trucks, and therefore collects fines levied on overweight trucks. Also, since there are few local speed ordinances in the county, most speeding infractions there violate state law.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Extends Its Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices headed up today extending their recent gains into a third session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead fractionally and advanced led declines about 4 to 3 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Much of the market's recent momentum stems from hopes that the Federal Reserve may loosen its credit policies in order to stimulate economic activity, brokers said.

Today, the Commerce Department reported that real gross national product, the value of the nation's goods and services adjusted for inflation, rose at a 4 per cent rate in the third quarter, marking a slowdown from the 9.2 per cent growth rate in the first quarter and the 4.5 per cent growth rate in the second. But price increases in the third quarter slowed to 4.4 per cent from 5.2 per cent the quarter before, it said.

Brokers also said the market's two-day gains may inspire some confidence among investors who have watched its sharp recent three-week slide.

Early prices included General Motors, up 1/8 to 71 1/2; U.S. Steel, off 1/4 to 47 1/2; and Bethlehem Steel, off 1/8 to 37.

Volume was light 15.71 million shares.

The NYSE composite index of all stocks listed on the Big Board added 31 to 54.21.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .25 to 98.46.

Trash Fire Quelled At Vail Rubber

St. Joseph firemen were at Vail Rubber Works, Inc., 521 Langley avenue, for nearly two hours this morning battling a blaze in a trash container outside the plant.

Firemen reported most of the damage was confined to the trash container and to a loading dock area. There was minor damage to the exterior of the building. Firefighters responded to the scene about 3:35 a.m. after heat from the fire set off a sprinkler-alarm system inside the building.

Employees were working at the plant at the time of the fire, but no one was injured. An immediate cause of the fire was not determined and an investigation will continue.

BERRIEN SPRINGS

Council Approves Planning For Grant

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs village council last night voted to proceed with engineering work needed for an application for a federal grant.

The amount of the grant being sought under the public works act has not yet been determined.

The engineering work will cost an estimated $8,000 and will involve an environmental study and preliminary drawings for improvements to the village's water system. The work is to be done by William & Works Engineering firm of Grand Rapids.

Proposed improvements are larger water lines on Snow road, Bluff street and Shawnee road; a well in Berrien township, and two miles of transmission lines from the well to the village.

Originally, Berrien Springs

had planned to seek funds for sewage construction and street improvements, but dropped these proposals because of the high engineering costs involved.

"We will need to have the engineering done for the water system even if we don't get the grant," said Cleon Reitz, works manager. Engineering costs make the other projects "too much of a gamble."

In other areas, Charles Niblick, sewage plant supervisor, requested the council approve purchase of a three-horsepower sump pump to replace the present inadequate half-horsepower model.

The council voted to purchase a pump, which can be mounted on the surface. This will make maintenance easier and will eliminate any danger from poisonous sewer gases during servicing.

The pump, sold by Krum Pump Co., Kalamazoo, costs $1,588. Krum is the only dealer in the state which sells the Gorman-Rupp pump.

The council agreed to investigate prices for a standby generator so that at least one well may be kept in operation in case of a power outage.

The portable generator could be used alternately to pump water and to run the sewage lift stations, according to L. W. (Bud) Priddy, water supervisor.

Because of numerous complaints about dogs running loose or barking, the council decided to call the county dog warden whenever a complaint is received.

The council also noted that many people are not burning their leaves, although it is permitted this year. Leaves may be burned anywhere but on the pavement. Unburned leaves will be picked up by the village.

Kaywood Contract Ratified

Some 225 union employees of the Kaywood Division, Joanna Western Mills Co., Benton Harbor, ratified a three-year contract last week that contains increased wage and insurance benefits, according to union and company officials.

"I'm very satisfied with the outcome" of the negotiations, said Don Majors, president of Local 990, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (AFL-CIO).

"We've reached an agreement that will be advantageous to all concerned and the attitude and efforts put forth at the bargaining table were all very positive," said John Andrews, assistant to General Manager R.J. Beckmann.

Andrews and Majors said the new contract was reached without a strike. The new contract contains increases in hourly wages, cost of living, insurance coverages and pension plans. The addition of Good Friday increases the number of paid holidays from 10 to 11, they said.

The old contract expired Oct. 12 and the new document was ratified Oct. 13, they said. They declined to discuss specifics of the wage and insurance increases.

At the Kaywood plant, 1225 Milton, Benton Harbor, items manufactured include lowered shutters and window shades, Andrews said.

Put Police On The List

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Police Officers Association has added its name to the list of groups supporting passage of a city advisory vote on casino gambling. The DPOA endorsement of the gambling idea was revealed in the current issue of "Tenor", the police union's newsletter. Detroit residents will vote Nov. 2 on whether they favor the idea of state-regulated gambling casinos within the city, a proposal sponsored by State Rep. Cusmer Ogonowski, D-Detroit, as a way to put more money into state coffers. The referendum will be strictly advisory, however, with the Michigan legislature having the final say-so on the gambling idea. Also supporting the plan are the Detroit AFL-CIO, the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Travel Bureau, and the Central Business District Association.

Firms Deny Boycott Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many American companies identified as participants in the Arab boycott of Israel are complaining that they are frequent trading partners with the nation they supposedly are boycotting.

The Commerce Department released Monday the names of American companies involved in 59 transactions with Arab nations since Oct. 7. That was the day President Ford announced his decision henceforth to reveal the names of American companies participating in the boycott.

The materials claimed that some of America's largest corporations — Citibank of New York, Bank of America of San Francisco, McGraw-Hill International, James Beam Distilling Co., Kayser-Roth Corp., White-Westinghouse and Deere and Co. — have satisfied the Arabs that they have complied with the boycott.

But as the companies listed learned of their status, many began issuing denials.

"The party who is supposed to be boycotting Israel is as Jewish as Golda Meir, and that's me. Now how could I boycott Israel?" said Joe R. Gerson, president of Gerson International of Fort Wayne, Ind.

"It happens there is absolutely not one iota, not one particle of truth in it."

Gerson said his export company deals with a number of countries that have restrictive trade clauses, such as an Arab requirement that goods not be shipped in vessels calling at Israeli ports. They do not affect him and he would not comply with them if they did, he said.

"All we do as an independent export management company is report these clauses to the U.S. government in accordance with U.S. government regulations. In no way do we comply."

A spokesman for Deere and Co., a tractor manufacturer which traded with Saudi Arabia, said, "We sell to both Israel and Arab countries and have for many years and intend to continue doing so. To the best of our knowledge, we are not boycotting any organization or any nation."

Another company, Kremers-Urban International Corp., a drug maker, said through a spokesman: "We have never knowingly participated in the boycott of Israel or any other country. I think it is erroneous to assume that the list is that of people who have participated in the boycott."

The Commerce Department documents show that in nearly all cases the U.S. firms indicated they had complied with the boycott requests. In a few, the companies said other parties to the transaction would have to make the decision on the boycott. In no case, did a company say it refused to comply.

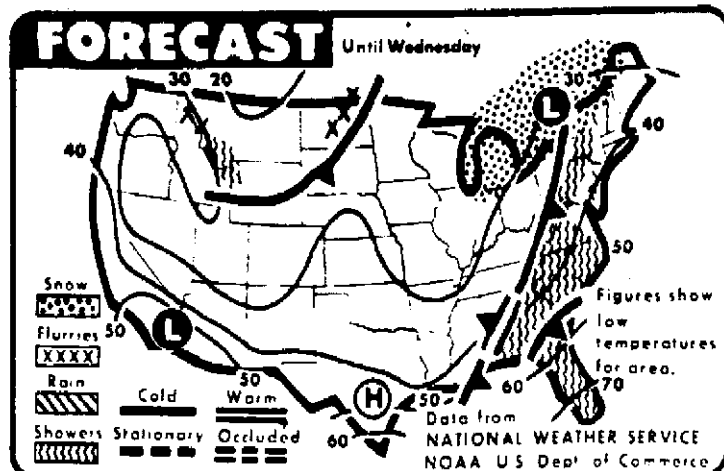

Part of the confusion may stem from the nature of the Arab boycott. A Congressional committee earlier this year reported that it is often loosely enforced and its terms vary from country to country. Only rarely does it require a company to avoid all business with Israel.

Companies trading with Qatar, for example, were required to state that their products were not made in Israel or made with Israeli raw materials. Saudi Arabia required a longer statement, including a proviso that the ship which carried the goods did not call at an Israeli port.

In Baghdad, a conference of 15 boycotting nations opened Monday with threats that the boycott would be made more stringent in the face of what Arab states perceive as American efforts to destroy it.

Baghdad radio, monitored in Beirut, said the conference will discuss collective action by Arab states to "counter pro-Zionist legislation" being considered by the U.S. government against the boycott.

"The conference also will consider fresh action to tighten economic boycott strategy against Israel," Baghdad radio said.

ANNUAL MEETING

Van Buren Fair Has Thin Profit Margin

LAWRENCE — Despite a small drop in attendance, gate receipts at this year's Van Buren youth fair increased slightly. Figures announced at last night's annual fair board meeting here placed gate receipts at $84,411, up about $600 from the 1975 figure of $83,823.

Total fair receipts were announced as $100,742, with expenditures of $89,071, leaving a profit of $11,671. Attendance, announced previously at 44,960, dropped from the 1975 record of 47,500. Mrs. Helen Tinker, board secretary, said the decline was offset by an increase in adult ticket prices, which were raised from $1.50 to $2.

Basil Chinnard, Bangor, Duane Castor, Covert, and Graham Brimhall Jr., Hartford, were re-elected to three-year terms on the fair board.

Bill Lawrence, Paw Paw, was elected to a fourth available three-year term on the board. Also re-elected were Castor as board president; M.J. Conklin, vice president; Mrs. Tinker, secretary; and Clyde Hunt, treasurer. Conklin and Castor will again serve as co-managers at the fair.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Extends Its Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices headed up today extending their recent gains into a third session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead fractionally and advances led declines about 4 to 3 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Much of the market's recent momentum stems from hopes that the Federal Reserve may loosen its credit policies in order to stimulate economic activity, brokers said.

Today, the Commerce Department reported that real gross national product, the value of the nation's goods and services adjusted for inflation, rose at a 4 per cent rate in the third quarter, marking a slowdown from the 9.2 per cent growth rate in the first quarter and the 4.5 per cent growth rate in the second. But price increases in the third quarter slowed to 4.4 per cent from 5.2 per cent the quarter before, it said.

Brokers also said the market's two-day gains may inspire some confidence among investors who have watched its sharp recent three-week slide.

Early prices included General Motors, up 1/4 to 71 1/4; U.S. Steel, off 1/4 to 47 1/2; and Bethlehem Steel, off 1/4 to 37.

In Monday's trading, the Dow average climbed 9.56 to 946.56 and gainers doubled declines among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Volume was light 15.71 million shares.

The NYSE composite index of all stocks listed on the Big Board added .31 to 54.21.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .25 to 98.46.

Trash Fire Quelled At Vail Rubber

St. Joseph firemen were at Vail Rubber Works, Inc., 521 Langley avenue, for nearly two hours this morning battling a blaze in a trash container outside the plant.

Firemen reported most of the damage was confined to the trash container and to a loading dock area. There was minor damage to the exterior of the building. Firefighters responded to the scene about 3:35 a.m. after heat from the fire set off a sprinkler-alarm system inside the building.

Employees were working at the plant at the time of the fire, but no one was injured. An immediate cause of the fire was not determined and an investigation will continue.

BERRIEN SPRINGS

Council Approves Planning For Grant

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs village council last night voted to proceed with engineering work needed for an application for a federal grant.

The amount of the grant being sought under the public works act has not yet been determined.

The engineering work will cost an estimated $8,000 and will involve an environmental study and preliminary drawings for improvements to the village's water system. The work is to be done by William & Works Engineering firm of Grand Rapids.

Proposed improvements are larger water lines on Snow road, Bluff street and Shawnee road; a well in Berrien township; and two miles of transmission lines from the well to the village.

Originally, Berrien Springs

had planned to seek funds for sewage construction and street improvements, but dropped these proposals because of the high engineering costs involved.

"We will need to have the engineering done for the water system even if we don't get the grant," said Cleon Reitz, works manager, engineering costs make the other projects "too much of a gamble."

In other areas, Charles Niblick, sewage plant supervisor, requested the council approve purchase of a three-horsepower pump to replace the present inadequate half-horsepower model.

The council voted to purchase a pump, which can be mounted on the surface. This will make maintenance easier and will eliminate any danger from poisonous sewer gases during servicing.

The pump, sold by Krum Pump Co., Kalamazoo, costs $1,593. Krum is the only dealer in the state which sells the Gorman-Rupp pump.

The council agreed to investigate prices for a standby generator so that at least one well may be kept in operation in case of a power outage.

The portable generator could be used alternately to pump water and to run the sewage lift stations, according to L. W. (Bud) Priddy, water supervisor.

Because of numerous complaints about dogs running loose or barking, the council decided to call the county dog warden whenever a complaint is received.

The council also noted that many people are not burning their leaves, although it is permitted this year. Leaves may be burned anywhere but on the pavement. Unburned leaves will be picked up by the village.

Kaywood Contract Ratified

Some 225 union employees of the Kaywood Division, Joanna Western Mills Co., Benton Harbor, ratified a three-year contract last week that contains increased wage and insurance benefits, according to union and company officials.

"I'm very satisfied with the outcome" of the negotiations, said Don Majors, president of Local 940, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (AFL-CIO).

"We've reached an agreement that will be advantageous to all concerned and the attitude and efforts put forth at the bargaining table were all very positive," said John Andrews, assistant to General Manager R.J. Beckmann.

Andrews and Majors said the new contract was reached without a strike. The new contract contains increases in hourly wages, cost of living, insurance coverages and pension plans. The addition of Good Friday increases the number of paid holidays from 10 to 11, they said.

The old contract expired Oct. 12 and the new document was ratified Oct. 13, they said. They declined to discuss specifics of the wage and insurance increases.

At the Kaywood plant, 1225 Milton, Benton Harbor, items manufactured include louvered shutters and window shades, Andrews said.

Put Police On The List

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Police Officers Association has added its name to the list of groups supporting passage of a city advisory vote on casino gambling. The DPOA endorsement of the gambling idea was revealed in the current issue of "Teubor", the police union's newsletter. Detroit residents will vote Nov. 2 on whether they favor the idea of state-regulated gambling casinos within the city, a proposal sponsored by State Rep. Casmer Ozonowski, D-Detroit, as a way to put more money into state coffers. The referendum will be strictly advisory, however, with the Michigan legislature having the final say-so on the gambling idea. Also supporting the plan are the Detroit AFL-CIO, the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Travel Bureau, and the Central Business District Association.

Firms Deny Boycott Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many American companies identified as participants in the Arab boycott of Israel are complaining that they are frequent trading partners with the nation they supposedly are boycotting.

The Commerce Department released Monday the names of American companies involved in 59 transactions with Arab nations since Oct. 7. That was the day President Ford announced his decision henceforth to reveal the names of American companies participating in the boycott.

The materials claimed that some of America's largest corporations — Citibank of New York, Bank of America of San Francisco, McGraw-Hill International, James Beam Distilling Co., Kayser-Roth Corp., White-Westinghouse and Deere and Co. — have satisfied the Arabs that they have complied with the boycott.

But as the companies listed learned of their status, many began issuing denials.

"The party who is supposed to be boycotting Israel is as Jewish as Golda Meir, and that's me. Now how could I boycott Israel?" said Joe R. Gerson, president of Gerson International of Fort Wayne, Ind.

"It happens there is absolutely not one iota, not one particle of truth in it."

Gerson said his export company deals with a number of countries that have restrictive trade clauses, such as an Arab requirement that goods not be shipped in vessels calling at Israeli ports. They do not affect him and he would not comply with them if they did, he said.

"All we do as an independent export management company is report these clauses to the U.S. government in accordance with U.S. government regulations. In no way do we comply."

A spokesman for Deere and Co., a tractor manufacturer which traded with Saudi Arabia, said, "We sell to both Israel and Arab countries and have for many years and intend to continue doing so. To the best of our knowledge, we are not boycotting any organization or any nation."

Another company, Kremers Urban International Corp., a drug maker, said through a spokesman: "We have never knowingly participated in the boycott of Israel or any other country. I think it is erroneous to assume that the list is that of people who have participated in the boycott."

The Commerce Department documents show that in nearly all cases the U.S. firms indicated they had complied with the boycott requests. In a few, the companies said other parties to the transaction would have to make the decision on the boycott. In no case, did a company say it refused to comply.

Hartford Clerk Race Now 2-Way

HARTFORD — Hartford Mayor Wayne D. Nelson, who is on the Nov. 2 election ballot as a candidate for city clerk, has announced he is no longer an active candidate for the one-year clerk's post.

His announced withdrawal from the three-way race came too late, however, for his name to be removed from the non-partisan election ballot. He said he would not accept the post if elected.

The other two candidates for clerk are Vivian DeMorrow, of 108 Paras Hill drive, and Marjorie J. Moore, of 407 Prospect street.

Nelson said he would not endorse either of the other candidates.

He said he decided to withdraw from the clerk's race after accepting a job last month as assistant controller at the Van Buren State bank in Hartford.

"The position was offered to me, and I felt the long-term benefits were such that I really couldn't refuse that job," said Nelson, explaining why he is no longer seeking the full-time clerk's post.

The Hartford city council sets the clerk's salary each year. This year it was set at $7,800. The part-time mayor's post pays $20 a meeting.

Nelson said that even if he wins the election next month, he will refuse to take the oath of office for clerk and will continue serving as mayor. His term as mayor has one more year to run.
